Heifer sells at $32,200

BY SHEILA MILLER

LANCASTER — There was excitement in the air at the Thursday afternoon sale at Melvin Kolb, Inc,'s sale barn when an Osborndale Ivanhoe daughter sold for $32,200.

The price was one of the highest prices ever paid for a Holstein heifer, which according to Park Myers may be the highest paid in Lancaster County this year.

The high-priced heifer sold to Strouse and Neer Associates, a syndicate out of Centre Hall. The contending bidder on the Ivanhoe daughter was Dean Franz, Minnesota.

Myers explained Howes Ivanhoe Nora was an embryo transplant out of an excellent cow, a Roybrook Telstar daughter, that sold for $40,000 in Wisconsin. This cow has made over 20,000 pounds milk since her lactation as a four year old.

And, going back one more generation, the second dam, a very good Thornlea Texal Supreme daughter, had a record of 110,650 pounds in six lactations, with 4500 pounds milkfat.

The heifer, born March 4, 1978, is in calf to Pawnee Farm Arlinda Chief.

The second high selling heifer is a product of an embryo transfer from another $40,000 dam. Her mother is an excellent cow by Fond Matt with a five-year-old lactation record of 21,500 pounds milk, and 887 pounds fat. She was sold at the 1976 World Premiere Sale.

Miss Pinehurst is a February 20, 1978 heifer by Roybrook Starlite. She is in calf to Plushanski Persuader.

The heifer sold to William Ile of Newburg for $15,100.

There were a total of 244 head sold at the Thursday sale, with a sale average of $2100.

Holly Milk Co-op stages official open house

BY CURT HARLER

MT. HOLLY SPRINGS — Most farmers and farm businesses welcome friends and neighbors to tour new buildings or setups once things get rolling.

The Holly Milk Cooperative, owned by members of Inter-State Milk Producers' Cooperative and the Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers, Inc., is no different. It opened its doors Thursday so farmers, dignitaries, and members of the press could tour the plant during the day-long open house.

The Holly Milk Cooperative's processing plant is designed to convert as much as two million pounds of milk per day into skim milk powder, whole milk powder, or butter.

On hand to tour the plant were representatives of the Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Delaware Departments of Agriculture.

In addition, many members both of Inter-State and MCMP swelled the group which toured the plant.

It is the dairymen-members of the Holly Co-op venture who stand to gain the most from the plant's operations.

The logic behind the plant is to provide a weekend destination for milk produced on area farms.

With the coming of 40 and 35 hours workweeks, many milk processors were limiting operation time to five, even four, days. This

Agri-Women hear pro-pesticide talk

BY PAT KAUFFMAN

HERSHEY — "There's no such thing as a safe poison, only safe ways to use it," remarked Leavitt S. White, Dupont Chemical Representative.

"What Agri-Women are doing in hearings can be extremely important to the farmer," he stated.

White addressed Penn's Agri-Women members Thursday. In his address to the group, White emphasized the need to develop and use good public relations tactics in dealing with farm-community problems.

Citing examples of problems arising from public concern over the use of certain pesticides, White urged members to use force of fact to influence public opinion. He urged members to present themselves as they are, mothers with children and families who live with and use the pesticides and who are living proof of their safety.

"Opposing groups are often very well organized, they know for instance that the press works on a tight schedule, and where the press table at a hearing is. They produce printed copies of their testimony and place them conveniently on the press table. Naturally, a reporter with limited time and many daily assignments will welcome this. The result is very often that much of what is handed to a reporter ends up in his story."

Therefore, White stressed the need for farm groups to think public relations. Neat

Welfare farms' dispersal batted around on Hill

BY DICK WANNER

HARRISBURG — The week's biggest legislative story was, of course, the fight in the House to stop cash grants to 81,000 able-bodied welfare recipients. A number of pieces of farm legislation, meanwhile, languished.

But as one observer noted, "If we get that welfare legislation passed, farmers can celebrate along with everybody else."

On Wednesday, the Capitol Building was bursting at the seams with welfare rights demonstrators and touring school children Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell striding through the Capitol rotunda seemed hardly aware of the boisterous crowd. He had his own concerns with the Department of Welfare, concerns which he was preparing to discuss that night over dinner.

On Monday, Welfare Secretary Helen O'Bannon announced that the Department of Public Welfare was going ahead with a plan to phase out the department's institutional farming programs. Furlough notices were prepared for the 141 full-time state employees who operate

Dairymen hear latest management tips

Dairy Herd Conference

BY SALLY BAIR

STATE COLLEGE — About 180 Pennsylvania dairymen attending the Dairy Herd Management Conference Thursday and Friday at Penn State received in-depth information on the nutritional needs of the dairy herd and learned specifics of raising dairy herd replacements

Calling Total Mixed Rations 'an exciting concept whose time has come" Darwin Braund, director of dairy and livestock research for Agway, explained that TMR is the blending of grain and forage, balancing it for nutrient content, and offering it free choice.

Braund said allowing dairy cows to decide for themselves what they will eat can be economically detrimental, since many cows will wait for their preferred forage although all forages offered may be of excellent quality

In TMR each bite is balanced and the cow decides how much she will eat and how often she will eat. Braund called it a casserole for cows which is ready for them to eat when the spirit moves them

Traditional methods of feeding, according to Braund, mean that grain feeding precision is limited because farmers can't accurately predict the forage intake of individual animals

Lancaster Dairy Day

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

LANCASTER — A large standing-room-only crowd of 450 farmers heard first-hand reports on mastitis problems, including one new to Pennsylvania for which there is no treatment, at Lancaster County Dairy Day on Tuesday.

Individual experiences with treating and overcoming mastitis were outlined by three dairymen, including Donald Ranck, Paradise, on staph and strep; David Windle, Cochranville, on coliform; and Jay Frey, Washington Boro, on mycoplasma.

(Additional information on the Dairy Day program appears on pages 21 & 22.)

Discussing mycoplasma, Frey, manager of Turkey Hill Dairy, spoke of some of the unique difficulties encountered with this new type, which has been associated with large dairy herds in California for the past five years.

This new type doesn't respond to normal antibiotic treatment and can't even be detected in regular culture tests, Frey said.

"The only way to get it out of our herd was to sell the animals," Frey said.

"The cost was 200 cows, about one-third of the herd, with a high percentage of fresh cows and heifers milking over 100 lbs. a day.

"We sent the culture

Probing your dairy farm for better profits.

As the nutritional content of your cows' forage goes, so goes your milk yield and its profitability That's why this forage sampling is vital to your farm It catches the changes in nutritional content from one of your crops to another from one of your fields to another even from one set of weather conditions to another In short, it spots any nutritional over- or under-balance so you can do something about it

This forage sampling is a vital part of the Pennfield Computerized Total Ration Service And here's how it works 1. We collect samples of your forage 2. Then we evaluate the quality of your forages We determine the total digestible nutrients The fiber content The protein content The amount of carbohydrates 3. The computer quickly spots any nutrients lacking in the forage For your milking cows And for your dry cows It immediately points out the overfeeding of nutrients Underfeeding, too

J Shephard Wolff, of Valley Acres Farm RD #1 Newmansville Pa reviews forage sampling operation with Penn Pro Gene Schlosnagle while (inset) Mike Thomas Supervisor of Quality Control analyzes another forage sample in Pennfield's in-house laboratory

Both, of course, may be different at different times of the year And the printout will tell you what you need And when 4. Your Penn Pro Professional advises you on the quantity and type of nutrients that should be added, to balance your total feeding program to your cows' nutritional requirements 5. The result can be increased milk production at the lowest possible feed cost

The Pennfield Computer Total Ration Service could bring on your greatest growth act In your milk yield And your profits

Omaha Cattle

Thursday, March 6

Through midweek, Slaughter Steers and Heifers were 1.50-2 00 higher, although much of the advance was gained in a forced trade on storm-shortened midweek supplies and late demand was quite dull in reflection of an unresponsive carcass trade. Cows were firm to .50 higher and bulls firm. A modest supply two-way feeder steers sold .50-1.50 higher.

Four day receipts this week: 12,500; Last week; 14,600; Year ago: 10,600.

The price advance on fed cattle was partially supported by higher carcass prices early, but midweek demand for carcass beef was reported as light to moderate. Much of the upturn in live prices was registered at midweek as blizzard conditions across the trade territory slowed livestock movement and buyers were forced to compete for numbers Mud was still a major price-determining factor, but the average weight of steers was somewhat lighter and there was also some decrease in the percentage of yield grade 4 Slaughter Steers made up approximately 44 pct and Heifers 32 pct Cows comprised 12 pct and Feeders 10 pct

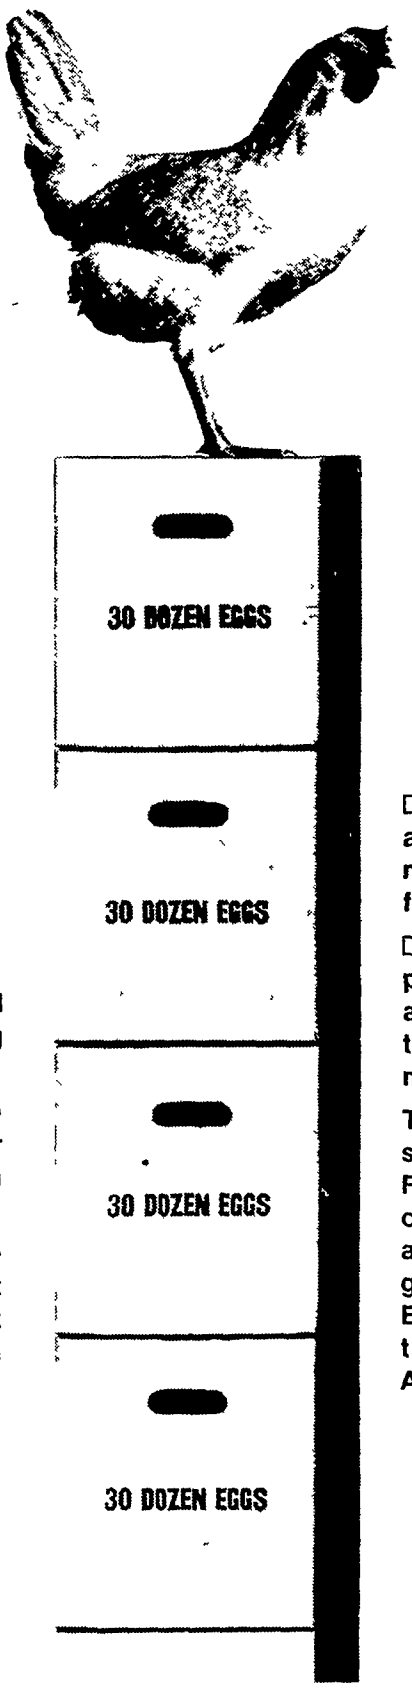
AGWAY HIGH LAYER FEEDS



Practical application of the DNI concept that lifts your flock to higher production on less feed.

Here are sound reasons—backed by Agway research—for feeding High Layer:

☐ Daily Nutrient Intake (DNI) feeding eliminates the need for changing energy levels each spring and fall.

☐ With High Layer feeds, the energy level remains constant throughout the year. Hens adjust their energy intake by consuming more or less feed.

☐ The poultryman simply matches the feed to the amount of intake. There is no need to overfeed expensive protein to meet energy requirements.

☐ At every energy level, the DNI approach considers the total nutritional needs of your laying flock.

☐ New High Layer contains the proper amount of protein (amino acids), calcium and phosphorus to insure proper nutrition and maximum production.

The High Layer line consists of seven feeds and a concentrate. For details about the possibilities of increased production through a tailored Agway feeding program, talk to your Agway Poultry Enterprise Serviceperson. Contact him through your local Agway store or representative.

Lancaster Farming says...

Beware still-born thinking

The absence of an alcohol producing still at the opening of the 1980 Farm Equipment Exposition was more than a vexation to visitors

It was a prime example of bureaucracy at its worst

The presence of the still had been promoted by the Farm Show, the Agriculture Department, and several other groups Indeed, for many visitors it was a "must see "

In these days of one fuel crisis after another, the exhibit had an air of patriotism, a way to beat the Arabs with good old Yankee ingenuity

It featured timely technology It was educational

It was of interest to farmers and other energy-buffs across the state

At the ribbon cutting, State Representative Noah Wenger had hailed the Expo as an opportunity to see innovations in energy production.

All of this contributed to the confusion of Expo guests who wandered around the Farm Show building Thursday looking for this major attraction

It wasn't there

The state Liquor Control Board would not allow Martin Distributors to set up their still because they said Martins did not have tne necessary permit

One might have thought LCB would have recognized the sentiments of the public and state legislature after the Horst incident In that case, the lawmakers took less than 30 days to set right the problems created by a similarly narrow-minded interpretation of the liquor law

But the survival of any bureaucracy depends on its protection of what it sees as its turf And if it contains C_2H_5OH in its chemical makeup, LCB wants a say in what goes on

As it turns out, Martins had applied for the needed paperwork Frantic phone calls by the Ag Department managed to cut some of the red tape The still was set up on time for the final days of Expo

LCB gained nothing but bad PR for its efforts No moonshiners were put out of circulation

But sizable numbers of Expo guests missed learning It demonstrated to the disadvantage of all another case where the 'spirit' was not strong enough to overcome the letter of the law

Get a big return for farm deposits

The days of "no deposit no return" are numbered And starting this month a major U.S farm chemical manufacturer is hopping on the anti-litter bandwagon

Farmers long have decried the mess from non-returnable bottles and cans which litter every farm's roadfront footage In addition to soda and beer cans, farm chemical containers often are found in the rubble along the fencerow

Federal laws mandating safe disposal of chemical containers have placed a heavy burden on the farmer Most local dumps or landfills want nothing to do with chemical waste of any sort, including the minor contribution a farmer would make

The containers certainly are useless once they have been emptied Only a fool would refill a used container and risk contamination of whatever was put into it

Now Monsanto Agricultural Products Co has come up with a returnable herbicide drum, primarily for use with Lasso

The firm will give farmers a $20 rebate for each drum returned in good condition to the dealer After acceptance by dealers, the drums will be shipped to a designated reclaimer by Monsanto distributors

Unfortunately, the program applies only to 55 gallon drums of one material But it does represent a start in the right direction

We would encourage all chemical manufacturers to offer similar rebates, or deposits, on any pesticide container they send out to the farm

We can see no reason why such a program could not be just as successful in encouraging container returns as those run by local milk juggers or cider bottlers

There would be a small burden shared by chemical dealers and farmers in getting containers back to the proper location But the program should outweigh the small inconvenience of an added stop on a trip to town

It would eliminate wasteful remanufacture of thousands of containers each year It would assist farmers in the disposal of hazardous containers It would slash the odds of children or livestock being poisoned

In sum, it's a big return for a small deposit

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

JUDAS ISCARIOT

Lesson for March 9, 1980

Background Scripture:
John 12:3-6; 13:21-30; 18: 1-8.
Devotional Reading
John 15:1-11.

It was that "money box" that was the undoing of Judas Iscariot! Jesus had chosen Judas to be the keeper of the disciples' funds, but instead of Judas managing the money, it seems that the money managed him

We must assume that Judas was not born a villain, but that he became one. When Jesus called this man to him, he no doubt saw something in him that would be helpful to him in his mission. Jesus probably admired his ability to take care of money. Some people seem to be talented in the handling of funds and Judas was likely one of these. So, Judas was not doomed to become a traitor, but in time he doomed himself as he allowed money to distort his perspectives.

Satan Entered Him

We see some indication of this in the fact that the disciples of Jesus seemed not to suspect Judas of being a thief until after he had demonstrated his treachery by betraying the Master. Even at the Last Supper they do not suspect him when, in response to Jesus' "What you are going to do, do quickly," he abruptly leaves the Upper Room. John tells us: "Some though that, because Judas had the money box, Jesus was telling him, 'Buy what we need for the feast'; or that he should give something to the poor" (13:29). Jesus alone seemed to know what had happened within Judas

"So," says John, "after receiving the morsel, he immediately went out; and it was night" (13:30). It was only after he had eaten the morsel that, according to John, "Satan entered into him" (13:27). But, as John himself has previously indicated, Judas was already a thief, and we can only conclude that it was not the first time that "Satan entered into him. Judas and Satan had already formed an alliance of sorts — not that Judas necessarily knew it. But his preoccupation with material wealth had allowed Satan entry into his life on many occasions, so that his final betrayal of his friend and Master was but the logical conclusion that followed the course he had already chosen.

With A Kiss

One cannot play with evil without paying a price If we allow weeds to infest a small corner of our garden, we can hardly be surprised if the weeds begin to take over the whole thing. If we open the door to one kind of corruption or wrong-doing, we will usually find that a whole troop of corrupting influences manages to slip inside while the door is open.

That distance from putting one's hand in the till to betraying the Master with a kiss is not so great as we might imagine. Our preoccupation with money and material things may seem a harmless enough defection, but how many of us have been led astray — or nearly — because we have allowed ourselves to become captive to the very things that are given to us to manage?

NOW IS THE TIME

TO EVALUATE AN ADVERTISEMENT

In the Feb 16 issue of Lancaster Farming there appeared an advertisement of a soil innoculant. The ad reported on the results of testing this material at Penn State University In the Feb. 23 issue there appeared a "Letter to the Editor" from Dr. Dale E. Baker, Agronomy Chemist at Penn State, who was in charge of this research project. The interpretation of these results do not agree between the ad and Dr Baker. I'd strongly suggest that all readers study Dr Baker's letter. After that evaluation, farmers and gardeners can make their own decision relating to the merits of the material.

TO TOP-DRESS PASTURES

Areas that are in permanent pasture will respond well to additional fertilizer On many farms this area cannot be used for crops, this does not mean that it cannot be productive On straight grass pastures applications of a 10-10-10 fertilizer will make a big difference. In pastures with considerable clover fertilizer such as 0-20-20 will increase grazing capacity. Some livestock farmers will treat only part of an area early in the spring to produce grazing several weeks earlier than the balance of the field. Just because a tract of land is permanent pasture is no reason that it cannot be productive.

TO BE WARY OF LIQUID MANURE PITS

The time is here when many manure pits will be emptied on the fields. This by-product of the livestock

Cattle firm head sees future in domestic, not foreign, areas

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — The Soviet grain embargo should warn American farmers and ranchers they must not rely on foreign markets as a panacea for the problems of agribusiness, says Ronald Jarvis.

"We have just learned that farm produce, like oil, may be used as a political weapon, and we have little more control over it than we have over foreign oil," says the president of Oppenheimer Industries. "Ironically, as producers we must free ourselves of over-dependence on foreign markets just as we must reduce our dependence on foreign oil."

To accomplish this, he contends, U.S. agriculture must confront the problems of dependence on fossil fuels, inefficient scale of operations, and a tendency to continue uneconomic practices, such as growing crops that are traditional but not profitable and returning to on-farm feeding as a means of economic procrastination in periods of low grain prices.

"Farm managers have deferred important decisions for years because prices have been bolstered by expanding exports," says Jarvis. "But not it's time to face reality. The closing of the Boards of Trade in January changed all the rules. The marketplace may never again be the same as we've known it."

Jarvis recommends that farm managers begin a critical evaluation of the use of inefficient field equipment, transportation systems, high-energy fertilizers and other oil-consuming products from the perspective of cost-price ratios.

He asks, for example, "Is it always wise to use gas-fired grain dryers or could on-farm residue gasification be more economical and decrease our high-cost oil dependence?"

He predicts that farm and ranch operations will slowly become increasingly concentrated "in the hands of the most efficient. More and more small operations will fail, to be picked up by neighboring units," he says.

"True production economics and sound business analysis must become the basis for all agricultural decision," Jarvis declares. "America's food-producing capabilities are too vital a national, and world, asset to be jeopardized by unsound management practices. We must expand our foreign markets as much as possible but always remember that political changes can temporarily disrupt the system."

You keep milk production up and feed costs down with our dairy pre-mixes.

Wouldn't you like to put some of that money you spend on commercial protein supplements in your own pocket?

That's the goal behind an alfalfa, grain and Vigortone Dairy Pre-Mix feeding program. It helps you take maximum advantage of the protein and energy already in your home-grown feedstuffs.

And legume roughage is a good source of protein; but it's low in phosphorus and other nutrients so important to the needs of all dairy cows.

That's where Vigortone Dairy Pre-Mixes help. These potent pre-mixes are specially formulated for the feeds grown on your farm and contain the proper amount of phosphorus to balance the calcium content of your legume roughages.

Vigortone Dairy Pre-Mixes also furnish the minerals, vitamins and other nutrients so important to good nutrition and better milk production. Special ingredients promote proper digestion and assimilation of rations, so your cows benefit more from less feed.

Your Vigortone Dealer can help you figure the energy and protein supplied by your own grain and roughage. You'll know from the start how much, if any, additional protein you'll need.

Now is the time to compare.
See your Vigortone Dealer soon. He's ready to compare the performance of Vigortone's cost-saving dairy feeding programs with any other you name.

Birth of twins marks goat debut at Expo

BY PAT KAUFFMAN

HARRISBURG — What do one letter, one man and one legislator equal? Goats at the Expo.

Snugly bedded down in the West Wing of the Farm Show Complex, 43 head of goats representing all five breeds, made their debut

While the animals themselves were contentedly munching hay in the spacious blue pens, their owners spent time talking goats and explaining to bystanders how they came to be included in the Expo this year.

According to Sally Rehrig, it all started at the monthly meeting of the Blue Mountain Dairy Goat Association in January. Members discussed the absence of goats at the State Farm Show and what they could do to correct it

A decision was made by some of the club members present that the most effective method of obtaining space for their animals was a letter-writing campaign to their legislators

As is typical with all good ideas, the time between outset of idea and actual practice tends to grow Thus, it was approximately two weeks or around the beginning of February before Sally's husband, Ed, got around to writing his letter

To everyone's amazement, only three business days passed before the Rehrig's received a call from officials of the Expo

Furthermore, while the club's initial aim had been to include the goats in the State Farm Show, officials convinced them that the most direct route to that objective was to sponsor a show at this year's Expo, thereby getting their foot in the door

The club then found themselves with the dilemma of organizing a showing before Expo and between monthly meetings of their club

After many phone calls, officers established two facts. First, that time would not permit organizing a show. And second, that sufficient numbers of club members were willing to move quickly to permit them to set up a display.

Three facets of the club's exhibit elicited the greatest public response.

The first was the birth of two kids on Thursday which drew an audience of approximately 50 on-lookers

The second was the LaMancha goats which are born without external ears.

And the third was the goat milk products available for purchase.

Sherry Moyer, editor of the club's newsletter Goat Notes, explained the suspense around the pen during the birth of the kids was so great that nearly all sales of products ceased However, once the kids were safely delivered and the tension eased, a real run on the ice cream supply occurred

Available to hungry Expo goers were cottage cheese, hard cheese, two flavors of fudge, and three flavors of ice cream

While the flow of visitors was a disappointment to the club members, sales seemed proportionately high. And all emphasized that customers often made repeat purchases.

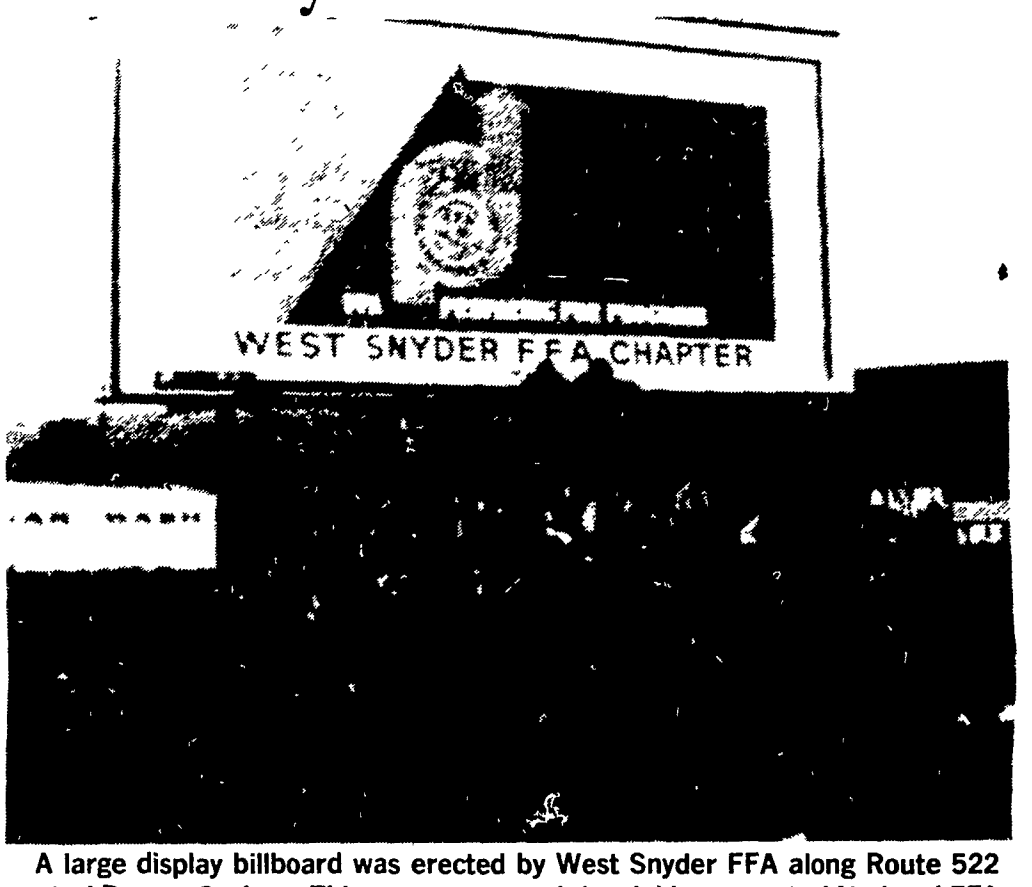
Asked about their schedules during the Expo stay, all emphatically agreed they'd like to do it again

However, while those present indicated they had been approached during their stay about organizing a show for inclusion in the Livestock Expo in the Fall, a spokesman for Charles Itle, Farm Show Manager, indicated this week that at this time he has not been approached by and has no knowledge of any plans by the club to be included in that Exposition.

So while goats and their owners may have one foot in the door toward their objective, it appears they need to walk right in and have a chat with Farm Show officials if they hope to be included in any future functions

The stars of the Blue Mountain Dairy Goat Club's Expo display were these kids born before a crowd of about fifty spectators.

West Snyder FFA shows colors



A large display billboard was erected by West Snyder FFA along Route 522 east of Beaver Springs. This was one part of the club's support of National FFA Week. In addition, the club erected a display booth in the High School and donated placemats to Jo-Lees Restaurant at Troxellville and Rayauda's Restaurant at Beaver Springs. Several members presented a program on Food For America to the fourth grade students at Beaver Adams and West Beaver Elementary School. These students will also be taken on a field trip to the farms of Larry Frey, Beaver Springs and Larry Troxell, Middlecreek.

First gasohol license presented

KLEINFELTERSVILLE — The gasohol farm still of Floyd Horst, Lebanon County, is back in operation legally.

The first gasohol license to be issued by the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board was presented in special ceremonies held on the Horst farm near Kleinfeltersville on Friday morning.

Production of gasohol on the Horst farm was halted last November by the Liquor Control Board pending legislation. Subsequently, the State Legislature approved a bill to permit on-farm production under state license.

copies of testimony to be given which include the speaker's name, date, and the group he represents should be prepared If a press table is set up, the copies should be placed there If none exists, they should be handed or mailed to the media

White added however, that in local situations where township meetings are attended by a large number of people or the issues are hotly debated, oral testimony can sometimes be more persuasive

According to White, the farm press is usually the most reliable source of information What he indicated is needed, is for more of that kind of information to get into daily papers

Because the media thrive on controversy, demonstrations and grievances become more newsworthy than the everything is fine position that the farmers stress Therefore, it is necessary to get the farmer's story to the public by whatever means are available

One of the means often overlooked stated White, is the letter to the editor

"The sincerity of opposing groups is not a question Their credibility is," stated White

"I've never known a farmer who used one drop more of any product than he felt absolutely necessary to get the job done These groups claim that pesticide use could be cut in half."

Also speaking to the group, was Dick Leslie, of Paluszek and Leslie Public Relations firm, Washington, D.C.

Leslie gave the group good news and bad news The good news he said, is that the public is becomingly increasingly aware of the problems the farmer faces

The city dweller is more aware than ever that the farmer can often not be blamed for the rising cost of their food.

The bad news, according to Leslie, is that while farmers are committed to their goals, they lack the knowledge of what to do to increase the public awareness.

"The public must be made more aware of the benefit-risk ratio They must realize that everything in life is a trade-off," he stated

"Public relations is not magic, just hard work," he emphasized

Leslie suggested that the women get to know their politicians and news media personnel before they need them "Let them know who you are and what information you can supply them Become one of their resources," he suggested

He suggested three tools for better public image First, he urged members to become members of the Council on Agricultural Science and Technology Membership in CAST he indicated, can put the reports he needs to combat public fallacies at the farmer's disposal

Leslie advocated the formation of 'truth squads' of farmers and their families to present themselves before the public as survivors of the chemicals they use in their farming operations

And lastly, he suggested that in most cases, even critics within the media want to hear from someone else's point of view In most cases, he said, it pays to establish an on-going relationship with both the media and the politicians

Leslie reminded the group that farmers must listen to the public Attempts should be made to understand the other person's viewpoint

He stated that in some cases this may mean that a farmer who has been lax with his safety precautions must clean up his act

District acts on flooding and preservation

LANCASTER — At their regular monthly board meeting, the Lancaster County Conservation District heard from two townships in the county—Ephrata presented its farmland preservation assistance request, and Sadsbury asked for help to control their flooding problem

The District formally accepted the application for assistance from Ephrata Township "to assist the supervisors in their efforts to preserve prime farmland in the township".

The directors volunteered the help of their staff and agreed to continue to encourage the County Commissioners to appoint a Farmland Preservation Board

The District board added it would continue to push for the adoption of a "suitable resolution to initiate a Farmland Preservation Program for Lancaster County permissable under existing legislation"

The county conservation leaders moved to urge the commissioners to make a moderate level of funding" available to carry out the program As the program gets underway, they added, they would be encouraging other townships to submit requests for assistance to the District

A current request was presented to the board of directors by Nick Yoder, a supervisor from Sadsbury Township The request to the District was for assistance in controlling the flooding situation on Williams Run

According to Yoder, the township experiences flooded roads during heavy rains, with a siltation problem in their roadside ditches, from the runoff.

The township engineer, Dan Lake, estimated the cost of controlling the flooding at $230,000 The project would involve constructing four small storm water retention basins in the watershed The watershed consists of 1 8 square miles

Funding has been applied for by the township through Community Development According to the supervisor, they stand a 50 50 chance of getting the needed $50,000 for one of the basins

Tom Johnston, the District administrator, stated there will be a public meeting held in the near future for landowners in the township

The Conservation District agreed to coordinate accelerated conservation planning and application to help to control the storm water and siltation problem on individual properties -SM

Win battle, lose war

Developers seek new site for large hog operation

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

MOUNT JOY — Once again, after agricultural and residential development locked horns, farming has been found in a position of giving more ground

The latest confrontation involved a million dollar confined hog operation planned for West Hempfield Township in Lancaster County

Despite favorable rulings by the township and the county court that the 480-sow farrow-to-finishing operation could be built, agricultural developers have decided against the location

"When going into an investment of that size, we don't want to be worried about continuing complaints from area residents," Jay H Rohrer, of the developing firm, said

The facility was propopsed by Terra Grain, Inc , a division of M & R Grains, Inc , grain storage and drying company at Mount Joy

Although deciding not to proceed with plans for West Hempfield Township, Rohrer said "We have not given up on building such a facility, though "

He declined to discuss alternate plans or possible other locations.

Rohrer pointed to the serious problem faced by farmers when they plan new facilities or even expand existing operations.

"We're living in a highly populated area," he said, "and it seems the farmers are getting squeezed more and more all the time.

"Zoning boards should get together and better define rural areas and what types of agricultural operations can be permitted."

In the case of the proposed West Hempfield facility, the Lancaster County Court upheld the decision of the township's Zoning Hearing Board that the confined production of hogs was permissible as a special exception in a rural zone.

The township decision had been appealed to Lancaster County Court by Salunga Land Development Corporation, which owns land near the proposed site

In his decision, Judge P. A. Mueller Jr noted that testimony of Terra Grain "dealt extensively with showing there would be no adverse effect on surrounding property" because of dust, odor, noise, health or safety problems.

Irregardless, Rohrer explained it was decided not to go ahead in West Hempfield

"We don't want to argue with people all the time if they have a bitter taste in their mouth even before the facility is started, he said."

The proposed facility with a 480-sow capacity featured a complex of buildings radiating from a central accessway. The confined operation included sections for gestation, farrowing, nursing, growing and finishing.

Manure was to be handled in a slurry store operation.

The West Hempfield operation was to be similar to facilities at the New Bolton Center, Kennett Square, and in southern York County.

In fact, the township zoning board visited the New Bolton Center during its consideration of the proposed facility. Salunga Land Development in its appeal also objected to that visit.

Judge Mueller found that such a visit was a very practical approach and there was no impropriety in making it.

Gasohol meeting Thursday

LANCASTER — Poultry manure and gasohol will be the topics of discussion at a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Farm and Home Center.

W. H. Mitchell, University of Delaware agronomist, will cover the nutritive value of poultry manure and its use in cropping programs. Two speakers on gasohol will include James Garthe, Penn State agricultural engineer; and Morton S. Fry, Ephrata, member of the Pennsylvania Gasohol Commission.

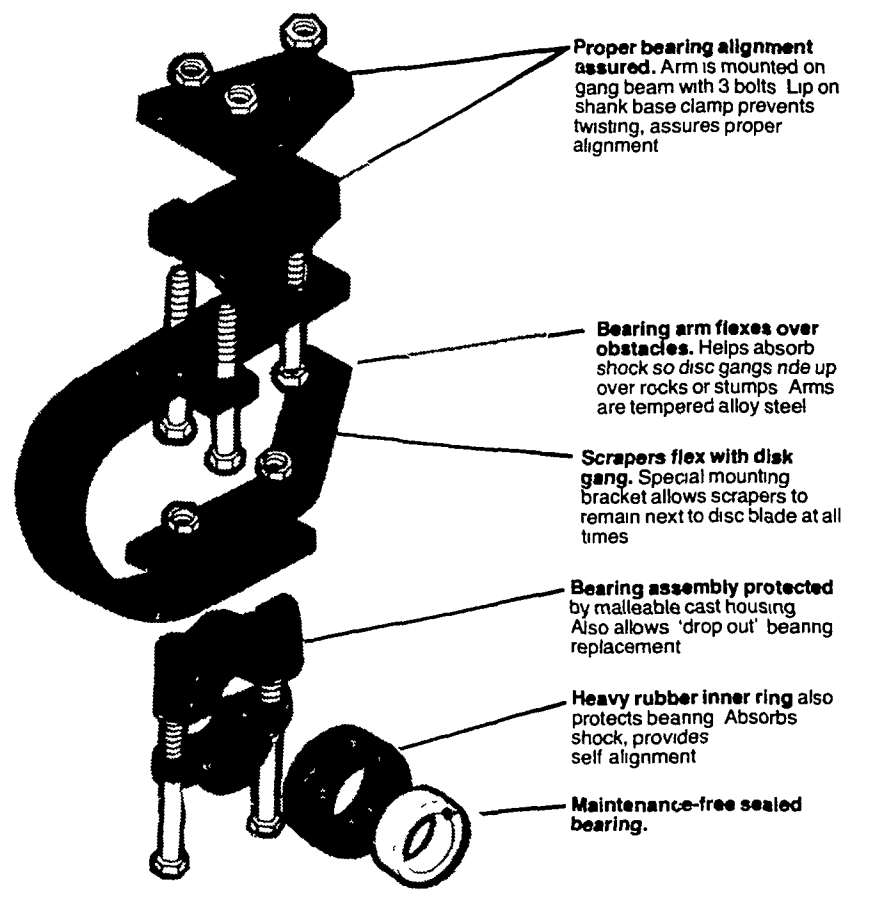
WHAT YOU NEED IS A KRAUSE ROCKFLEX DISC

WHY?

BECAUSE OF KRAUSE SUPERIOR "ROCK-FLEX" BEARING ARM



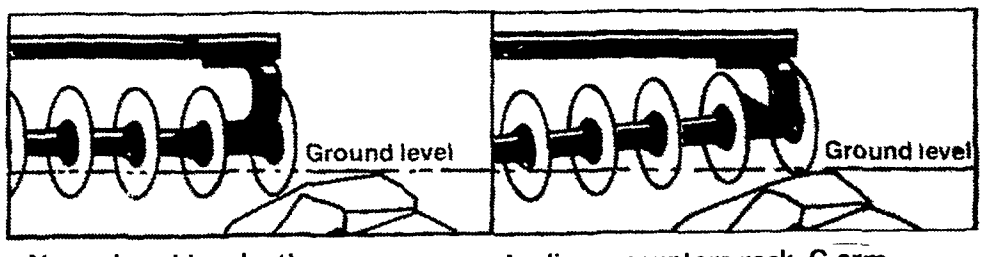
Proper bearing alignment assured. Arm is mounted on gang beam with 3 bolts Lip on shank base clamp prevents twisting, assures proper alignment
Bearing arm flexes over obstacles. Helps absorb shock so disc gangs ride up over rocks or stumps Arms are tempered alloy steel
Scrapers flex with disk gang. Special mounting bracket allows scrapers to remain next to disc blade at all times
Bearing assembly protected by malleable cast housing Also allows 'drop out' bearing replacement
Heavy rubber inner ring also protects bearing Absorbs shock, provides self alignment
Maintenance-free sealed bearing.

AND HERE'S WHY IT MEANS GOOD NEWS FOR YOU!

Unique C-shaped bearing arm:

- Flexes over obstacles
- Protects disc blades from breakage
- Protects tie rods from bending
- Protects spools from breakage
- Absorbs shock — minimizes bearing wear
- Improves trash clearance

A Krause innovation! The "Rock-Flex" bearing arm was invented by Krause in 1965.



Normal working depth.

As disc encounters rock, C-arm compresses, allowing gang to ride up over obstacle.

Ledyard drafts muscle their way to the top

BY SHEILA MILLER

HARRISBURG — Was it a case of over-confidence or just a bad gamble for the Benham brothers of Osgood, Indiana? That is one question that will probably never be answered, but it's a decision that the Benham's would probably like to reconsider.

In competition that literally put the crowd at the second annual horse pulling contest at the Farm Equipment Exposition on the edge of their seats, the Benham Brothers team of Belgian draft horses and their teamster declined their second and final pull in the heavy weight contest.

With 9200 pounds on the stone sled, the Benham team had displayed pure horse power in dragging their load a distance of 13 feet, 4 inches.

The only other team still in the contest out of the 31 that started was a team of Belgians owned and driven by Max Ledyard, of Waldron, Michigan.

In their first attempt to out-distance the Benham team, the muscle-bound equines drove in to their collars and pulled the sled 11 feet, 7 inches.

As the announcer pleaded with the crowd of spectators to "honor the pull" and not make any noise to distract the horses, the huge drafts lurched against the load at their teamster's loud "here". But, despite their valiant effort, they only succeeded in dragging the heavy load 7 feet, 11 inches

The teamster unhitched his team and went back to his Number 30 position against the arena wall to await the Benham's final pull.

The announcer blasted through the loud speaker the Benham's decision to forfeit their final pull, and in a matter of minutes the Ledyard team was on its way back to the 9200 pound load.

Ledyard quieted his team after the evener was hitched to the sled. The horses danced, with their sides heaving and dripping with sweat

Suddenly, the crowd witnessed a feat of strength and stamina The Ledyard team gathered for the final effort and when the whistle blew, the judge measured the pull at 24 feet, 3 inches.

The crowd was on its feet and the announcer had to shout to be heard above the cheers. The Ledyard team had pulled off the championship of the Expo's heavyweight horse pull

One of the factors that may have influenced the Benham's decision to forfeit their last pull was, in the effort of their team's final pull, one horse fell. Several men aided the animal in its attempts to struggle to its feet without entangling itself and its teammate in harness and hooves

The next three places in the heavyweight over 3200 pound, were taken by teams pulling 8600 pounds In third place was George Duvall's team, from Beaver Dam, Kentucky, with a pull of 20 feet, 8 inches. Ellis Derry, Zanesville, Ohio, came in fourth with a pull of 18 feet, 1 inch. And, Bert Gilkinson, of Versailles, Kentucky, was in fifth place with 8 feet, 6 inches

The top Pennsylvania team was owned and driven by Robert W. Decker, Garrett. Placing twelfth in the over-all contest, Decker's Belgian's dropped out of the contest with a load of 7800 pounds and a pull of 6 feet 5 inches.

In both the heavyweight and lightweight pulling contests, the teamster who displayed the best horsemanship was selected. Winner in the heavy drafts was Charles Wimler, of Durham, Connecticut, with his team Tim and Rock Wimler has been driving horses since he was small, and commented the team he drove at this year's Expo was the toughest team he's had to work and train.

Robert Decker, of Garrett, was the high placing Pennsylvania team in the Friday evening heavyweight pulls. Making the presentation was Secretary of Agriculture Penrose Hallowell, right, and Assistant Secretary Chet Heim.

Although the Benham's did not take the heavy weight championship trophy with them, they did succeed in capturing the lightweight championship, out-pulling 32 other teams.

Their champion team, Don, 5 years old, and Duke, 7 years old, had only pulled together once before. In lightweight competition in Toronto, Canada, the 3210 pound team succeeded in bringing home first place honors.

John Benham explained his horse Duke was the son of the world champion puller, also called Duke. He pointed out the second place lightweight team had a half brother to his horse, both sired by Duke.

Benham noted the high Pennsylvania team in the lightweight contest also had a horse with Duke bloodlines. A daughter of Duke, at two years of age, was making headlines in the horse pulling world.

As if the statistics weren't impressive enough, Benham added a Duke horse helped to set the 1979 world record in dynomometer pulling. Pat, a brother of Duke, and his teammate, Popeye, pulled 4050 pounds on the dynomometer, equivalent to 14,000 pounds in the stone sled pulls.

The Benhams, a family of eight brothers and eight sisters, have always used Belgians. "They're a stouter bloodline," John said. "They're stronger."

He explained it takes about sixty days to train a "green" horse to pull. "We train them with another horse that's broken because a horse will learn more by watching what the other one does and then doing the same," Benham added. Once trained, he exercises the horses four hours every day on a drag to build and tone their muscles.

The Benham Brothers team was one of three that pulled against a load of 8300 pounds, dragging the sled 20 feet.

The second place team, owned by Jim Hinshaw, of Winchester, Indiana, was taped in at 15 feet, 11 inches on the same load. And, the third best pull in the contest was 11 feet, 4 inches on the 8300 pound load by a team owned by Beeman and Lawson, Osseo, Michigan.

Fourth and fifth places were decided at a load of 7800 pounds. Greg Schirb, Baltic, Ohio, pulled 25 feet, 4 inches with his team; and Young Brothers, Uhrichsville, Ohio, came in at 19 feet, 4 inches.

The top Pennsylvania team and the horsemanship award were awarded to Tom Brown, Stahlstown. He placed twelfth in the over-all contest with a pull of 2 feet, 7 inches at 7800 pounds.

This was Brown's second win this year under the Farm Show arena's roof. His pair of Belgians was the top team at this year's Farm Show.

Brown's team is unusual in that the horses are young, Bud is 4 years old and Kit is 2 years old. Another thing that makes it unusual is the fact that Kit is a mare, daughter of Duke. "It's unusual to pull as a two-year-old and do well," Brown said, "and this is only her second contest."

When asked what he did to be selected as the best horseman, Brown stated that good horsemanship is habit-forming when it's practiced every day.

"It means no rough abuse — just normal work. And when I reset the horses, I get down and fool with them. That's the way I like to work."

Brown, who started driving when he was twelve years old, has been driving for 25 years. He has competed in Maine, Maryland, West Virginia, and Ohio as a puller.

Brown said he prefers the 27½ feet pull with increasing weights between pulls over the type of pulling done in Maine. There, he explained. a team is given five minutes, with as many stops and starts as they like, to pull double their weight as far as they can.

"That's like a man training for a race — it takes a lot of wind. The horses have to be in great condition and have good wind. They need to be slim, with more muscle and no fat, to work like that."

Brown said he felt the draft horse industry was becoming greater and greater, with more people becoming involved in pulls. He voiced his encouragment that with the increased demand over the past five years, the quality of the draft animal has gotten better through the efforts of improved breeding.

And with competition as keen as it was on Friday during the Farm Equipment Expo, the crowd cheered its agreement that horse pulling was on the move in Pennsylvania.

Broiler council sees more birds in processed products

COLUMBIA, S.C. — If present trends continue, consumers will be seeing less chicken in whole bird form and more in the form of convenience and further processed broiler products.

Of the 48.8 pounds of chicken American consumers ate in 1979, about five pounds, or more than 10 percent, was in further processed form. These products range from breaded pre-cooked frozen cup-up fried chicken to chicken pot pies to chicken hot dogs to breast fillet sandwiches.

The National Broiler Council predicts that by the end of the 1980's further processed products will constitute about a fifth of broiler consumption. Already chicken franks have captured about eight percent of the total hot dog market in the few years they have been marketed.

Like the whole broiler and cut-ups parts, convenience or further processed chicken products are significantly less costly than comparable red meat items. With inflation continuing to shrink the consumer's food dollar, economy alone could contribute to increased sales.

However, the industry is quick to note that chicken products are also nutritionally comparable to red meat items, providing the same high quality animal protein but with less fat content and fewer calories. They hope to educate first-time customers to the fact that lower price doesn't mean lower quality or flavor.

Both adult members are working in an increasing number of households. They are inclined to seek foods with built-in time convenience but are unwilling to sacrifice value and good nutrition. Further processed chicken products provide all three – the council says time-saving convenience, quality nutrients and economy.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Agriculture uses only three percent of the Nation's gasoline. Almost everyone likes to advise farmers how to save gasoline. But nobody pays attention to the following wastage of gasoline:

I have a farm and I farm it. Three of my neighbors were farmers. One of them died. He had a 10 acre field, adjacent to my farm, which produced 100 to 120 bushel per acre corn. After his death, the field was subdivided into building lots. The new owners cut their lawns every week during the summer. Also their four teenagers race motorcycles year round every day four hours, on these 10 acres, with their noise terrorizing the other neighbors.

Another neighbor does not farm either but lets the motorcyclists run year round seven full days a week on his fields. Only the third farmer rents its fields for farming.

USDA and other experts must estimate how much gasoline is used in the nation by the above described activities. Why doesn't anyone condemn this usage?

To estimate for comparison on 10 acre field how much gasoline is used in

Corn grown by conventional method

Cutting grass weekly for 20 weeks

Driving motorcycles 52 weeks by four persons four hours daily

Dear Editor:

After reading the "Lancaster Farming" for a number of years I couldn't believe the recent change in your newspaper.

In referring to the real life pictures of persons writing those weekly columns in your paper now being replaced with drawings.

Weekly, I sincerely enjoyed reading such columns by Joyce Bupp & Ida Risser & others, but the nearness, that homely greeting that their photographs conveyed to us is now gone. You get the feeling you've lost someone & therefore takes the edge off their writings.

However, I know the afore mentioned are excellent writers and deserve to have their true life photographs at the head of their columns.

I repeat the drawings do not have similarity of appearances & hence the readers have lost that nearness to the editor & all other writers of columns in the Lancaster Farming.

Let's have real people in our paper.

and dairy business is very useful as fertilizer. However, the pit can be a safety hazard because of poisonous and explosive gases. When the mixture is agitated in order to be removed, these gases are more plentiful and much more dangerous. Good ventilation above the pit is very essential. Also, any person who goes down into the empty pit should be wearing a gas maks; these gases are dangerous and can kill a human being quickly. All farmers are urged to caution their employees of this potential danger.

TO SHEAR SHEEP

Local sheep producers should be making plans to harvest their 1980 wool crop. Most of the ewes have now lambed and they will be better mothers if sheared of their wool. Wool prices are expected to be very good this year and shepherds are urged to give some attention to this crop. It is not too early in the spring to remove the wool, as some folks may think. Recently sheared ewes will be more responsive to weather changes; they will keep their lambs out of bad weather better than ewes with heavy fleeces. The wool should be dry when sheared and stored in a clean, dry place until marketed. The nearby wool pools provide a good market for good fleeces. Get your wool clip "in the bag" soon.

Your part: fresh feed ingredients.
Our part: potent feed value.

When you build your own rations from feedstuffs you grow yourself, the rations are fresh.

Vigortone's dairy pre-mixes are especially designed to balance the nutrition in your feedstuffs for maximum performance. Each pre-mix contains the proper levels of vitamins, minerals, and other nutrients to make up for known nutrient shortages in specific homegrown feedstuffs.

In addition, special ingredients in Vigortone promote digestion and assimilation of the feed.

A balanced ration encourages top feed conversion. Your cows simply are able to benefit more from a given amount of feed.

That's feed efficiency.

Vigortone dairy feeding programs help lower feed costs.

Vigortone offers a wide range of programs designed to increase the nutritional value of the homegrown feedstuffs you have on hand.

For example, you can save substantially on protein costs when you feed alfalfa hay and haylage by balancing the low phosphorous, high calcium content of these roughages with the right Vigortone dairy pre-mix.

Better feed — we can help.

Your Vigortone dairy can help you select from several easy-to-follow programs designed to maximize the nutrient value of your specific dairy ration.

Dairy Day program cites stray voltage problem

LANCASTER — Stray voltage may be found on as many as 20 percent of the farms in Pennsylvania and may be more of a problem than first realized, according to Steve Spencer, Penn State dairy specialist.

"This stray or transient voltage causes uneasiness in herds," Spencer said, "and can even be related to mastitis."

The problem usually is caused by poor grounding conditions in the milking parlors, Spencer explained.

Levels of voltage as low as a half-volt can be detected by cows and cause a problem, he said.

Spencer has recorded voltage levels as high as 3½ volts and has heard of even higher measurements of stray voltage in milking parlors.

The dairy specialist recommended the use of a digital volt meter to check for the problem. Among areas of possible grounding problems he listed were the bulk tank to the drain and the stalls or feeders to the grates.

Some cows are more susceptible than others and can result in uneven milkout, he said.

The problem can also originate off the farm, he explained. Spencer cited the example of a high electrical transmission line in Franklin County that caused a problem on a farm more than a mile away.

Turning to the subject of milk cooling systems, Spencer said that increasing attention is being directed at heat reclaimers to help reduce energy costs.

"In the production of milk there are essentially two processes," he said, "the cooling of the milk and the heating of water."

If there can be an exchange of heat between them, he said, a savings in energy costs can result.

Heat from the condenser of the cooling unit can be put through a reclaimer and be used to heat water for such uses as washup.

Payback times can range from one year to five years or more depending on the volume of use.

Spencer said that precoolers have their place if sufficient amounts of water are available on the farm. Water needs can be as much as two to three times the amount of milk produced.

A pre-cooler with a direct expansion tank is the most efficient in terms of energy consumption, according to Spencer, and ice building systems cool milk more rapidly but are more costly to operate.

Another of the program topics dealt with managing alfalfa as a key crop to produce milk.

The most important factor in growing alfalfa is getting the plants off to a good start, according to Donald Robinson, Garden Spot High School vo-ag adult teacher.

Robinson said that planning must begin with the selection of well drained fields which are manageable and fit the amount of labor and type of machinery available.

He urged the use of starter fertilizer for alfalfa in much the same manner it is used for corn.

Robinson discouraged the use of manure on established alfalfa since it just promotes weed and grass growth.

"In the planting of alfalfa the seed needs good soil contact," Robinson stressed.

The grain drill should be set up and operated properly, he said. Use of a packer wheel is important, too.

Concerning the right time to harvest, a bud check can be used for the first cutting.

"On later cuttings look at the bottom of the plants for regrowth," Robinson said.

"If half of the crowns show three-quarters of an inch of regrowth, it is time to cut."

He also explained why it is recommended that no cutting be made in early September. If alfalfa is cut then, the plants' rhizome development is affected and the yield of the first cutting in spring is reduced.

Larry Hutchinson, Penn State veterinarian, discussed the dangers of nitrate buildup in animals and tips for raising healthy calves and heifers.

"Dairymen must be concerned with the total amount of nitrates getting into cattle," he said.

Ruminant animals convert nitrates into nitrites, which are even more toxic, he explained.

The veterinary specialist cited a number of high risk conditions which could lead to nitrate problems.

Plants accumulate nitrates during drought conditions and higher levels result. Heavily fertilized small grains, such as oats or rye, used as green chop can contain high nitrate levels.

Certain weeds, such as chickweed and lambs quarter, can be high nitrate sources. A problem can result when animals on non-green feed are turned out into pasture containing these weeds.

Hutchinson also urged care in the feeding of stacks or large round bales. During the curing process, heating inside the bale can result in a nitrate buildup.

Discussing the raising of calves and heifers, Hutchinson said that two goals should be a low death rate of about five percent and a good growth rate that the animals reach the breeding stage at the proper age and weight.

During the first two days, a major concern should be the prevention of coliform scours. Calving pens should be kept as clean as possible with a good level of bedding.

Nutrition is important for the first two months, he said, and sufficient energy in the diet gets the young stock off to a good start.

Hutchinson defined weaning as a time of real stress. Don't increase this stress, he added, by moving the animals at this time.

The veterinary specialist also urged that heifers be taped to determine when they are ready for breeding.

Lancaster Conservation District to hold banquet

LANCASTER — Graham T. Munkittrick, the state conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service in Pennsylvania will be the guest speaker at this year's Lancaster County Conservation District annual banquet.

Munkittrick, a native of Orange, New Jersey, has been in the top position in SCS in the state since 1976.

Before coming to Pennsylvania, he was in the same position in both Maryland and Rhode Island. Munkittrick's career with SCS began in 1957 in New Jersey where he started on his road to state conservationist by serving as a soil conservation technician, soil conservationist and district conservationist.

The annual banquet will be held at 6:30 p.m. on March 20, at the Good'n Plenty Restaurant in Smoketown.

Tickets for the occasion can be purchased at the District office or from any director or staff member for $6 per person. Advance reservations must be made by March 17.

Dairy Herd Conference

Furthermore, since cows may prefer one forage over another, they may be short on protein and overfed on energy.

High producers are unlikely to get enough to eat in a parlor milking setup because they don't stay in the parlor long enough.

Larry Chase, department of animal science, Cornell University, told the group high moisture corn offers a viable option on many farms to get added energy into animals and reduce purchased feed cost.

If it is managed properly, feeding high moisture corn can give good results, he said.

Advantages of feeding high moisture corn include a harvest which may be two to three weeks earlier, adaptation to mechanization, the potential to reduce feed costs, and provision of high energy feed.

Chase noted there are a lot of storage options available to dairymen with high moisture corn.

It can be stored successfully in oxygen-limiting silos, conventional silos, or horizontal silos. In an emergency, chemical preservatives can be used.

He said all viable storage alternatives with which high quality high moisture corn can be produced.

Penn State Extension Dairy Specialist Richard Adams discussed the problem of selenium needs in the dairy herd, stressing that Vitamin E intake must be considered along with Selenium.

"Both have to be present to have an adequate ration. There is more and more evidence that you don't keep away problems by having Selenium present. You also must have Vitamin E," he said.

Although the Food and Drug Administration has ruled that the addition of Selenium now is acceptable Adams noted, "It will take more than Food and Drug action to get Selenium into herd use."

Adams outlined some of the problems which can be caused by dificiencies in both Vitamin E and Selenium, and gave suggested levels for their use.

Doyle Waybright, Mason-Dixon Farms, Gettysburg, told farmers that testing of forages is one of the most important parts of their farm operation which includes the milking of 650 head of cows, along with the processing and marketing of the milk.

Waybright said, "We test every cutting of alfalfa and test the first cutting several times because of the changes which take place over the weeks. We also test our complete rations."

Waybright said a total mixed ration is fed to all cows in the herd, including newborn calves and dry cows.

He stressed the importance of concentrating efforts of getting forage into the silo at the optimum stage.

"If you let it go too long you sacrifice essential protein," he said.

John Speicher, Michigan State Dairy Scientist, gave farmers a farmers a preview of how computers may be used on dairy farms in the future for dairy herd management.

Speicher said he foresees the use of computers for financial accounting and crop production. The limiting factor at this point is the high cost of developing programs.

samples out to the state lab for identification and they would come back marked only as contaminated. To detect it, you must ask for a specific mycoplasma culture, which requires that a different medium be used."

Cultures had to be flown daily to Cornell University since no facility in Pennsylvania could handle the volume of testing required.

This lack of facilities to run the cultures in Pennsylvania was a major concern, according to Frey, along with nothing to guard against selling the animals.

In addition to following a rigid sanitary program of teat washing with an iodine solution and other measures, such as isolation, Turkey Hill attempted a mechanical backflush of milking equipment to try to check the outbreak. But the backflushing with an iodine solution, followed by clear water and blowing out with air didn't help solve the problem.

Only after continuing systematic removal of animals from the herd, the dairy received its first clean report in December.

Larry Hutchinson, Penn State veterinarian, explained that mycoplasma is not a bacteria or virus and primarily is a large herd problem tied in with the grouping of animals. More than one quarter of the animal can be involved, but the cow does not appear to be sick.

He recommended periodic culture of bulk tank milk as a means of checking for mycoplasma.

Frey confirmed that it affected mostly fresh cows, which didn't run a fever or even show signs of mastitis while still milking 90 lbs. or so a day.

Frey also explained that the milk from the affected cows would form a sandy sentiment on the bottom of a test tube after it set awhile. Above the sentiment was a clear separation and the whiter milk on top.

In discussion of other mastitis problems, Ranck said that nearly two-thirds of his 54-cow herd previously had problems with staph and strep.

"I place a lot of importance on the cultures," he said.

"If it wasn't cleared up by the next milking, I'd have the vet do a sensitivity test. I'd look for any kind of swelling and send the culture right off. If there was a temperature, I'd treat the cow."

He utilized teat spray, individual towels and other sanitary measures.

Steve Spencer, Penn State dairy specialist, said effective control measures center on stringent teat dipping, continuing dry cow treatment, along with a good review of the milking system and how it's done.

Coliform problems, it was explained, usually can be traced to wet conditions, such as a ditch outside or even wetness in free stalls.

In the case of Windle, the problem was due to a waterway, which was fenced off to keep the cows away.

In his treatment, Windle used teat dipping and individual towels. It was suggested that drying teats with individual towels can help to guard against wet udders when the units are put on. It also was recommended that help and advice from a vet for proper treatment was advisable.

Coliform problems also can be attributed to the type of bedding being used. Problems with the use of sawdust were mentioned. The size of the particles in the bedding can contribute to the problem.

Nathan Stoltzfus, Gap, served as master of ceremonies. Glenn Shirk, county dairy agent, served as chairman of the planning committee.

Stoltzfus described the session as one of the best attended Dairy Day programs held in Lancaster County in recent years.

New Antibiotic Test Set July 1

LANCASTER — A word of caution has been issued to dairymen concerning a new test for antibiotics which is expected to begin July 1.

Steve Spencer, Penn State dairy specialist, told the Lancaster Dairy Day audience this week that the new test will be much more sensitive than the test being used now.

"The test organism is more sensitive," Spencer said, "and will detect antibiotics at lower levels,"

He said that the new test will require a closer watch by dairymen on the use of antibiotics.

He recommended that dairymen follow the correct prescribed directions for their use and also watch for the specific withdrawl times.

Record corn crop leads Pennsylvania output

HARRISBURG — Production of the four small grains, wheat, rye, oats and barley slightly declined to 32,411,000 bushels from the 1978 production level of 32,492,000.

The 1979 output was down five percent from the 1977 total.

Sorghum estimates begin in 1979 with 7000 acres harvested for grain and a total production of 525,000 bushels, for a value of $1,208,000.

The Keystone state witnessed another record high corn crop in 1979, two percent over last year's record crop. Production totaled 115.4 million bushels from slightly more than 1.2 million acres harvested for grain.

Yield was estimated at 95 bushels per acre, the same yield as the preceeding year. Corn for grain value was $340.5 million. Corn for silage areage harvested at 410,000 acres, yield at 15.0 tons, resulted in total production of 6,150,000 tons.

Tobacco production declined to 22.1 million pounds compared to last year's 25.2 million pounds. Yield decreased to 1700 pounds per acre, 240 pounds less than 1978 yield. Harvested acres remained the same as the 1978 crop at 13,000 acres.

Soybeans for beans production increased to 2,624,000 bushels, a 34 percent increase over last year's production of 1,953,000 bushels. This increase in production was due mainly to an increase in harvested acreage.

Yield increased again this year to 32.0 bushes per acre, however, this is only a 0.5 bushel increase over the 1978 yield. Total crop value increased to almost $15.0 million from the previous year's value of $12.9 million.

All hay showed an increased from last year in area harvested to 1.96 million acres. Yield declined to 2.19 tons per acre resulting in total production of 4.29 million tons. At $53.50 per ton, the total crop value decreased 14 percent to $229.7 million.

Production of alfalfa hay totaled 2.3 million tons from 850,000 acres while production of all other hay totaled 2.0 million tons harvested from 1.1 million acres.

Pennsylvania farmers harvested 8000 acres of red clover seed this year. The 1979 crop of 560,000 pounds is down 38 percent from the 900,000 pounds produced last year. Yield decreased seven percent to 70 pounds per acre.

Total value of production is $336,000 compared with $585,000 last year.

Mushroom production totaled 213.8 million pounds for the crop year ending June 30, 1979, 3 percent below the previous year's crop. This year's total crop value was $152.9 million.

Apple production in 1979 totaled 505 million pounds, up 26 percent from a year ago. With a two percent higher unit price from last year's nine cents per pound, value of production at $46.0 million was up 29 percent from a year ago.

Total production of all pears in 1979 was 2,800 tons, 15 percent below last year's crop and 40 percent less than the 1977 crop. Value of utilized production totaled $823,000.

Tart cherry production (6.3 million pounds) increased two percent from the previous year. A record price of 49.6 cents per pound resulted in a record crop value of $3.1 million.

The 1979 sweet cherry crop also recorded a record high value of $1,066,000; production totaled 950 tons.

Pennsylvania's peach crop totaled 90 million pounds for 1979. This year's crop was up 6 percent from 1978. The total crop value at $13.3 million was slightly below last year's record.

Total production of grapes for 1979 was 55,500 tons. The total value of this year's crop was $12.1 million, this was 10 percent below the previous year, but 77 percent greater than the crop value of 1977.

A total of 1000 acres of strawberries were harvested in 1979. Yield at 33 cwt. per acre increased by seven percent from the previous year. The increased acreage harvested along with a higher yield produced an 18 percent larger crop than last year. The 1979 production of 33,000 cwt. resulted in a total crop value of $2.2 million.

Maple syrup production totaled 57,000 gallons with a total value of $775,000. This compares with 1978 production of 42,000 gallons and a value of $504,000.

Part-time Farmers seminar to be held

LANCASTER — A Part-time Farmer's Seminar will be held Saturday, March 15, 9:00 a.m. at the Farm and Home Center.

Since employment off the farm does not permit attendance at many of the regular educational events, the Lancaster Extension staff has prepared a program of special interest to both part-time farmers and rural non-farm residents who own just a few head of livestock or poultry or own just a few acres of land.

A general session will lead off the morning with estate planning, pest control pasture management and rural living.

Following the general session, there will be two 45-minute workshops. Each workshop will be run twice, so that participants will have the opportunity to select a total of two areas of interest.

Workshops to be held are Crops and Soils, Dairy and Goats, Livestock, and Poultry and Rabbits.

Registration may be made with the form below, or by calling the Lancaster Extension Office (717) 394-6851.

The case of Farmer Jones and the 5¢ orange.

Farmer Jones had finished his shopping in town. Returning along Main Street with two dusty nickels in his overalls pocket, his eye caught a hand-scrawled sidewalk sign: "ORANGES ON SALE — 5¢ EACH!"

Feeling thirsty, it being a sizzling hot day, Farmer Jones plucked an orange from the makeshift stand... paid his nickel and continued whistling on his way.

As his fingernail bit into the rind, Farmer Jones' mouth watered at the succulent treat within. But at the very first taste his mouth turned dry. The orange was sour and flat. He suddenly didn't feel like whistling again.

Too late — for he was down to his last 5¢ — he remembered Ben's Country Store. Ben's oranges were the best in town. Plump, juicy, fresh. He'd built his business on quality and service, and people always came back for more.

So it is with Kubota.

Eastern cites new hauling system

NEW HOLLAND — Members of New Holland Local, District 8, Eastern Milk Producers, were told Thursday night that a more efficient milk pickup system scheduled to begin on April 1 should result in lower hauling costs.

A contract is just now ready to be concluded for the new pickup system, according to Franklin Wagner, District 8 director.

The new pickup and hauling arrangement will involve other milk coops and proprietary handlers, Wagner said.

In the new system there will be a co-mingling of milk in the same tank trucks, Wagner explained. This will include a mingling of not only Order 2 and Order 4 milk, but also the milk of the various groups involved.

Wagner declined to discuss specifics of the system until all arrangements have been completed and the contract signed.

"The new system should reduce the number of trucks on the road," Wagner said, "and result in more favorable hauling rates."

Turning to problems facing Eastern, Wagner asked for member help concerning the "touchy subject" of reblend.

He cited an example of 400,000 pounds of milk that was spoiled in a Leprino Cheese Co. silo due to one farm pickup of antibiotic milk.

"We now have $150,000 worth of powder," Wagner said, "which can't even be used for animal feed."

Members were warned that antibiotic regulations will become much greater on July 1. The new organism to be used in the antibiotic test will be ten times more sensitive than the present test, it was explained.

Concerning Eastern's cheese plants, Director Wagner said that financing is now all in place with First Pennsylvania Bank of Philadelphia.

"The cheese plants are not as far along as had been hoped," Wagner said, "and we won't be handling as much milk in the beginning of April as had been expected."

An election of officers was held at the Local's annual meeting held in the New Holland Fire Hall.

Continuing in their posts are Robert E. Martin, R3 New Holland, president; Daniel Martin, R2 Quarryville, secretary; and Leroy S. Smoker, R3 New Holland, treasurer.

Also elected were Mervin Weaver, 1210 Furnace Hills Pike, Lititz, vice president; Raymond Wenger, 390 Sleepy Hollow Rd., Lititz, delegate; and Harvey Sauder, R1 New Holland, alternate.

Low bacteria count awards were given to David S. Zook, Lititz, first place; and Aaron Z. Martin, East Earl, second place

Pesticide recertification due for 30,000 state farmers

UNIVERSITY PARK — If ou are certified to handle estricted-use pesticides, ou may have to be recer- ified in 1980.

The Pennsyvlania 'esticide Act of 1974 equires all private, com- ercial, and public ap- licators licenses to be enewed every three years o be valid.

Most of the 30,000 ap- licators in the state were ertified in 1977 when the 'esticide Act became ef- ective–all those certified at year must renew their cense this year.

"There are 28,000 private pplicators, mostly far- ers; over 2000 commercial pplicators; and more than 00 public applicators in the tate," according to Edwin Vallis, Director of Plant Industries, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

His office is responsible for issuing all licenses within the state.

Wallis says, he is attempting to make the process effective yet as painless as possible, although he emphasizes that applicators will not be able to buy or use restricted-use pesticides without valid certification.

"A certified applicator can either attend a training program or take another examination," says Winand K. Hock, extension pesticides specialist at Penn State.

"Preferably, an applicator will elect to attend a training program," notes Hock, "because training provides new insights and better management of pesticides as well as highlights new development in the agrichemical industry."

The Bureau of Plant Industry is preparing a card to mail to all private applicators, explaining the recertification process. All applicators should receive their cards by the end of March.

More information is available from county agents, the Bureau of Plant Industry in Harrisburg, or one of the seven regional offices in Tunkhannock, Meadville, Williamsport, Gibsonia, Altoona, Summerdale, or Lansdale.

The expiration date is printed on the license that all applicators must possess to purchase and use restricted-use pesticides.

Lancaster Co. hosts cattlemen

Close to 175 cattlemen visited Lancaster County on Thursday from three neighboring states. A tour was sponsored by the Maryland Cattlemen's Association and the Lancaster County Extension Service's Executive Committee of four different beef operations. Three feedlot operations were seen, along with a cow-calf farm, producing purebred Simmentals.

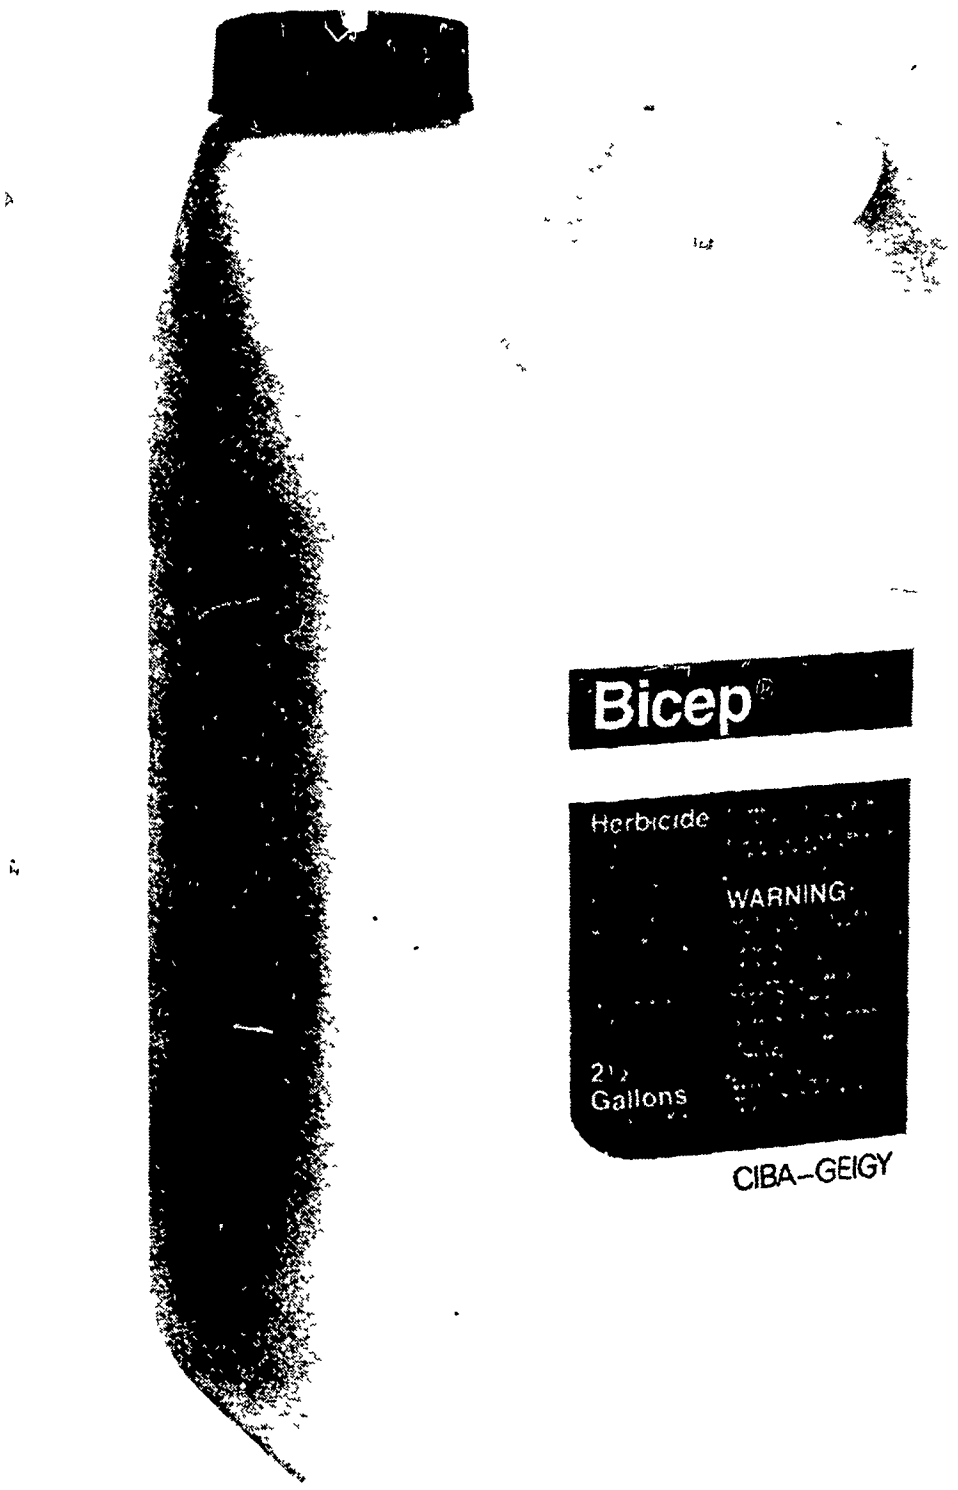
Ciba-Geigy announces a new corn herbicide that's better than a tank-mix.

New Bicep.



Now you can get the broad spectrum grass and weed control of a tank-mix in a single herbicide. New Bicep® herbicide from Ciba-Geigy.

Bicep delivers truly effective control of grasses, like all the foxtails, panicum, crabgrass, barnyardgrass. Even nutgrass.

Broadleaf weeds too. Cocklebur, lambsquarters, pigweed, ragweed, smartweed, velvetleaf.

And yet, with Bicep, you don't have to fuss and bother with the complications of tank-mixing two herbicides.

Because Bicep delivers it all in a single liquid herbicide that mixes easily with water or liquid fertilizer. You'll save a lot of time and avoid the inconvenience of measuring and mixing the herbicides together.

Bicep can be surface applied or incorporated. It's safe to corn. And you can rotate to soybeans with confidence because with Bicep you won't have carry-over problems.

Bicep. The single herbicide that's better than a tank-mix for grass and weed control.

Ask your supplier about new Bicep and get your own trial going this year.

farms associated with 10 state mental hospitals.

Although the 10,700 acres in the farms could not be sold without the approval of both the House and the Senate, Mrs. O'Bannon's action calls for an April 30 cutoff, after which the farms would be transferred to the Department of General Services.

After that transfer is made, the way is clear for the sale of all machinery and equipment on the farms.

Another Wednesday visitor to the Capitol was William Nichol, of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association. He was conferring with DPW and General Services officials on conducting dispersal sales for the 1400 Holsteins on the state farms

"We as an association don't want to see these herds dispersed," Nichol said "But if they are going to be dispersed, we feel it's our job to help the state get the most for its investment with a well-run dispersal sale."

There are seven dairy herds on the ten farms, and Nichol was worrying about the logistics of having that many sales on short notice, probably sometime in May.

But he was more worried about spreading the herds far and wide The herds have been valuable, he said, in helping to prove young sires And the breeding programs have been carefully planned around some of the best AI sires on the market

"Maybe half the dairy animals are grade Holsteins," Nichol said "But the other half are all registered, and all are good animals I think it would be a shame to see the herds split apart."

Nichol was not at the Wednesday night meeting to talk about the mechanics of transferring the farms out of DPW hands. Secretary Hallowell and several of his staff were there So was Walter Barron, Secretary of General Services, and three members of the House and Senate ag committees.

Thursday morning, Hallowell said his department would be working with General Services to make the best possible use of the farms. He wouldn't commit himself on the issue of whether or not the livestock and equipment on the farms would be sold, but did say they hoped to have the farms in operation over the summer

One way that could be accomplished, he said, was by leasing the land to farmer operators

Reno Thomas, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, was somewhat more direct in his comments on the meeting, and on what he sees in store for the farms.

Some observes had felt Secretary O'Bannon had tromped harder on Thomas' toes than on anyone else's, but he didn't see it that way "We had an agreement - a verbal agreement - that the institutional farms would keep operating until I could get a bill introduced that would transfer these farms out of DPW and into the Department of Agriculture under a lands management commission

"I got the bill, House Bill 1535, and we got it introduced, but it's now stuck in the appropriations committee, waiting for money. At this point, I don't think Secretary O'Bannon reneged on our agreement She wants it of the farming ...ness, and nobody disagrees with her She waited until we got our bill out of committee.

"But when she saw that bill going nowhere, she forced the issue "

Thomas, a swine breeder from Beavertown in Snyder County, is as concerned about the sale of the 5,000 hogs on the state farms as Bill Nichol is about the sale of the Holsteins.

And Thomas doesn't think the cows or the hogs will go on the auction block.

Thomas is confident that some way can be found to get the farms out of DPW, into General Services and thence to Agriculture without any sales of equipment or livestock

One avenue may be by a direct order from the Governor. His thoughts on the matter won't be known, though, until he gets back from China in a week or so

There are clear economic reasons for holding onto everything, Thomas believes. "These farms produce $3 3 million worth of food a year," he said "That's food that goes into the institutions themselves And in addition to producing food, the people who work the farms also maintain the grounds of the hospitals They cut the grass, trim the hedges, shovel the snow - if the state has to contract for those services, I'd hate to be the one to pay the bill

"The accountants say that the farms now are losing money But I think some of the expenses that are being charged against the farms are overstated, and I think the value of the products being produced there are under-stated And even with their lop-sided bookkeeping, the farms are still nearly self-sufficient

"I think they could be a lot more than self-sufficient And I think if the state had to buy the $3.5 million worth of food grown on the farms, they might have to pay twice that much "

Corn growers sponsor study of soil magnesium levels

UNIVERSITY PARK — "The potential exists to save Pennsylvania corn growers a considerable amount of money in unnecessary applications of magnesium," says Richard H. Fox of the Department of Agronomy at Penn State.

"In some areas of the state, farmers pay high prices for dolomitic or high magnesium limestone," Fox pointed out

The Penn State soil scientist said there has been no research in the Commonwealth to determine what levels of magnesium are needed in soil to obtain maximum yields of corn gain. He has begun a study along this line with partial support from the Pennsylvania Master Corn Growers Association

"The results of our studies will also add to our basic knowledge of the magnesium relationships involving soils and plants," he added

Presently, the Penn State Soil Testing Service recommends that magnesium be added to corn soils whenever the magnesium saturation of the soil is less than 10 per cent This 10 per cent magnesium saturation is more than twice as high as recommendations from most soil testing services and 75 pounds per acre higher than in any nearby state

Experiments will be carried out on two soils in Centre County that have low magnesium levels Treatments will include several ratios of dolomitic to calcitic lime to vary the rate of magnesium application The results will be used to determine the critical soil test level of magnesium that must be maintained for maximum corn yields

The Pennsylvania Master Corn Growers Association is primarily an educational organizaton, according to the secretary-treasurer, Walter C Johnson of Julian

Members are farmers, businessmen, and educators. The association keeps members abreast of the latest developments in corn production, storage, and utilization. Suggestions are made for needed crop production research

The organization sponsors an annual Pennsylvania Corn Growers Conference and the Pennsylvania Five-Acre Corn Club

The Pennsylvania Master Corn Growers Association has awarded a grant of $750 to Richard H. Fox of Penn State, right, for research on corn. Fox will carry out experiments to determine the most favorable levels of magnesium needed in soils to obtain maximum corn yields. The grant was presented recently by Walter C. Johnson of Julian, left, secretary-treasurer of the association.

PUT MORE PROFIT IN YOUR ALFALFA.

Whether you grow for a cash crop or to feed your own livestock, you can't afford weeds in your alfalfa or clover field. They shorten stand life, lower protein content, lower TDN and reduce overall digestibility and palatability of your hay. In short, excessive weed growth just plain picks your pocket.

ORTHO Paraquat CL herbicide burns back weeds on contact. Apply Paraquat during the winter to dormant established stands. It's exceptionally broad spectrum and destroys weeds with extraordinary speed. Apply Paraquat with ORTHO X-77® Spreader.

DANGER: Paraquat is highly toxic if swallowed and should be kept out of the reach of children. To prevent accidental ingestion, never transfer to food, drink or other containers. Read the label carefully and follow all directions, danger statements and worker safety rules. Restricted Use Pesticide. Use all chemicals only as directed.

Poultry course available

UNIVERSITY PARK — Within the borders of Pennsylvania, more poultry and eggs are produced than in any other Northeastern state

Today Pennsylvania's poultry industry is composed of 1,000 farms that have several thousand birds which gross between 5,000 and 3 million dollars per year per farm Poultry is a big business, run by skilled businessmen

Poultry scientists at Penn State have compiled a correspondence course on Poultry Keeping for those interested in working in the industry. Lessons detail characteristics and useful qualities of more common breeds of poultry; location, construction, and care of buildings; incubation, brooding, and diseases; selection and care of eggs and rearing stock; feeding for egg production; artificial illumination; and approved methods and practices in marketing.

This comprehensive course is available by writing Poultry, Box 5000, University Park, PA 16802. Send your check for $6.50 plus 50 cents postage.

The spectre of a market closing or changing its source for obtaining milk always hovers over farmers. The Holly Co-op should give Inter-State and MCMP members some hedge against either possibility.

Thursday's open house was not the first open house to be held at the plant. But, it was the first where Holly Co-op officials could actually tell guests they were looking at a fully functional dairy processing plant

The Holly plant was plagued with a number of delays in start-up, and even after operations commenced an explosion at the plant put the brakes on operations

Still to be ironed out are the details of a tertiary treatment system for sewerage and other waste water from the plant. This treatment station should be completed late in 1980 or early in 1981.

More noteworthy in the short run is the readiness in Holly Co-op to handle the traditional spring flush of milk. The big production push in the next three to four months should give the Holly plant its first major, sustained workout.

Right after Christmas, the plant's managers set the facility to work full-time and the plant's machinery and personnel responded well.

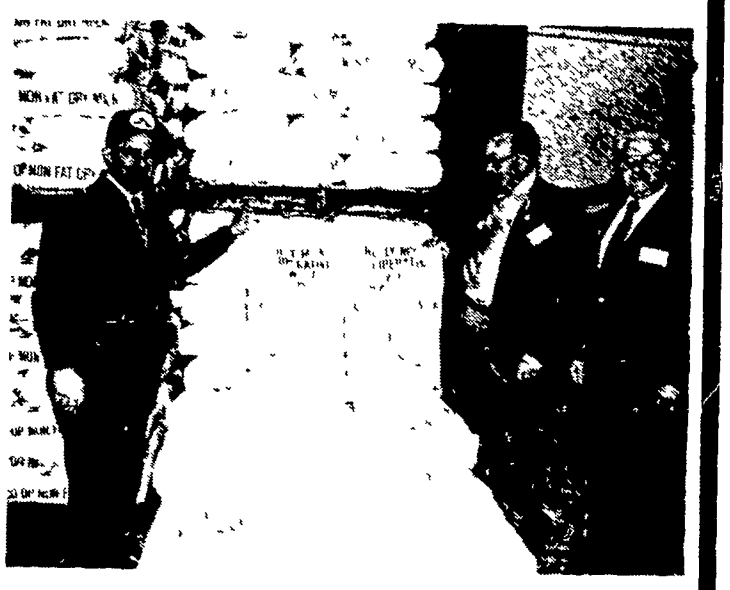
Barring unforeseen complications, the plant should be instrumental in moving milk from 4000 dairy farms to a variety of markets

Between farm and market, the Holly plant will take up to 20,000 gallons milk per hour from haulers' rigs, and process it into skim milk powder at 8000 pounds per hour, whole milk powder at 7500 pounds per hour; or butter at 4400 pounds per hour

The warehousing area can store tons of processed powder The butter storage can handle 700,000 pounds in 68 pound blocks

There's room for the farmer's raw product, too. Tank Alley has capacity of five 50,000 gallon whole milk silos, two 25,000 gallon cream silos, two 15,000 gallon buttermilk silos, and a 10,000 gallon condensed milk silo

The entire plant should be one more step toward marketing security for members of both partner co-ops



Andrew Marvin, Inter-State's districts 5 and 7 fieldman, joined Pa. Deputy Secretary of Agriculture Chester Heim and Md. Ag Department's Franklin Burris, in the warehouse at Holly Co-op's open house.

Crop reporters to survey

HARRISBURG — Enumerators from the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service will be contacting dairy farmers to determine milk production costs for 1979.

As part of a nationwide survey in March, 190 Pennsylvania dairy farmers will be questioned concerning herd inventories, feeding, manure handling, milk systems, forage production and feed storage facilities.

The state says current information on milk production expenditures is vital to determined the economic well-being of dairy farmers as related to other producers in the agricultural sector.

If you're out to beat anthracnose

That's what SARANAC AR is all about!

in anthracnose country, it's the best alfalfa you can plant.

Even in sticky, hot, humid weather when anthracnose is sweeping neighboring fields, Saranac AR goes right on producing as though anthracnose had never been heard of.

It's bred for your kind of land and your kind of weather. Bred to meet your highest goals . . . even when ordinary alfalfas are curling over and turning yellow.

Saranac AR meets hard winters and bacterial wilt head on . . . and comes out on top. It's bred for anthracnose resistance, fast recovery and long-lived stands. Pre-inoculated, of course. It's the only one to plant where anthracnose is a threat. After all, that's what Saranac AR is all about!

Loan rate changes explained

Average farm grain prices predicted up for 1980

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Now that the dust has settled a bit following the cutoff of export sales to the Soviet Union, the market outlook for feed grains looks about as strong as before.

The market price outlook for feed grains for this marketing year which ends in September is about the same as before the suspension of grain exports to the Soviet Union in early January.

Prices slipped some when markets reopened after the cutoff, but have recovered to pre-suspension levels at most major markets. Recovery has been slower, though, in some local markets.

Average farm prices for feed grains probably will be higher this marketing year than last:

Corn is expected to average $2.25 to $2.45 a bushel, compared with $2.25 last year;

Sorghum $2.15 to $2.35, up from $2.02.

Barley, $2.25 to $2.35, up from $1.92; and

Oats, $1.30 to $1.40, compared with $1.19.

These are national averages, so the prices local growers get for grain may be higher or lower, depending on such things as how far they are from major markets, when they sell, and on any special circumstances that may affect local price.

The export market looks good, too. Despite the suspension of sales to the Soviets, U.S. corn exports may reach 2,275 million bushels, up from the record 2,133 million shipped last year.

The government has acted to help protect farmers from the otherwise price-depressing impact of the export suspension.

To offset the initial impact on grain prices, the Government offered to buy the grain previously destined for the USSR.

The Commodity Credit Corporation will assume contractual obligations on up to 10 million tons—about 394 million bushels—of corn that exporters had committed for sale to the Soviet Union. These assumptions will be made at the contract price minus any costs that had not already been paid.

This action prevents exporting firms from being forced to dump grain on the market to pay off loans that financed the contracts. Otherwise, prices would topple at all stages of the marketing system, clear down to the local elevators where you sell your grain.

The CCC may either sell the export contracts or take physical delivery of the corn. Contracts that are assumed will be sold only if the farm price is above the January 4 level of about $2.40 a bushel.

If the CCC takes delivery, it may not sell the corn at a price lower than the equivalent of $3.15 at the farm, because the CCC is required by law not to sell feed grains for less than 150 percent of their loan rates as long as a farmer-owned reserve is in operation.

To encourage farmers to put additional grain into the reserve rather than on the market, the Government raised 1979 loan rates.

If farmers signed up and complied with the 1979 feed grain program, they're eligible to put crops under Government loan and in the farmer-owned reserve.

Raising loan rates for the price support loan and reserve programs will hold more grain off the market. As grain is placed in the reserve, the free supply—what's available to the commercial market--will decline, thereby bolstering prices.

The new 1979 national average loan rates are $2.10 per bushel for corn, $2.00 for sorghum, $1.71 for barley, and $1.08 for oats.

If you already have a loan on 1979 crops, you can go to your ASCS office and increase it in line with the new rates. These rates will apply for 1980 crops as well.

The higher loan rates automatically raise the release and call prices for grain in the farmer-owned reserve. For corn, the new release price is $2.63 per bushel, up from $2.50 The call price is $3.05, up from $2.80.

Also, annual storage payments for all grain in the reserve except oats have been raised from 25 cents to 26.5 cents a bushel. Storage payments for oats were raised a penny a bushel to 20 cents.

Finally, first-year interest charges are waived for the next 13 million tons (512 million bushels) of corn put in the reserve after January 7.

A regular loan or a reserve loan may help if you need cash and want to hold your grain in the hope of getting a higher price later. This may be particularly useful in areas where market prices are near loan rates because of transportation difficulties and high costs of moving grain to market.

Farmers in 34 States surveyed around January 1 said they planned to increase their 1980 feed grain plantings by three percent over 1979. They expected to up their acreage for all feed grains except oats, which they planned to cut five percent.

Of course, farmers often adjust their plans as planting time nears. Another Prospective Plantings report will be issued on April 17. It will cover 48 States.

There's no set-aside requirement for the 1980 feed grain program. All farmers who produce corn, barley, or sorghum this year are eligible for target price protection loans on their crops, and participation in the farmer-owned reserve. Oat producers will be eligible for loans and the reserve program.

Preliminary target prices for feed grains in 1980 will be announced March 15. The Administration has supported legislation which would raise the 1980 target prices to $2.35 per bushel of corn, $2.50 for sorghum, and $2.55 for barley. This legislation also would continue the disaster program for 1980 crops.

To qualify for full target price protection, farmers cannot plant more acres to corn, sorghum, or barley than they planted, set aside, and diverted from these crops in 1979.

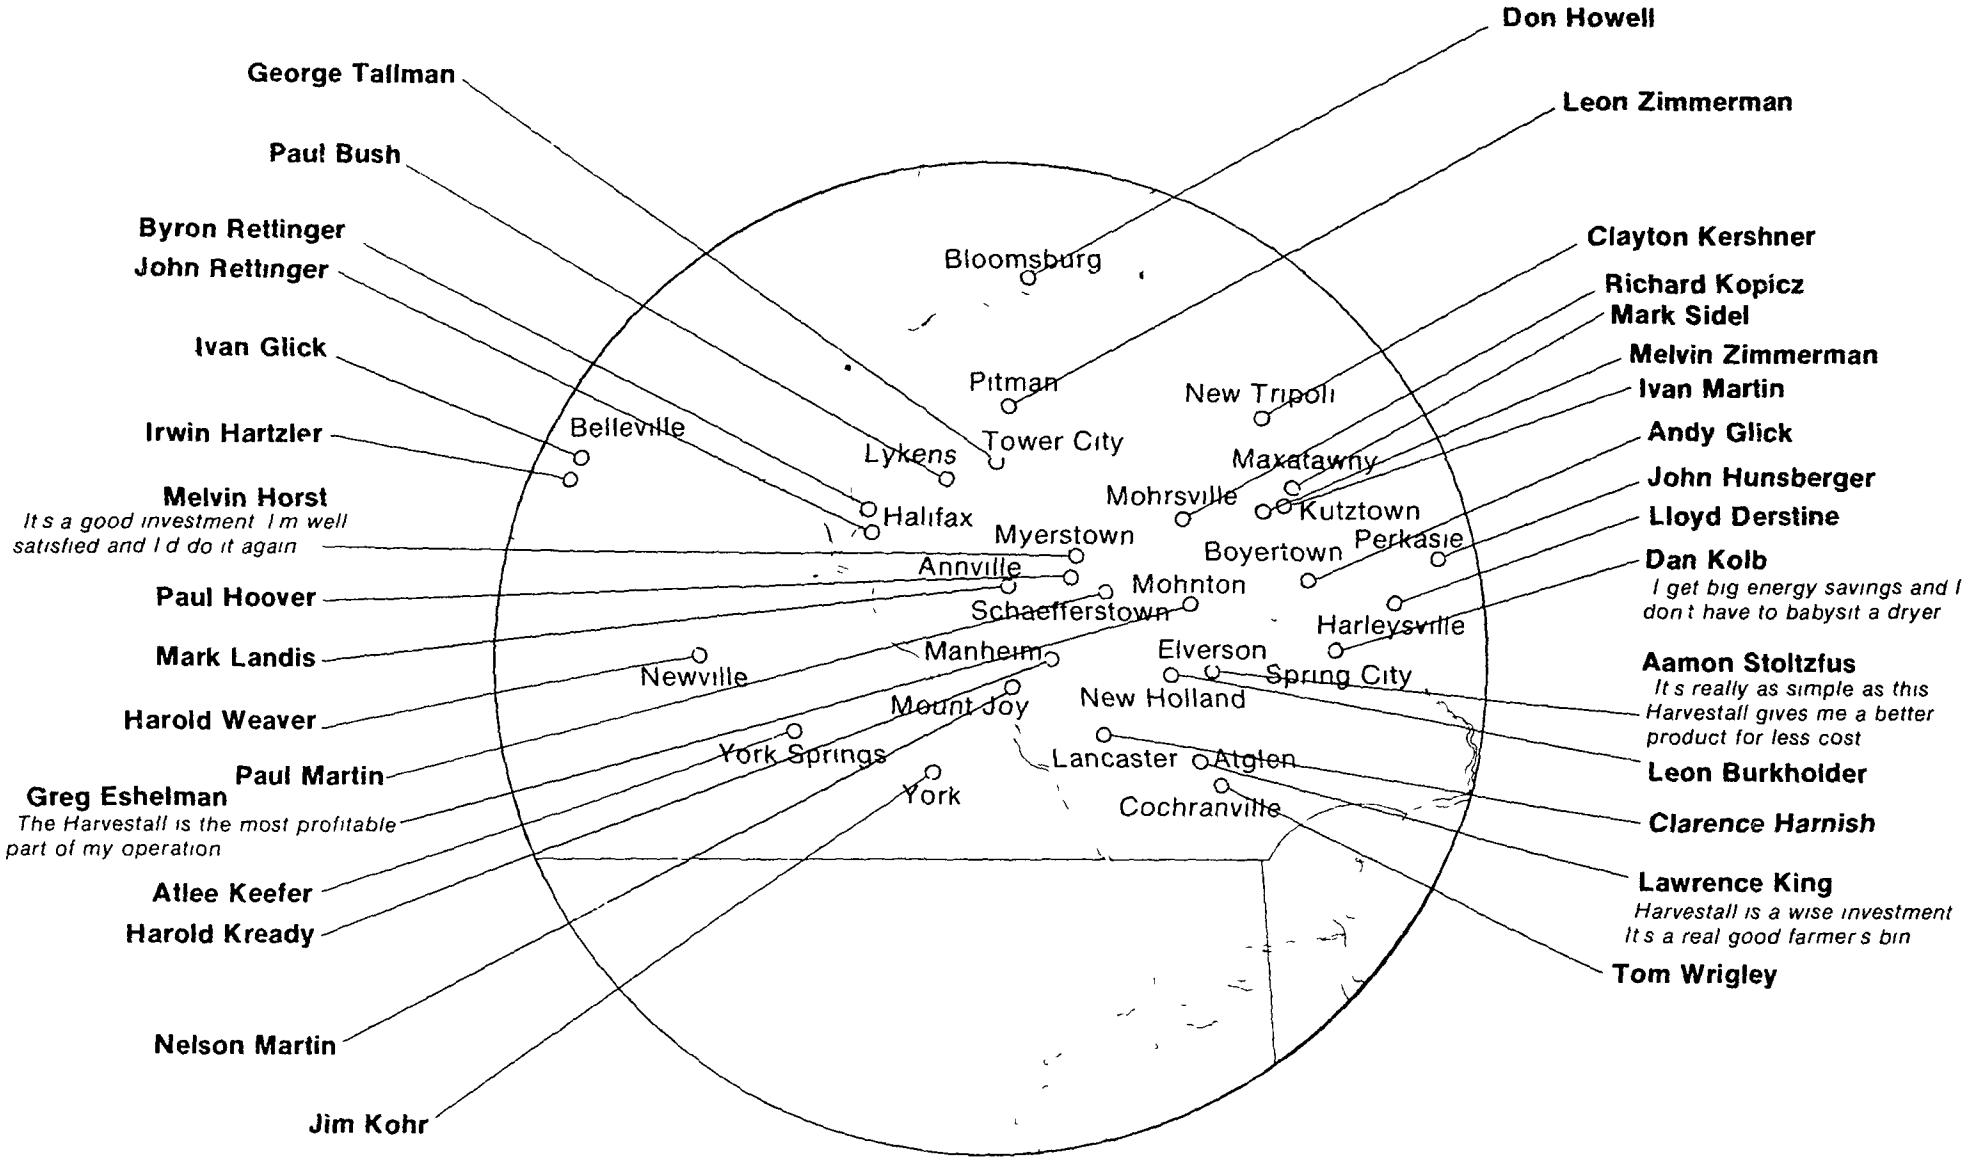
Harvestall Chillcuring
Straight Talk



Some of these Harvestall owners will be at a Special Noon Dinner Meeting near you soon. Come and find out from them how they are achieving great savings and getting a better product too.

If you are in the market for grain storage, you can't do better than Harvestall. The Harvestall Grain Chillcuring system will save you!

- MONEY — Savings in operating cost plus reduced grain shrinkage (compared to heat drying) will totally pay for the system in five years or less in most cases.
- ENERGY — The Harvestall uses only electricity, about 1½ kw hrs. per bushel. There is absolutely no gas or oil to buy.
- GRAIN — Because this is natural air drying, there is no heat damage, and no shrinkage due to loss of dry matter. Harvestall is slow and gentle to the grain, just like nature. So you get the maximum nutritional value.
- TIME — Grain is moved only once, from the field to the bin. At harvest there is no bottleneck resulting in a big saving in time and labor.
- AGGRIVATION — The Harvestall is so simple it almost takes care of itself. It's virtually maintenance free because the only moving parts are the fans.

CCC signs grain export contracts

LEESPORT — The Commodity Credit Corporation has recently signed agreements with 12 grain exporters to acquire contractual obligations for up to 16,095,029 metric tons of corn, soybeans and wheat which could not be shipped to the Soviet Union due to the imposition of export controls, according to Mark Balthaser, chairperson of the Berks County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

This total will be reduced by the volume shipped to reach the 8 million ton level under the US-USSR grain agreement.

Offers to acquire the contracts were mailed to 14 grain exporters by CCC on February 6. The offers covered all contracts for shipment to the Soviet Union which had not been loaded by January 9.

February 15 was the final day the exporters could accept the CCC offer.

The 12 firms who accepted are Bunge, Cargill Inc., Continential Grain, Louis Dreyful Corp., Farmers Export, Garnac Grain, Goodpasture Export Corp., Pasternak/Baum, Pillsbury Co., Tidewater Grain Co., Alfred C. Toepfer and Tradigrain Inc.

Two firms, Central Soya and Philipp Bros. Grain Corp. declined the offer.

The grain in the acquired contracts includes 10,845,516 metric tons (427 million bushels) of corn, 710,317 metric tons (26 million bushels) of soybeans and 4,538,196 metric tons (167 million bushels) of wheat.

Rustling continues in 3 counties

Reports of cattle rustling are continuing across the three-county area of Lancaster, Lebanon and Berks.

Ivan S. Zimmerman, R2 East Earl, Lancaster County, this week reported 16 Jersey heifers missing from winter pasture. The animals could have been taken on several occasions since September 22, according to Zimmerman. Their value was placed at $12,000.

Last week, four bulls were stolen from the barn of Norman Kline at Reistville in Lebanon County. Through a cooperative effort of Myerstown police and New Jersey State Police, the animals were located and subsequently returned. A New Jersey couple was charged with receiving stolen goods and released on bail. On the night of the theft, Myerstown police spotted a pickup truck and horse trailer with New Jersey tags driving through town.

Early Tuesday morning, a fire of suspicious origin destroyed the Kline barn from which the four bulls had been stolen.

Despite the flames and extreme heat, firemen from Schafferstown and Myerstown were able to free 21 bulls in the barn. Without special equipment, firemen were wet down and entered the blazing barn to save the livestock. No one was injured.

At the scene of the fire, a stolen Ryder rental truck was found, along with a cap believed to come from a gas can. Investigation is continuing.

Friends and neighbors within a six-mile radius gathered at the Kline farm on Tuesday and Wednesday to clean up the fire debris. The Kline family has expressed its appreciation for the assistance.

About a mile away, two bulls were taken from the Moses Garman farm late last year.

Additional incidents of recent livestock thefts have been reported in other areas of Lebanon County, near Churchtown in Lancaster County and in the Kutztown area of Berks County.

Neighbors clean up the fire debris of the Reistville barn of Norman Kline, from which four bulls were stolen less than a week earlier.

Haabstad fields grain embargo question

Straw poll selects candidates

BY SHEILA MILLER

HARRISBURG — Although most of the visitors to the 1980 Farm Equipment Exposition were looking for information on machinery or products to use on their farms, this year's crowds were given a chance to learn about the political end of agriculture.

According to Hugh Coffman, Farm Show Director, he had been approached by several political candidates for space at the already over-crowded Farm Show. Several weeks prior to the opening of the Expo, Coffman said they decided to send out invitations for the election campaigns to rent space.

He noted that seven campaigns, plus the League of Women Voters, set up information booths.

The political arena, as it was dubbed by the Expo organizers, had some logistics problems when the show opened on Thursday. The political representatives found their accommodations in the poultry barn too isolated.

In order to get their beliefs across to the public, the campaigners had to strategically locate where they would be noticed. So, their displays and tables were shifted to the concourse between the commercial exhibitors and the livestock barns.

Despite the better vantage point, the Expo visitors still seemed to pass by the tables covered with political pamphlets, occasionally picking up a brochure or two. The campaigners appeared ready to talk to the visitors about their candidate's merits; but, for the most part, they succeeded only in talking among themselves.

By mid-afternoon Saturday, most of the campaigners had started packing up and tearing down their displays. The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture employees in charge of conducting the straw poll began to entreat visitors passing by to take part in the vote. But, in the typical rat-race rush, the Expo spectators detoured the ballot box with a hurried "I voted already!".

The outcome of the straw poll was tabulated on Monday. With a crowd estimated at 25,000 by the Farm Show Director, the poll received a meager 356 votes for the three day "election."

The Expo visitors who voted selected George Bush as the Republican candidate, and Jimmy Carter as the Democratic candidate for President.

Bush received 72 Republican votes, followed by Ronald Reagan with 55, John Anderson and Howard Baker with 21 each, John Conley with 20 votes and several write-in votes for Gerald Ford and Barry Goldwater.

Carter swept the democratic choice, getting 78 votes. Ted Kennedy was backed by 44 Expo voters, and 10 cast their ballots for Gerry Brown.

For the U.S. Senate seat, Bud Haabestad was chosen as the Republican candidate in the straw poll, with Pete Flaherty as his Democratic opposition. Haabestad had 45 of the 131 Republican votes, and Flaherty got 62 of the 139 Democratic votes.

Bud Haabstad

The Auditor General political battle will be between James Knepper and Al Benedict, according to the Expo poll. And LeRoy Zimmerman and Michael O'Pake will be fighting it out at the polls for Attorney General, as indicated by the ballots cast in the straw poll. The survey also foretold that Budd Dwyer and Bob Casey were the chosen candidates for the office of Treasurer.

Whether his victory was the result of his brief appearance at the Expo, Bud Haabestad was introduced to the crowd of about 300 at the Keystone Classic swine sale, held on Saturday.

After a brief introduction by PDA Secretary Hallowell, Harold F. Haabestad, Jr. told the farmers our nation's strength is in its ability to produce food. He went on to say government has to concentrate on helping the farmer, and together will turn the country around and get it back on the right track.

In an exclusive interview with Lancaster Farming, Haabestad explained he is currently a county commissioner in Delaware County. He was quick to add he grew up on a farm near Cambridge, Maryland, until he was 18 years old. He recalled having turkeys, cattle, and hogs, and raising tomatoes on the 300 acre farm that he says is still in the family.

When asked what he felt he could do to help the current plight of the farmer, Haabstad said he felt it was unfair to think one person has the power to turn things around, but he said he would try to impress upon the legislators in Washington, D.C. the importance of the

PFU takes credit for Beeferendum defeat

HARRISBURG — "The resounding defeat of the Beeferendum by cattle owners in Pennsylvania and the Nation indicates that Farmers Union policy reflects the thinking of real farmers and ranchers across America," said Pennsylvania Farmers Union Director Leonard Zemaitis.

In the wake of a 60 to 40 percent defeat nationally, and a crushing 90 percent to 10 percent margin in Pennsylvania, Zemaitis said it is clear cattle producers reject beef promotion and favor keepting money in their pockets–not in the hands of an unelected beef board.

The Beef Referendum would have been a mandatory assessment scheme on the production of beef, paid by producers, to fund a $150 million national program of advertisement, promotion, and research. As written, it violated at least five criteria for such plans spelled out in National Farmers Union policy. For this reason, the Farmers Union stood alone among national farm organizations in opposition.

Among those in favor were the National Cattlemen's Association, the American Farm Bureau Federation and the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association. The Pennsylvania Grange remained neutral.

The Pennsylvania Farmers Union was the only organization in the Commonwealth providing information and urging a "No" vote. It now is clear that 90 percent of the cattle owners voting agreed with that position.

Results of the vote in Pennsylvania were 6855 against, to 789 for. Every county in the Commonwealth soundly voted to defeat the measure.

Zemaitis said, "National Cattlemen's groups, and other pushing the referendum simply missed the drift of our cattle producer sentiment. A similar program was defeated in 1977, when it required a two-thirds vote for passage; the 1980 proposal required only 50 percent, and even that could not be accomplished."

Pennsylvania Farmers Union effort to inform prodocuers was a real "grassroots" effort, with members in most counties distributing flyers and talking to their fellow farmers. Both the policy position and the effort to defeat the order illustrate that with the information at hand, cattle producers will make correct decisions for themselves.

Haabstad, who has had experience in the small business world with his chemical and paper products companies, said he felt that farmers and small businessmen were over-regulated, with too many decisions being made for them rather than by them.

Concerning the recent grain embargoes, Haabstad said if farm products are used as political tools he feels it will be necessary to spread the cost across to all citizens. He said he felt it was unfair to have farmers assume all of the responsibility and cost for the use of food as a political weapon to influence world decisions. This equalling out of responsibility and cost he said could be done through increased financial support for farmers through government programs.

Haabstad said he was aware of the problem of handling farm and small business estates through personal experiences, and he said that in Delaware County they have a lower taxing plan if the farmland remains in agriculture for a minimum ten-year period. He said he realizes there are a number of proposed programs for dealing with the inheritance problem and preserving farmland and he recognizes the need to support them in order to "save an important aspect of our American heritage".

Ag contractors meeting to be held March 27

WEST CHESTER — Agricultural contractors will have a chance to learn more about the installation of conservation practices on farm land at a workshop sponsored by the Chester County Conservation District. The workshop will be held on March 27 at 8 p.m. at the Downingtown Savings & Loan Building in Downingtown

Gene McCarney of Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corporation will present information on the "one-call" system used in Pennsylvania for notifying utilities before digging. It is required that any digging in the vicinity of buried pipelines and electricity or telephone lines be reported so that the utility can check it out to prevent interference with their service. Operators of digging equipment might also be exposed to dangerous situations when digging near pipelines or other lines.

Contractors will review the Soil Conservation Service, USDA, construction and completion checks required before subsidized conservation payments can be made to farmers.

A film will be shown on the construction of the Alaskan pipeline.

Reservations are required by March 21. They can be made by calling the Conservation District office at 696-5126.

Manure management meeting, tours set

LANCASTER — A manure management meeting for dairymen will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Monday, March 17 at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center, to discuss manure handling systems and how to manage manure for maximum benefits.

As a follow up to this meeting, tours and demonstrations have been scheduled to give dairymen an opportunity to observe systems and equipment in operation. Tour dates are Wednesday and Thursday, March 19 and 20.

On March 17, gravity flow systems will be discussed by Richard Guest, Cornell Agricultural Engineer. He will update farmers on the production of methane gas from manure. David Matthews, Agway Agronomist, will report on his work measuring crop response to various kinds of manures, and to manures stored in a variety of different ways and applied in different ways and at different times of the year.

Soil conservationists will discuss earthen bank storages, proper sizing of storage facilities and proper application techniques. Guidelines for planning manure systems, and safety considerations will also be included. Different systems being used in the county will be shown, including systems that require no electricity.

Four farms in southern Lancaster County will be toured on Wednesday, March 19, and a variety of loaders, pumps, agitators, spreaders and injectors will be demonstrated. The tour schedule begins at 9:30 a.m. at the Earl Neff farm, one mile north of Quarryville on Stone Road.

The Dale Herr farm, 4 miles southeast of Quarryville, and one half mile northwest of Route 472, will be visited at 10:30 a.m.

At 12:30 p.m., the tour will arrive at the Robert L. Kauffman farm, located on Prowls Hollow Road, off of Route 272 about 5 miles south of the Buck.

Port of Baltimore status changed

USDA changes port list for livestock imports

WASHINGTON, D C — Federal authorities have redifined the types of ports for animal imports and have revised the list of ports through which animals and animal products can be brought into this country.

"Ports are designed as air and ocean ports, Canadian border ports, Mexican border ports and limited ports," said P.R. Smith, assistant secretary of agriculture for the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Marketing and Transporatation Services, including the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service.

"Limited ports," he explained, "are ports which have inspection facilities only for small animals and for animal products such as animal semen, animal testing specimens for hatching eggs and day-old chicks which do not require restraint and holding inspection facilities."

Effective March 24, all animals that require quarantine and are being imported into the United States by air or sea must arrive through ports of New York, N.Y.; Miami, Fla.; Los Angeles and San Francisco, Calif.; and Honolulu, Hawaii.

Some ports previously designated as ocean ports now are in the "limited port" category. These are Portland, Maine; Boston, Mass.; Baltimore. Md.; Jacksonville and Tampa, Fla.; San Juan, P.R.; New Orleans, La.; Galveston, Texas; San Diego, Calif.; Portland, Ore.; and Tacoma and Seattle, Wash.

Newly designated as "limited ports" are Anchorage, Alaska; Denver, Colo.; Chicago, Ill.; Minneapolis, Minn.; Great Falls, Mont.; Houston, Texas; and Spokane, Wash.

Spokane previously was listed as a Canadian border port.

There now are 23 land border ports for entry of animals from Canada. These are Houlton and Jackman, Maine; Derby Line and Highgate Springs, Vt.; Champlain, Ogdenburg, Rooseveltown, Alexandria Bay and Buffalo, N.Y.; Detroit, Port Huron and Sault Ste Marie, Mich.; Pembina, Portal and Dunseigh, N.D.; Raymond, Opheim and Sweetgrass, Mont.; Eastport, Idaho; and Oroville, Sumas, Blaine and Lynden, Wash.

Deleted as Canadian border ports because of lack of use or low volume use are at Calais, Holeb, Fort Kent and Van Buren, Maine; Richford, Vt.; Rouses Pt., Chateaugay, Ft. Covington, Hogansburg, Moores Junction, Morristown and Niagara Falls, N.Y.; Noyes, Minn.; Porthill, Idaho; Laurier and Nighthawk, Wash.; and Juneau and Skagway, Alaska.

For Mexico, there are 16 land border ports. These are Brownsville, Hidalgo, Laredo, Eagle Pass, Del Rio, Presidio and El Paso, Texas; Antelope Wells and Columbus, N.M.; Douglas, Naco, Nogales, Sasabe and San Luis, Ariz.; and Calexico and San Ysidro, Calif. Rio Grande City and Roma, Texas were deleted from this list because no animals have been brought through these ports for several years. At the same time, Sasabe, Ariz., and Antelope Wells and Columbus, N.M., are additions to the list.

Notice of this action was published in the Federal Register February 22. The changes go into effect March 24.

Cattlemen's Assn. steps back to assess Beeferendum defeat

DENVER, Colo. — The beef cattle industry will have to reassess its beef research and information programs and come up with more effective plans within the framework of existing organizations, Merlyn Carlson said Monday.

Carlson, who is president of the National Cattlemen's Assn., commented on beef program needs following the apparent defeat of the proposed uniform collection plan. Based on preliminary reports, it appeared that the Beef Research and Information Program would not receive more than 40 percent "Yes" votes in the producer referendum held February 19 to 22. A simple majority was required for passage.

"In my view, the voting results were unfortunate," Carlson said. "But cattle producers have spoken. A majority does not want this particular program at this time. Meanwhile, the need for a strong beef program — particularly in the diet-health research and information area — is still very much with us.

"Even many Beeferendum opponents agree there is a real need for stronger market development programs. Now we must channel that agreement into greater support of state and national programs — with the aim of doing a better job of fighting anti-beef propaganda at the national level.

"In the case of cotton and eggs, markets were badly eroded before members of those industries instituted effective check-off programs. I hope beef demand will not have to be eroded to the same degree before we undertake stronger programs.

"We now will have to reexamine what we are doing and how we are doing it We will have to determine what we realistically can do, establish new priorities and more clearly focus our efforts on the greatest needs.

"A really good beef research and promotion effort might require $1 per head. But if a realistic level is significantly lower than that, and is obtainable from only limited numbers of producers, then we will have to gear our programs to meeting the highest priority needs within that kind of budgeting. And the industry will have to accept the kinds of efforts and results which can be attained within those limits."

Carlson siad a good deal of the Beeferendum opposition appeared to stem from false allegations about "government control" and the level of collections. However, he added, the fact remains that many cattlemen, with access to accurate information, apparently did not agree with all of the cost-benefit and other arguments in favor of the proposed program.

Carlson noted NCA and other members of the Beeferendum Advisory Group had not yet had an opportunity to discuss the implications of the vote, but, he said, this no doubt would be done soon.

The NCA board will meet in March It is not expected that another national referendum will be sought

"The challenges to NCA, Cattle-Fax, the National Live Stock & Meat Board and other organizations have increased," he said.

"NCA will have to assume a stronger leadership role Hopefully, NCA and other industry groups will emerge as a stronger, more unified force on behalf of cattlemen We hope the recent anti-government activism can be translated into greater and broader-based support of organizations, including NCA, which defend and advocate beef and the free enterprise system in the livestock business."

Carlson said there appeared to be a number of reasons why the 1980 referendum approval level was considerably less than that in 1977, in spite of a major Beeferendum effort by many dedicated cattlemen and women and organizations

Amond these reasons, he said, were the incorrect but more widely held perception that this would be a "government-run program" and the collections would be a "tax"

Improved feeder cattle prices and less urgency among some producers to support a program whose benefits would be longer range, were cited as was frustration and uncertainty about the entire economic and political situation; high inflation and rapidly rising interest and other costs; resistance to an increased or another "cost;" financial losses by feeders for several months; more conservative economic and stronger anti-government attitudes generally

Failure of many producers (particularly those for whom beef cattle are not the major enterprise) to accept arguments about program and investment need; apathy among some program supporters; increased activity by a number of opposition groups; a feeling by some that the money would be wasted by high-overhead "Madison Avenue-type" operations, also contributed.

March confidently into tree planting

UNIVERSITY PARK — Many young nut and fruit trees planted each year do not live because they were not planted properly, says Marshall Ritter, pomologist, at Penn State.

While there is no guarantee they will live, there are some planting practices that will increase the chances of successful tree growth.

Here are some guidelines to follow at planting time.

Inspect new trees for insect and disease damage as well as heat injury and mechanical damage. Return damaged trees to the nursery.

Plant trees during early spring - mid-March to first of May.

Plant trees soon after arrival from the nursery so their roots will not dry out. When weather does not permit immediate planting, cover the tree's roots with soil and water thoroughly.

The planting holes should be large and deep enough to set trees without crowding, bending or breaking their roots. Set the tree at about the same height as it stood in the nursery row. That point may be determined by finding the "soil line" on the trunk.

After placing plants in holes, begin refilling with good top soil next to the roots. Pack the soil with your feet as it is added, being careful not to leave air pockets around roots. When the hole is about three-fourths filled with soil, pour in 2 to 3 gallons of water After this water soaks in, finish filling with soil.

Leave a slight depression around each tree to catch rainfall. Cut off one-fourth of the tree top and branches right after setting.

Do not mix dry fertilizer materials with the soil in refilling the hole This may cause new feeder roots to be burnt as they develop.

Tractor pulls climax Second Farm Equipment Expo

Champion of the 9000 pound class was Harry Barrick, with his Oliver 1855 and winning pull of 159 feet, 5½ inches.

HARRISBURG — The tractor pulling competition at the Farm Equipment Exposition wrapped up on Saturday, with the 9000 pound class qualifications in the morning and the finals held that same evening.

The mechanical horse power pulling contest was a crowd-drawing event despite the $5 a head charge to attend the final piston-popping matches.

The stock tractor pulls were a first at second annual Expo, with three weight classes. The 5500 and 13,000 pound classes were held on Thursday, with close to forty and fifteen entries respectively.

Qualifying in the 9000 pound class out of 23 entries were: Paul Hoch; Harry Barrick, Jr.; Ray Mowry; Gary Brown; Craig Frey; John Wetmore; Elton Muth; Donald Zaleski; Russell Byers; and Dean Innerst.

These men, along with the Thursday finalists, were ready to draw their positions for the final one-pull eliminations in the Saturday championship decision.

In the 5500 pounds finals, the top three placings went to entries who hadn't placed in the top three on Thursday.

The championship trophy went to George Easton, R1 Cogan Station. He had the winning pull of 167 feet, 2½ inches with is Oliver 88. On Thursday, Easton had placed ninth with a pull of 116 feet, 10 inches.

Gilbert Watson, R2 Mars, and his Farmall M came in second with a pull of 165 feet, 11½ inches. Watson came the closest to the top on Thursday, placing fourth.

And, Carl Modica, Jr., Asbury, N.J., driving his Farmall M, had the final third place pull with 165 feet even. His best pull on Thursday got him to seventh place.

In the 1300 pound class, David Gross, of R1 Hamburg, held onto third place in the Thursday competition and in the finals. With his John Deere 4230, he turned in a final pull of 169 feet, 4½ inches.

The champion of the 13,000 pound class was Randy Greene, R2 Canton. His winning pull of 173 feet, 7 inches was made with an International 1206. Greene's best pull on Thursday was ranked the tenth best, just barely qualifying him for the Saturday night finals.

And Larry Klinger, R1 Winfield, who followed Gross in placing on Thursday, traded his fourth place for a second in the finals. His Oliver 1850 dragged the load 168 feet, 6 inches.

Another Oliver topped the 9000 pound finals, only this model was an 1855. In close competition, and after a pull-off match, Harry Barrick, Jr. out-distanced Paul Hoch to trade his second place ranking for the grandchampion. Barrick's pull measured 159 feet, 5½ inches, where Hoch's Case 930 wound down at 140 feet, nine inches.

Third place went to Henry Achenbach, R1 PenArgyl, whose Ford 5000 turned in a pull of 172 feet, 10½ inches before the Barrick-Hoch pull-off.-SM

The final results for the tractor pulling debut at Expo were:

Farm Talk

Jerry Webb

You can forget any thoughts of an easy solution to farmland preservation problems.

After sitting through a day-long meeting on that subject recently and hearing the comments of perhaps 50 different people, mostly Delaware farmers, I'm convinced of two things: something needs to be done to preserve the state's precious farmland; to get an acceptable policy will be one of the most difficult challenges ever faced by the agricultural community.

A reasonable assemblage of farmers, farm leaders, government workers, and so-called experts, gathered in Dover for a extension sponsored forum on land use planning. Topics ranged from a proposed New Castle County agricultural zone to how land use is viewed in western European countries.

In between, I heard almost every possible alternative, including the do-nothing policy that has been followed in Delaware for so many years.

The environment was friendly with most of the participants calling each other by first names. But you could sense the makings of a fight Landowners wanted to get the facts and hear the alternatives and broaden their base of understanding. But they also wanted to ask some rather pointed questions and to defend their homesteads.

As farmers stood up in the forum to express their views, or in private conferences, a feeling of frustration seemed to be all around them. It was like they were there to defend themselves from some unknown governmental unit that might be swooping on them, seizing their right to farm. And yet many of them admitted the need for some kind of planning and logical developmental growth in agricultural areas.

Farmers are stuck with a real dilemma when it comes to land use planning. For many, their farms are their retirement programs, the death benefits for their spouses, and the legacy for their children. They don't want to sign over that right to agricultural zoning.

At the same time, they don't want to be plagued with the problems of rural residents who live on adjoining land and don't like to smell hog manure or the sight of pesticides being applied.

As one observer at the meeting so appropriately stated it, farmers want their cake and then be able to eat it also. And most farmers admit to this.

They want some kind of protection while they're farming, and that includes property tax breaks, right-to-farm legislation, and other actions that keep them competitive in the farming business

Then when they or their heirs want to cash in, they'd like to be able to sell to the highest bidder even if that means a rural developer.

But they can't have it both ways. To get the protection they need now, it seems to me they're going to have to give up some future opportunities–whether that means agricultural zoning, selling off development rights, agricultural districts, and the other terminology that professional land use planners toss around.

The governmental observers who attended that meeting must be convinced that farmers don't know what they want, and that's probably right because as a group farmers don't agree on what should be done. They probably never will. That's because farmers are fiercely independent businessmen, with their own individual situations and points of view. What's right for one is totally wrong for another.

The farmer who spoke very eloquently about the need for agricultural zoning lives in New Castle County and has seen firsthand what can happen when urban development moves into an agricultural area

He's at the opposite end of the spectrum from the Kent County farmer who talked about voluntary action on the part of farmers, and a viable agricultural economy as the best farmland preservation scheme

Farmland preservation plans are in place in many states, including Pennsylvania, Maryland and New York. One expert said perhaps 25 states have some kind of farmland preservation laws and almost every state has problems, at least in urbanized areas

So what will happen in Delaware? What plan will the First State adopt?

I haven't the slighest idea and I don't know any more about what farmers want after attending the meeting than I did before I went. I do know they want to be involved in whatever planning and talking is going on. I know that whatever program is implemented will affect them more than anyone else, will take away something that they now have, and will leave them as individuals on different sides of the issue.

There won't be consensus among farm organizations, farm organization leadership, or individual farmers The best anyone can hope is some well-dicussed planning, a very cautious and open approach to the whole problem, and ultimately some form of majority rule

Something needs to be done. Almost all farmers agree to that. Who should do it, how it should be accomplished and when it should be accomplished, are issues that are yet to be decided.

Since it affects them most, it seems to me farmers should seize the initiative and move forward with a program of land use planning and that suits most of them the best. If they wait for some form of government to take on the job, they're apt to wind up with a lot less.

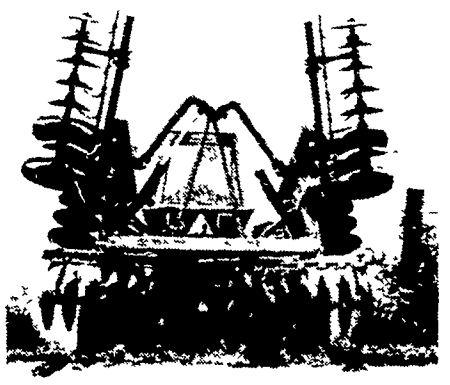
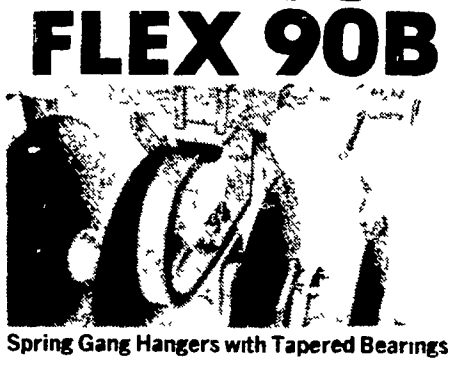
RHINO FLEX 90B





Spring Gang Hangers with Tapered Bearings

11' Transport Width. The Flex 90B will follow inside most tractors with dual wheels, making it easy and safe to go from field to field through narrow gates and over narrow bridges You can have peace of mind regardless of who is at the wheel! Takes less storage space also! The narrow transport width is made possible because the heavy wings pivot 16" inside the base gangs' outer disc This design feature also contributes to the 90B's plowing ability The heavy wing structures provide the weight needed to make wings penetrate like the center frame gangs This allows the wings to "flex up" without lifting the center unit when the inside wing gang strikes a rock or stump, thus reducing shock loads to all components The Flex 90B is designed to save you money in the field and on the road

NOTICE

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE SOIL CONSERVATION SERVICE CHICKIES CREEK WATERSHED, PENNSYLVANIA. Notice of Intent to Prepare an Environmental Impact Statement Pursuant to Section 102 (2) (c) of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969; the Council on Environmental Quality Regulations (40 CFR Part 1500-1508); and the Soil Conservation Service Rule (7 CFR Part 650); the Soil Conservation Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, gives notice that an environment impact statement is being prepared for the Chickies Creek Watershed, Lancaster and Lebanon Counties, Pennsylvania. This action may involve the use of new innovative nonstructural items such as repositioning, floodproofing or acquiring properties within the 100-year flood plain. Also, a flood warning system may be installed and an accelerated conservation land treatment program may be included. Mr. Graham T. Munkittrick, State Conservationist, therefore determined that the preparation and review of an environmental impact statement is needed for this Federally-assisted action. The action concerns a plan for watershed protection and flood prevention. Alternatives under consideration to reach these objectives include systems for conservation land treatment, nonstructural measures, impoundments, channel improvements and diking. A draft environmental impact statement will be prepared for the entire project and circulated for review by agencies and the public. The Soil Conservation Service invites the participation and consultation of all agencies and persons with special expertise, legal jurisdiction, or interest to assist in the proposed action.

A public meeting was held in the watershed on December 6, 1979, which described the alternatives and various levels of developing the proposed nonstructural action. The sponsors of the project met with the Soil Conservation Service on January 17, 1980, concerning the scope of the evaluation of the proposed action and their participation in the project.

Further information on the proposed action or preparation of the environmental impact statement may be obtained from Mr. Graham T. Munkittrick, State Conservationist, Soil Conservation Service, Federal Building and U.S. Courthouse, 228 Walnut Street, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania 17108, telephone number (717) 782-2202. Graham T. Munkittrick State Conservationist. (Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance Program No. 10.904, Watershed Protection and Flood Prevention Program - Public Law 83-566, 16 U.S C. 1001-1008.)

A HIGH PRODUCING CHESTER CO. HERD FEEDS BROWNS. . .

The well kept Allen Lee Stoltzfus farm is located east of Honeybrook in Chester County.

Allen Lee Stoltzfus, son of Nathan and Dr. Walter Kennett, nutritionist, F. M. Brown's Sons, discusses high moisture corn-oats combination as removed from sealed storage silo.

ALLEN LEE STOLTZFUS, Honeybrook RD#1, has built his high producing, home bred herd, on cow families . . . like many other successful dairymen. Starting from a foundation of 14 Kingpens, Allen Lee has used selective mating with popular sires to gain recognition as owning one of the highest producing herds in Chester County. Testing with Lancaster County DHIA, Allen Lee completed the 1979 DHIA year with a herd average of

19,010 lbs. MILK - 685 lbs. BUTTERFAT - 34 COWS

Allen Lee is a strong advocate of foraging testing and feed programing as performed at Browns. Corn silages and hays are tested several times during the year and are programed with high-moisture corn-oats, Brown's 38 MILKMASTER and minerals to produce the desired balanced feeding program.

CARVEL PRIDE FAY (NC)

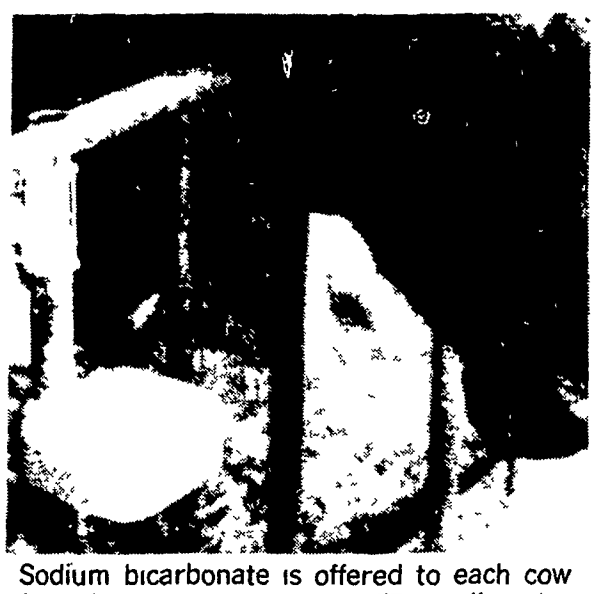
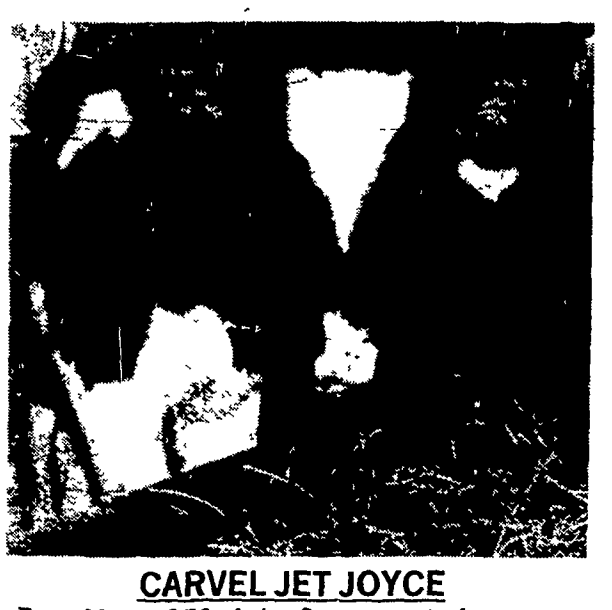
2-10 237da 15,604m 660f 4.2 (inc)
Fay's dam is scored Ex90 with 3 lactations over 20,000 milk and 900 fat, an Elevation daughter in Utah and a Sept. son in France.



Sodium bicarbonate is offered to each cow free choice in manger cups. "Bicarg" is also added to 38 MILKMASTER which is fed according to production over high moisture corn-oats



CARVEL JET JOYCE

Born May, 1979. A Jet Stream out of a 2 year old Elevation projected at 16,000 lbs milk. Second dam is an A. CITATION making her 3rd record over 20,000 lbs milk

WE ARE PROUD of our customer's fine cows, skilled management and achievements. Records such as these are a source of pride to us. We are pleased with the part that BROWN'S FEEDS and SERVICES had in helping to attain these records. We shall continue to strive in 1980 to give farmers the best quality feed and nutritional service possible.

Robert McDonald's Red Maple trees keep him running

BY SUSAN KAUFFMAN
Staff Correspondent

February in some areas is the time when the groundhog predicts the end of winter. March is known for its winds which blow in April's spring showers. Undoubtedly a warmer season is close at hand.

For Robert McDonald, and other maple syrup producers who work on a much larger scale than he, the end of February and the weeks of March usually mean the start to finish process of extracting sap and making syrup.

While most syrup makers use Sugar Maple trees, Chester County forester Jerry Kelley pointed out that McDonald was using Red Maple trees on his Honey Brook property for his own syrup supply. McDonald explained that this is the third year he has tried syrup making on his nine acre homesite.

"I do this on a really small scale. I have read government publications, made my own equipment and tried different ways of evaporating. The labor I put into it would not be practical for a commercial business. This happens to be something I can do this time of year when there is nothing much else to do," he explained.

To compare or point out the very small scale of his syrup making, he explained that Vermont syrup producers use Sugar Maples which are not native to this area and which have a sugar content in their sap of twice that of the Red Maple McDonald uses.

"It takes forty gallons of Sugar Maple sap to make one gallon of syrup. It takes eighty gallons of Red Maple sap to make a gallon of syrup," he explained.

Large syrup producers in Vermont, New York and Canada have extensive acreage and tree populations to work with, while McDonald says he tapped only 250 trees this spring.

Because he is doing things on a much smaller scale than commercial producers, he has kept his investments to a minimum by using left over plastic tubing, plastic and glass gallon jugs, a brace and bit for drilling holes by hand, a wood fire for evaporating fuel and a propane burner for finishing. In addition to these necessities, he has fashioned a large evaporator tray and finishing kettle from stainless steel. He also contributes many hours of carrying pails of sap from the trees to the storage barrels and tending the evaporating fire.

Two year ago, McDonald said he experimented with the sap collecting and syrup making by using only twenty trees. The sap was cooked down to syrup consistency in a kettle on the woodstove McDonald had made to heat his home. "We boiled it down over several days time and got one half a gallon of clear, dark, very sweet syrup," he recalled.

Last year he used more trees and produced six gallons of sweet liquer to supply their cooking needs for the year and to give to a few neighbors. Last year's syrup was evaporated on a wood fire outside and finished or cooked to its final consistency on the electric stove in the kitchen.

This year he will finish the syrup on a propane burner because the cost of electricity is so high, he said.

Although the government has exacting standards for grading maple syrups which are commercially produced, McDonald concerns himself mainly with evaporating the sap to the right consistency or thickness of the syrup. A gallon of maple syrup should weigh eleven pounds, according to accepted standards. When his syrup weighs that much he knows enough water has been evaporated out of the collected sap. When working with red maples, there are 79 gallons of water to one gallon of syrup.

McDonald supplies the wood fuel for the evaporating fire from the timber he has thinned out of his wooded property. He also heats his home with wood. He and his wife, Agnes, have made their former weekend cabin into their home since his retirement as a steam fitter. He and his wife both originally came from South Philadelphia and have found the rural setting pleasant for retirement.

Having transformed the log cabin into a cozy homestead by creating many pieces of wood furniture, heating with a wood stove, decorating with warm reds and blues in the carpets and drapes, and bringing into it the produce of their own garden, henhouse, fishpond and forest, they have worked toward a goal of becoming less dependent on industry and more self-sufficient.

"I know I'll never be totally self-sustaining, but I am having fun trying," McDonald said with a smile. "To put all this labor into the syrup is crazy you might say, but I have nothing better to do," he added.

While a tour of the woods and its tapped trees was interrupted by a pair of surveyors searching out the west boundryline in the woods, Agnes McDonald explained that the trees are tapped the last week of February and the sap is collected until the end of March. The sap this year had started to flow on schedule, but after only a few days, the temperature dropped well below freezing and the sap stopped running. At the time of the interview, the sap was frozen in the jugs.

McDonald said he uses a brace and bit to bore the holes into the tree side by hand. Depending on the diameter of the tree, more than one tap can be placed in a single tree. "If the tree is ten inches in diameter it can have one tap." "If it is fifteen to twenty inches in diameter it can have two taps." "Even larger trees can have three taps," McDonald said.

After the tap hole has been bored out, McDonald inserts a sterilized plastic hose into the hole and uses a putty-like material to seal around the hose so that the sap will not leak out around the point of entry into the bark.

A glass or plastic gallon jug is then hung on a nail by its handle and the other end of the tubing is placed down into the neck of the jug.

When the sap is running, McDonald goes through the woods twice a day collecting the sap by pouring it from the jugs into plastic five- gallon pails, then carrying them to larger collecting barrels. When he has accumulated the day's sap, he cooks down the sap over the wood fire. When most of the water has boiled out, he takes it to a propane fueled burner to finish to syrup consistency. After the proper weight of eleven pounds to the gallon has been reached, the hot syrup is poured into glass canning jars and sealed until later use.

Pure maple syrup, not the maple-flavored liquids commonly marketed as maple pancake syrup, is presently valued at ten dollars a gallon, McDonald explained. Agnes added that the syrup is very sweet and goes a long way as a sugar replacement.

The trees naturally heal themselves within a year's time. New taps have to be made each year in a different area of the trunk usually three or four feet from the ground. Hoses or spouts are cleaned in a clorox and water solution to discourage bacteria and disease.

The sap contains a bacteria which will grow and cause inferior syrup unless the sap is collected daily and boiled down as soon as possible. The taking of the sap from a healthy tree does not impair its growth, McDonald said. He and his wife are proponents of organic gardening and are ever conscious of the effect they and their lifestyle have on their environment so McDonald does not use pellets which commercialy producers use to retard the healing process at the tap hole which in turn keep the sap running longer.

There is a lot of walking and carrying heavy pails of sap to and fro in his nine acre site, but Robert McDonald looks forward to the clear, sweet syrup he gets for his own use from his trees.

McDonald collects the sap in gallon jugs. The sap is clear or white in appearance. When it is cooked down it turns the characteristic amber color.

This is the evaporating woodfire site in McDonald's woodlot. McDonald built it himself, including the large stainless steel evaporating tray seen directly above the wood. Smoke from the fire is drawn off by the smoke stack. The large white plastic barrels are used to hold the collected sap. It takes 80 gallons of sap from red maples to make 1 gallon of syrup.

Does your baby's cereal provide iron?

YORK — Until babies are about six months old they usually need no food other than breast milk or formula. Precooked, enriched dry cereal mixed with water or formula is often the first solid food they are fed.

Enriched baby cereals—wheat, rice, barley, oatmeal, mixed and high protein have no added salt or sugar. They are convenient to use and are economical sources of several nutrients

These cereals are especially valuable as a source of iron.

Family cereals like oatmeal, grits and farina are less expensive than the infant cereals but need to be cooked and, with the exception of cream of wheat, may not have the iron that babies need.

Recent dietary surveys show that babies switched early to family type cereals and other table food usually don't receive iron in amounts recommended by nutritionists.

When shopping, compare unit prices to determine the best buy. Precooked baby cereals already mixed with fruits cost considerably more than the plain cereal.

Apples, celery and walnuts are plentiful. Together they make Waldorf Salad. Your dressing for them is delightful if you fold in one tablespoon each of sugar and lemon juice, one-half teaspoon vanilla and one-fourth teaspoon of salt into one cup of dairy sour cream. Cover and chill for an hour to let flavors blend before using. If desired, add some grated orange peel (up to one teaspoon).

On being a farm wife -And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

One of the hottest news controversies this week was the proposed sperm bank for Nobel Peace Prize winners, with the only donor thus far a Nobel recipient whose pet theory is that intelligence is chiefly hereditary.

Sperm banking is old hat to those of us in the registered cattle breeding industry. Genetic research and preservation techniques of sire semen have put the U.S. way out ahead of the rest of the world in this science.

One cannot help but wonder if people sperm banks might eventually parallel those of bovine bloodlines. Will we (Heaven forbid!) someday end up with human computerized genetic mating, type coding and the commercialization of "proven sires?"

Could we someday expect to have government representatives, perhaps from the Health, Education and Welfare Department, roaming through the country and number-coding us as to our genetic traits? Might our computer genetic transmitting proof include our intelligence level based on batteries of tests, our personality traits and evenness of temperament, our logic, our talents, and likely our ability to fit a square peg into a round hole?

As in cattle coding, would they also lean toward scoring us on the "wearability" of our feet and legs, the sharpness of our physical bone structure and durability of frame, and the cleanness of our heads and necks?

When all this information on both males and females has been color-coded and worked up into a genetic transmitting percentage, we can match the weaknesses of the recipient to the strengths of the donor and - ta, da! - come up with an excellent scored, high productivity, long-wearing Super Homo Sapien.

I'm terrified by the potential of this whole proposal and have only one solution.

Turn it over to a committee. It'll never get off the ground.

Maple syrup...nature's natural sweetener

When Spring is still only a wish in the hearts of the people coping with ice and heating bills, the sugar maple trees provide one of the first real signs of its approach.

This week we are featuring recipes made with maple syrup. Pennsylvania ranks seventh in the nation in maple syrup production, and March is the month when the sap is at its peak flow. So it seemed fitting that we recognize this popular natural sweetener.

Maple syrup brings to mind for many people the syrup they use on their pancakes. This is usually incorrect. In most cases, the syrup used as pancake syrup is in fact a maple-blended syrup and consists of both maple and cane sugars, with only a small percentage coming from the more costly maple sugars. Basically then, the maple syrup is only there as flavoring.

True maple syrup is the pure boiled-down sap from the maple tree.

We offer here recipes from you our readers made with maple products. Why not try some and think Spring?

MAPLE SPARERIBS

1½ cups maple syrup
2 tablespoons chili sauce
1½ tablespoons cider vinegar
1½ teaspoons chopped onion
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
1/8 teaspoon pepper
3 pounds spareribs

Combine ingredients and coat spareribs. Bake at 350° F. 1½ hours brushing with the mixture frequently and turning to glaze evenly.

Lillian Nordquist, Spencer, Mass.

MAPLE DATE-NUT BREAD

¾ cup chopped nuts
1 egg
½ cup maple sugar
1 cup sifted cake flour
1¼ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup whole wheat flour
1 tablespoon melted butter
¾ cups chopped walnuts
2 tablespoons maple syrup

Boil dates for 1 minute with a cup of water, then cool. Add the egg and sugar. Sift cake flour, baking soda, baking powder and salt together, and combine with whole wheat flour and add to first mixture. Fold in butter or margarine and nuts.

Mix ingredients until blended and pour into a greased loaf pan (9½x5½x2¾ inches) Bake in a preheated 350° F oven for 50-60 minutes.

Remove from pan and brush top with maple syrup while bread is hot.

MAPLE SAUCE

Slowly stir ¼ cup hot maple-blended syrup into ½ cup heavy cream, whipped. Use on bread pudding, chocolate cake, etc. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Maple sap flowing gently into waiting bottles heralds Spring in many rural areas.

MAPLE BAKED CUSTARD

4 eggs
¼ cup granulated sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 to 2½ cups milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
6 tablespoons maple syrup

Heat oven to 300° F. Butter 5 or 6 custard cups. Into large bowl, break eggs. Beat at medium speed until fluffy.

Add sugar and salt and beat until thick and lemon-colored. Add milk, vanilla, beat again until thoroughly combined.

Place 1 tablespoon of maple syrup in the bottom of each of the custard cups. Pour mixture into custard cups, filling each to about ½ inch from top.

Set custard cups in shallow baking pan. Place on oven rack and fill pan with hot water to ¾ inch from top of cups.

Bake about 1 hour. When silver knife comes out clean, the custard is done. Remove from oven, place on a wire rack and cool. Refrigerate. Makes 5 or 6 servings

MAPLE SUGAR COOKIES

¼ cup butter
2 cups maple sugar
1 cup thick sour cream
2 eggs
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 cups flour

Cream butter and sugar together. Add vanilla. Add eggs and beat until fluffy. Blend sour cream into the mixture. Sift flour, salt and soda

Add dry ingredients and work until dough is smooth. Add more flour if necessary to make a medium-soft dough.

Chill in the refrigerator for several hours. Turn out on a lightly floured board and roll to 1/8 inch thickness. Place 1 inch apart on a greased baking sheet.

Bake at 375° F. oven until a golden brown. Makes about 4 dozen cookies.

MAPLE JELLY

To make about 1⅔ cups of jelly, soak 1 level teaspoon of gelatin in ⅓ cup cold water for ½ hour

Add 1⅓ cups maple syrup Heat over low heat, stirring constantly, until just boiling. Remove from heat and pack hot in an air-tight container, such as a self-sealing canning jar Refrigerate for 24 hours for gel to set

Each syrup is different, some variation of the basic recipe may be required, depending on syrup used If your jelly is not firm enough, reliquefy and add more water, if it is too firm, reliquefy and add more syrup Reliquefy by gently heating at any time and it will resolidify upon cooling By doing this, you can adjust the jelly to the firmness you desire

Refrigerate after opening

MAPLE SURPRISE COOKIES

1½ cups maple sugar
1 cup shortening
2 eggs
2½ cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup nuts or chips

Mix shortening, sugar and eggs. Sift flour, salt and baking soda. Add to first mixture. Add nuts or chips.

Drop onto ungreased cookie sheets and bake at 350° F. for 10 minutes.

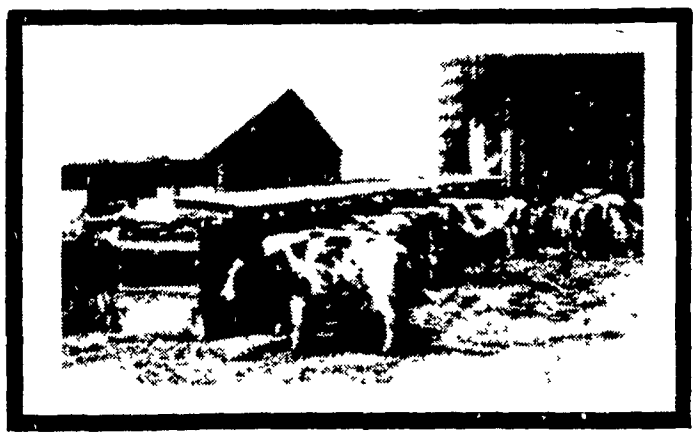
Today's Farming Demands Innovation

Bob Wilson knew there had to be a better way to plant corn on his 1,500 acre farm So he designed and built a 16-row self-propelled planter that lets him put in 200 acres a day Bob is another innovative DEKALB dealer who's willing to share his better ideas

Why Our Best Ideas Are Filling Pennsylvania Planters

The seed you pour into your planter boxes better be the kind that makes big yields or it won't be around for long. Innovative DEKALB hybrids are the best ideas growing for big yield power and disease resistance. And that's the 1-2 punch that helps you get the most out of harvest.



XL-55a

Fast drying XL-55a is on its way to becoming a cornerstone hybrid for the Pennsylvania farmer who likes to plant and harvest early. You'll be in great shape next fall with this outstandingly healthy, big yielding hybrid.

XL-61

Last fall XL-61 and Pete Makin rewrote the record book on the Delmarva Peninsula. They teamed up to produce 235.39* bushels per acre (irrigated). Bumper yields plus excellent health and great standability put XL-61 in a class by itself throughout the East.

XL-71

When Pennsylvania corn growers look at the extra large ears on XL-71, they know they'll harvest big yields. This new hybrid's quality stalks and excellent disease resistance increase the yield you'll haul home.

White fudge continues to be a favorite with our readers, so once again, we've included some recipes for it.

CREAM FUDGE

2 cups sugar
1 cup cream (or 1 can milk)
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon cornstarch

Mix together in a medium saucepan. Boil at a medium heat until it reaches a soft ball stage. (When dropped into water it forms a soft ball).

Cool to lukewarm. Add vanilla and a pinch of cream of tartar and beat until it thickens.

Pour into a buttered pan to cool. Nuts or coconut may be added just before pouring.

This fudge will be more yellow than pure white.

WHITE FUDGE

2 cups granulated sugar
½ cup dairy sour cream
⅓ cup white corn syrup
2 tablespoons butter
¼ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons vanilla, rum or brandy flavoring
¼ cup quartered candied cherries
1 cup coarsely chopped walnuts

Combine first five ingredients in saucepan; bring to a boil slowly, stirring over medium heat to 236° F.

Remove from heat and let stand 15 minutes. Do not stir. Add flavoring and beat until mixture starts to lose its gloss (about 8 minutes).

Stir in cherries and walnuts, and quickly pour into a greased shallow pan. Cool and cut into squares. Makes about 1½ pounds of fudge.

Cloister tells producers of expansion plans

BROWNSTOWN — Farm producers for Cloister Dairies milk held a meeting at Brownstown Restaurant recently. Attending were the local farmers and their sons who produce milk for Cloister Dairies.

Robert Mohn, vice president of Cloister Dairies, outlined the anticipated growth he expected in the coming year, asking the producer farmers to prepare to add milking cows to their herds to handle this increased need for milk.

Bill Culp, sales manager for milk and ice cream, presented the scheduled program for the coming year in milk and ice cream. He emphasized the strong acceptance of the local milk and ice cream in Cloister's market area.

General Manager Bill York spoke about the company's expanded water business and the continued increase in the overall company business.

Franklin County FFA members receive awards

BY RUTH ANN BENEDICT
Staff Correspondent

NEW FRANKLIN — Approximately 110 FFA members, families, teachers, and friends attended the Annual Franklin County FFA Banquet held at the New Franklin Fire Hall on Thursday, February 21, 1980.

Jeffrey Kerr, Dillsburg, State FFA Sentinel, was present for the event and brought greetings from the state association, officers and other staff.

Kerr, in a speech, urged FFA members to share what they have learned in vocational agriculture with someone else.

"Be your best self" said Kerr.

"Everyone sets examples!"

Kerr also stressed that "something worth having is something worth working for, so work hard at what you are doing".

County awards were presented to FFA members by the officers and advisors of the Franklin County FFA.

Micah Meyers, Greencastle, won the County Dairy Judging Award sponsored by the Franklin County Holstein Association. The dairy judging contest was held during the Franklin County Fair last August.

Delaware to hold judging contest

NEWARK, Del. — A state dairy cattle judging contest has been announced by the Extension Service of the University of Delaware and the Delaware Holstein Association.

The "armchair" style contest is open to Delaware residents of all ages. As an incentive to participate, $140 in prizes is being offered to individuals, 4-H clubs, FFA chapters, and families in the 1980 Hoard's Dairyman Judging Contest.

Winners in the Delaware competition will be determined on the basis of Hoard's national placings. Participants may compete individually or as a family, club or team. Deadline for entries is March 18.

Entry blanks and contest pictures are available from county extension agents in Newark, Dover and Georgetown. To be eligible for a Delaware award, entries should be sent to George Haenlein, extension dairy specialist, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, 19711.

Delaware winners will be announced in May. Prizes will be awarded at the time of the Delaware Dairy Princess Contest at the Delaware State Fair this summer.

Funk selected as Commission member by governor

LANCASTER — Amos H. Funk, master farmer and conservationist from Millersville, Pa., has been appointed to the Pennsylvania State Conservation Commission by Governor Dick Thornburgh and was recently confirmed by the Senate.

The State Conservation Commission is made up of 4 farmers, 2 urban members, the Secretary of the Department of Environmental Resources, the Secretary of Agriculture, the Dean of the College of Agriculture at Penn State University

Also, the U.S.D.A. State Conservationst and Director of the Pennsylvania Cooperative Extension Service serve as non-voting members.

The purpose of the Commission is to provide leadership and financial assistance to Pennsylvania's 66 conservation districts to help in their efforts in soil, water, and related natural resource conservation.

Mr. Funk was previously a member of the State Conservation Commission under the Scranton and Sheafer administrations.

Other members recently appointed were George Wolff, Lebanon County; Cliff Tinklepaugh, Susquehanna County; and Bill Lange, Lackawanna County. They will join two present commissioners, David Shepler, Fayette County, and Richard Walton, Columbia County, who were reappointed under the Shapp administration.

Wise shopping can hold down meat costs

YORK — Meat costs, especially beef, seem to take a larger chunk of the food budget every week. Joan Lamberson, home economist, offers some strategies to keep your budget in line and your family happy.

Study the specials in the newspaper. Meat prices do not rise and fall together. One week pork might be the best buy other times chicken, ham, or beef. If your budget allows, buy for future use when the prices are low.

Check the amount of service you are paying for. For example, it's usually cheaper to buy whole chicken and cut it up yourself than to buy parts separately.

Select cuts and types of meat and poultry that have the most lean for the money Compare meats on a cost per serving rather than a cost per pound basis

- Low per bushel costs

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS...

As wet grain enters the top of the bin, it flows into the upper drying chamber as harvested, with no need for a wet holding bin This upper chamber holds up to 4 feet of wet grain (2250 bushels)

Every seven minutes, a continuous flow auger makes a complete revolution around the upper drying floor drawing the dried grain into the lower cooling area

Hot air is introduced under the upper floor to dry the wet grain and to heat the surface of the grain that is distributed into the lower cooling chamber The air that is used for cooling the grain picks up heat during the cooling process This heated air is then used again in the drying process, saving on fuel costs

When not being used for drying, the bin will store 8500 bushels of grain

Md. Extension Dairyman

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — When USDA made projections on the dairy picture for 1980, made during the latter quarter of 1979, the outlook was quite favorable. However, several economic factors have since moderated this projection.

These factors are: large Commodity Credit Corporation inventories, higher interest rates and a mild recession affecting spendable income. These will moderate increases in farm milk prices and lessen dairy farm net incomes in 1980.

Total production during 1979 totaled 123.5 billion pounds, one percent or 1.61 billion pounds above 1978 levels. Milk production currently, and for the past few months, has been running two to three percent above a year ago.

This trend will probably continue through mid-1980.

The outlook for the second half of 1980 is questionable. There are two important issues that could affect this period.

Milk production will be influenced by whether or not demand for milk is maintained during the economic slowdown during the first part of the year and the resulting impact on milk prices.

Another important factor will be the effect of 1980 crop conditions on feed prices. Feed price increases will be tempered by relatively large supplies of feed grains and soybeans. However, this picture would change if an unfavorable growing season were experienced.

In summary, for all of 1980, milk production is expected to total about one percent above 1979's 123.5 billion pounds.

Perhaps one of the most important questions that concerns dairymen would be, "What milk prices are to be expected and how will this compared to input costs?"

In answer to the first part of the question, farm blend-milk prices are expected to increase by 9 or 10 percent in 1980, compared with about 14 percent in 1979.

The support price levels are tied to the inflation rate by the Prices Paid Index. This index reflects prices paid by farmers for commodities and services, interest, taxes and wage rates.

Whereas a 9 to 10 percent increase in milk would at first given an optimistic picture, the other side of the coin is not so bright. The cash outlay by dairymen for commodities, services, interest, taxes and wages is projected to increase by 12 to 14 percent in 1980, compared to an estimated 16 percent last year.

As might be expected, the largest increase will be in fuel, in the range of 30-40 percent. Other increases expected would be: fertilizer, 15-20 percent; interest, 10-15 percent; and feed, 10-12 percent.

On a brighter side, expect cull prices to remain at about $50.

What this means is that a squeeze will be put on profits during 1980. The dairy enterprise is still in excellent shape but extra efforts on your part this year are going to be necessary.

The key to the year depends on management, the best you have.

Now is the time to evaluate your management practices and make needed changes. When was the last time you had a forage analysis performed? Evaluated your entire feeding program?

Are there cows in the herd that are just getting by month to month? Now is the time to cull while the market is favorable.

Chickies Creek study to be reviewed

MANHEIM — Results of the comprehensive study of the Chickies Creek Watershed by Soil Conservation Service will be reviewed at the Association's annual membership meeting March 17, 7:30 p.m. at the Manheim Community Building, Manheim.

Severe flooding in the watershed and associated soil erosion problems prompted the study by the U.S. Soil Conservation Service several years ago. This at the request of Manheim Borough, where most of the flood damage occurs.

The SCS study, completed last year, cited several alternatives as possible solutions to flood problems in the watershed. Some of these alternatives, however, such as the controversial flood control dams were considered to have too low a cost to benefit ratio to be practical.

Another alternative proposed by SCS was clearing the flood plain and water-proofing property located in that flood plain. This alternative is now being looked at by the watershed association and Manheim Borough as one possible solution to the flooding problem.

More details on this particular recommendation by SCS will be under consideration at the March 17 membership meeting.

All persons interested in soil and water conservation within the watershed area are urged to attend this important meeting.

OAKRYN — Fulton Grange No. 66 met Monday, 8 p.m. at the Grange Hall in Oakryn with Master Thomas C. Galbreath presiding.

Members went on record in opposition to the proposed change in the method of taxing gasoline in Pennsylvania from eleven cents per gallon to a six percent sales tax which would add more to the already high price of gasoline and as the prices increases so would the rate of this tax.

The proposal would also increase the amount allocated to mass transit for large cities, depriving rural areas of their share of the gasoline tax to maintain their highways.

The Lecturer, Mrs. Howard W. Miller Jr., reminded members of the photo, art, music and talent contests and announced a plan for members to buy a brick, at a cost of $3. each, for the State Grange Headquarter's new chimney.

She suggested that people should examine their homeowner insurance coverage to be sure it is adequate. She also announced the next meeting of Oakryn Senior Citizens for March 19.

The youth committee held a code-reading class February 23rd. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Galbreath with 20 adults and 10 children attending. They will hold a game party in March.

It was decided to confer the first four degrees Saturday, May 17.

Several members reported on the first State Grange regional conferences. Mrs. Clifford Holloway Jr. reported the Women's Activities committee is collecting eye glasses. She also announced the following contests: cranberry recipes, stuffed toys, sewing, crafts and needlework which includes latchwork rugs, embroidery, crocheting and knitting. Mrs. Charles Wallace has details of the contests.

Peggy Galbreath said the State Grange youth camp will be held in July. Clifford Holloway Jr. said the State Master stressed membership and presenting good programs.

Mrs. William Taylor, a certified emergency medical technician, presented the program and showed a film "New Pulse Of Life" on cardiopulmonary resuscitation. Mrs. Taylor explained several techniques and Clifford Holloway III and William Taylor demonstrated methods of applying artificial respiration to victims of suffocation, heart failure, choking and drowning.

Miss Solanco, Diane Marie Michels, will present a program of vocal and guitar music at the next meeting, March 10. There will be a slide presentation on Ice Storms at the March 24th meeting. H.H. Haverstick Jr. will speak on land preservation at a Grange public meeting in April.

Open dating explained

YORK — The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture has required a nine day open dating of fluid milk since 1974.

The purpose of an open date on any perishable food is to encourage proper rotation by store personnel and consumers so that consumers buy and use the oldest products first.

Look for the printed or stamped open dates on the top of paper containers or the sides of plastic jugs. Milk processed on March 8, for example, will have a date of March 17 or 3/17. Either is acceptable.

Open dates don't tell you how long a product is good. Consumers and distributors determine that by proper handling practices. Joan Lamberson, home economist, recommends keeping dairy products away from light and storing them in the refrigerator at 40° F and below. Close the container immediately after pouring milk and return it to the refrigerator. Be sure to rotate containers, using the oldest first.

PennDOT's poor roads are last landfill barrier

BY CURT HARLER

BRICKERVILLE — The first in a series of compromise meetings on a proposed landfill in Penn and Elizabeth Townships was held last Thursday night.

Members of a citizens opposition and R.E. Wright, operator of the proposed landfill, both brought attorneys and professional engineers to hash out conditions for the landfill's operation.

Roads maintained by the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation may be the last hope for local residents to clip the wings of the proposed landfill along Mountain Road.

The landfill got the green light from Judge Paul A. Mueller, Jr. after being rejected by the zoning hearing boards of both townships.

But Mueller's decision gave the townships authority to mandate reasonable conditions on the landfill's operations.

Apparent agreement on some of those conditions was reached Thursday night.

But another meeting, tentatively scheduled for Tuesday, March 18, 7 p.m. at the Elizabeth Township building, will be held to gather facts on the road situation.

Alternate date for the meeting meeting is March 25 at the same location.

Trucks approaching the landfill would have to travel over PennDOT maintained roads Questions were raised whether roads like Mountain Road, a 12 foot street without a base, could handle the weight of a 10-wheel compactor trucks.

Bob E. Wygant, Lancaster County Maintenance Manager, told those at the meeting Thursday "I know PennDOT is not going to let those trucks run these roads."

"They will kill that road in six month's time," he said

Wright's attorney said he doubted whether PennDOT could ban such traffic from the road.

Wygant suggested both sides meet with PennDOT officials in Harrisburg, thus the March 18 meeting

Wright had offered to establish a fund of five cents per cubic yard of refuse brought into the landfill Funds generated would be used to repair any damage done to the roads.

Wright said he figured the assessment would generate $25,000 The fill will take about 2000 yards per day during 250 days annual operation

Residents had asked for payment of 50 cents per ton, or roughly 20 to 30 cents per cubic yard

Wright also objected to proposals that his firm build rights-of-way into the fill area

Calling it a "monumental financial undertaking," Wright said "We are unable to commit ourselves to do that."

Neither was any agreement reached on hours of operation for the fill.

The possibility of the landfill being used as a dump for hazardous waste of any kind, including radioactive, was batted about during the four hour meeting.

Wright maintained it would be impossible for his fill to accept any such materials because his permit from Department of Environmental Resources would not allow it.

Indeed, many of Wright's answers to residents' objections were based on prohibitions by DER.

Wright refused any compromise his plans to irrigate waste water on neighboring farmland.

Residents voiced concern that the area did not pass percolation tests for private lots.

They then asked that Wright be required to show long-term accessibility to sufficient land to meet his irrigation plans.

A proposed 200 x 1000 foot lagoon also drew fire Residents sought assurances it will be fenced completely to avoid becoming an attractive nuisance.

The problem of engineering specifics was deferred to DER. As the landfill still is in developmental stages, no written plans were available for discussion.

Wright objected to residents' proposal that a waterproof membrane be used to line the fill area. He said it was not practical given site conditions.

Wright's proposal basically would turn the area into a giant drain field that will bring water through that buried fill to the suface at a low point in the area Then it would be treated.

In addition to the collector drain system he proposed to establish recovery wells to depths below the fill to further reduce the water level and provide a backup system to assure collection of any contaminated water.

Wright said he was certain the system would work. He noted DER would shut the landfill down if anything were to go wrong.

He said the system would be designed to meet the worst possible conditions of rainfall, frozen ground, power failure, or wind

He said he would be required to post a bond which would eventually amount to about $300,000 to assure the fill area would be cleaned up after it was closed.

DER said those funds would not be returned to the owner until all potential pollution problems were cleared up. That time was estimated at 10 years.

Wright termed impossible a demand that R.E. Wright Associates post a $5 million bond, saying it would cost almost $5 million to get such coverage.

He said residents would have the assurance of DER's quarterly checkups to show the fill would not pollute nearby areas.

The checks would be made by Wright Associates. But Wright said he was willing to let township officials inspect the fill area at any reasonable time.

Neither Wright nor DER's Chief of Operations Frank Fair could offer a solution if some domestic wells should go bad.

Wright and Fair both maintained it never could happen.

Residents said they did not accept Wright's proposal that the surrounding area be

Farm Bureau disappointed at no-diversion decision

PARK RIDGE, Ill. — American Farm Bureau leaders have expressed "keen disappointment" at Secretary Bergland's decision that the U.S. Department of Agriculture will not offer an acreage diversion program for the current year to wheat and feedgrain producers.

Robert B. Delano, Farm Bureau president, said that the decision will cost grain farmers almost $1 billion in lost income and further weaken the market-price system.

The three million member-family organization had urged that sufficient cropland be removed from production equivalent to the 17 million metric tons of grain withheld from sale to the Soviets.

Delano said grain planting will begin soon in parts of the country and without a paid diversion, new crop grain will add to an already huge carryover of corn and wheat.

"This will send grain prices into a downward spiral in the latter part of the year, and force more grain into government hands," the farm leader said.

"We are keenly disappointed that the administration has so far failed to keep faith with farmers, after reassuring us that net farm income would not be allowed to suffer because of an embargo called for national security purposes," Delano concluded checked for refuse on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

They asked daily policing for trash blowing from the dump.

Wright said there would be no problem with haulers venting liquid waste on the way to the fill since he proposes to charge by the cubic yard rather than by the ton of waste.

He said charging by the yard would mean less profit for him but that it would eliminate the venting problem.

Wright said the landfill could begin operations within 12 to 18 months after it received approval.

The fill will be policed both by DER and the Water Quality Management bureau WQM would be responsible for the lagoon, irrigation of waste, and water treatment, DER for the rest.

Still looming large between today and any startup date for the landfill is the road question.

Both sides agreed further fact-finding was required Should PennDOT attempt to ban vehicles from the local roads, another court battle is almost certain to ensue

Wright's payment proposal would provide sizable funds in relationship to total township budget. But given current costs, township officials said they feared it would not be sufficient.

They learned $25,000 would buy about 1000 tons of blacktop, enough to fill 3000 potholes or build about a mile of 20-foot roadway.

In addition to the highway question, the townships and Wright also will need to reach agreement on the many other unanswered questions raised Thursday.

Ephrata clinches volleyball tournament

HARRISBURG — The seven-man volleyball team from the Ephrata Young Farmers Association captured the championship title at this year's Farm Equipment Exposition.

The volleyball games got underway on Friday morning, with eight teams in the competition. There were representatives from Solanco, Garden Spot, Northern Lebanon, Wellsboro, Big Springs, Mifflinburg, and Chambersburg, along with the Championship Ephrata team.

The game that everyone thought would be the play-off game never came to pass—where Ephrata would be playing Solanco for the championship.

In the first round of competition, Ephrata eliminated Garden Spot's team, 15-7.

In the closing minutes of the playoff game between Chambersburg and Northern Lebanon, the team west of the Susquehanna River surged ahead to win, 15-5. Chambersburg then beat Solanco to put the Lancaster County team out of contention.

Conservation plant program to be studied

HARRISBURG — "The National Plant Materials Centers Program of the United States Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service may undergo some changes in the future," said Graham Munkittrick, state conservationist "However, first we need to know what the public needs and wants and their suggestions for making the program responsive to these needs "

Munkittrick said SCS, in cooperation with other Federal and State agencies and through other arrangements, presently operates and maintains twenty-two Plant Materials Centers in the United States.

Each center develops new plants for conservation purposes in the geographic area it serves These plants are released jointly, with the States' Agricultural Experiment Stations and other State and Federal agencies, to commercial growers for production.

The PMC serving Pennsylvania is located near Big Flats, New York. Plants that have been released from the Big Flats PMC in the past include Tioga deertongue grass, Cardinal autumn olive, and Streamco willow Tioga deertongue grass is used for revegetating acid mine spoil, Cardinal autumn olive is used for wildlife food and cover, and Streamco willow is used for streambank stabilization.

The range of alternatives being studied for conducting a National Plant Materials Program vary from the continuation of the program as it is to transferring complete operations and management of the centers over to non-Federal entities.

Munkittrick said, "We need to know what the public needs and wants so we can explore methods of meeting national conservation plant materials needs."

Additional information concerning the Plant Materials Program may be obtained at the SCS State Office, Room 820, Federal Building, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania 17108, or by telephoning (717) 782-3446.

Munkittrick said that SCS welcomes all inquiries and expressions of views. The public comment period for this phase ends April 4, 1980.

Conservation comments due March 28

LEESPORT — The 60-day public review period of proposed U.S. Department of Agriculture soil and water conservation programs is half over, Mark Balthaser, chairman of Berks County ASC Committee, said this week.

"Or to put it another way, you have only about 30 days left in which to stand up and be heard concerning the future direction of the Nation's conservation program," Balthaser said.

Alternative strategies being considered include:

A Redirection Of Present Programs - Under this strategy, USDA would continue existing programs, but funds and personnel would be redirected to accomplish certain national conservation objectives. Cooperation would continue to be mostly voluntary.

Cross Compliance - Under this approach, producers would be required to apply effective conservation measures to qualify for benefits under other USDA programs, including commodity price support, low interest loans, cost sharing, and crop insurance.

A Regional Resource Project Approach - This strategy would direct USDA programs toward the more urgent and chronic regional resource problems. Federal participation would be available only for programs that contribute to meeting stated in national conservation objectives.

State Leadership - Under this strategy, states would assume leadership for planning and carrying out conservation programs. State and local governments would develop conservation programs for USDA approval, for USDA assistance to producers, and fund those activities that benefit mostly state and local efforts. USDA would fund activities that have national benefits but are beyond the interest of financial resources of the producer or state and local governments.

Regulatory Emphasis - This alternative would emphasize the use of back up regulatory authorities at the local, state and national level to carry out an effective national soil and water conservation program. This approach would be coupled with a strong cost-share and technical assistance program and low interest loans that would offer incentives for resource management.

Conservation Performance Bonus - This strategy provides incentives to producers who voluntarily apply and maintain conservation measures that meet USDA standards. It offers incentives to obtain benefits under federal programs but has no required cross compliance. Priority would be given to resource areas where present conditions pose the greatest threat to future food and fiber production.

Natural Resource Contracts - Under this strategy, USDA would offer to purchase erosion reduction, irrigation water reductions, and other outputs of conservation from producers. The public would, in effect, buy specific benefits from those who run, operate, or control private natural resources.

Balthaser said the proposals can be reviewed at the local ASCS Office, from 8:00 a.m to 4.30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

A public meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, March 19, 1980 at the Berks County Ag Center.

Written comments can be sent to the RCA Response Analysis Center, P.O. Box 888, Athens, Georgia 30603. Final date for comment is March 28, 1980.

Leon Riegel Tim Trayer Edgar Sheaffer

Mares eat oats...!!!

A reader asks:

Will feeding green oats cause abortions in mares?

Dr. Sheaffer comments:

Feeding green oats certainly could cause an abortion since green oats will foster the growth of molds (fungi).

However, I would like to point out the more common causes of abortions in mares.

Rhinopneumonitis or equine virus abortion probably causes greater losses than any one other disease. There are vaccines available from your veterinarian that will help prevent this disease.

Other virus infections include: viral arteritix, nearly always causes an abortion or death of the foal; equine infectious anemia, in its active stage may kill the foal resulting in an abortion; equine influenza, may cause a mare to abort.

Leptospirosis is a spirochete which infects the genito-urinary tract causing systemic disease and abortion. Tell-tale signs of this disease include fever, depression, loss of appetite and eye infection. Your vet can provide a "Lepto" vaccine that will provide protection against five types of leptospira diseases.

Bacterial infections which may cause abortions include: streptococcus, salmonella, listeria, and brucella.

Fungal infections are common where stables are damp and poorly ventilated. Lack of fresh air and sunshine can lead to an environment predisposed to fungal infections.

Feedstuffs that are green and not properly cured or stored are good mediums for fungal growth.

Toxic substances, such as chemical poisons, poisonous plants, fungal toxins, and bacterial toxins can also cause abortions to occur.

In over 90 percent of all equine twinning, one foal is either aborted or still born. Frequently both foals are aborted.

Starvation or less than adequate calories in a mares diet will terminate a pregnancy. Nutritional deficiencies, along with parasite infestations, usually cause abortions or the birth of a weak, sickly foal.

Specifically, the following nutrients are necessary in proper amounts for the birth of a live, healthy foal: vitamin A, vitamin D, vitamin E, calcium, phosphorus, iron, protein, and iodine.

A mare subjected to trauma may be a prime candidate for an abortion. The trauma can be related to a kick, fall, gunshot wound, cervical laceration, or an abdominal hernia.

And, for the fetus, a torsion of the umbilical cord may be fatal. One to four twists is normal. However if the cord is twisted over eight to ten times, the blood supply to the foal could be reduced so much that the foal would die and be aborted.

The mare in question probably aborted from fungal toxins present in the green oats. However, the other causes should considered and ruled out by your veterinarian in the diagnosis.

Remember, a good equine breeding program includes proper nutrition, good housing and management, and a thorough up-to-date vaccination and worming program.

There are nearly 8,000 FFA chapters in 50 states as well as Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Ram performance test deadline March 31

STATE COLLEGE — The deadline for the Second Annual Ram Lamb Performance Test is March 31.

Ram lambs born between September 1, 1979 and March 31, 1980 will be eligible for the performance test at the Department's Meat Evaluation Center in State College. The top performing ram lambs in each breed will be eligible for the Second Annual Performance Tested Ram Sale in early September.

The performance tested ram lamb program was initiated last year at the request of sheep producers across the state.

Producers and potential buyers will have the opportunity to compare each ram lamb's performance test record for weight of gain, loin eye area, fat thickness, type score and index.

Purebred breeders and commercial breeders in Pennsylvania are striving towards more efficient production of high quality products.

Performance testing is seen as one of the vital management tools which should be utilized by sheep producers to accomplish their long range goals of expansion, higher production and ultimately higher profits.

Careful selection of a new stud ram is a major part of overall flock management. The genetic potential of a flock can be drastically improved with a study having good composition of growth with the least amount of fat.

Approximately 87 percent of the genetic makeup of a lamb comes from the last three generations of rams used.

The ram lambs will be on an 80-day controlled testing period, starting in mid-May. Nomination forms can be received by contacting Robert Kimble, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, Meat Evaluation Center, 651 Fox Hollow Road, State College, PA 16801, phone, 814/238-2527.

The performance tested ram lamb program and sale is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the Pennsylvania State University and the Pennsylvania Sheep and Wool Growers Association.

Suppose our Creater would occasionally transgress his laws of gravity and positive & negative charge and freezing. What havoc and devastation, what waste of milk and frozen food, businesses broke and livestock thirsted. But many farmers transgress natural fixed laws and consequently have great havoc and waste — "air nitrogen" and earthworms and much better and much cheaper; waste of fuel with compaction; waste of time in harvesting in water logged soil; waste of protein and total feed. Our's has more and takes less. More explanation on page C-28 of last week's ad or we have reprints.

Ask for our new brochure "BOUNTIFUL CROPS WITHOUT CHEMICALS" before another new bug or sudden disease hits you like blue mold in tobacco. Acres were not harvested and the rest poor. A corn disease with a storm would cause a lot of hand picking again.

Stauffer urges Lancaster Co. farmers to speak out

LANCASTER — A 60-day public review period for commenting on the nation's soil, water, and related resources conservation programs will end on March 28, 1980.

"This nationwide effort, The Resources Conservation Act, will be a strong influence in determining where the priorities for conservation programs, including cost sharing for soil and water conservation practices, will be placed. Therefore, it is imperative that farmers in Pennsylvania and the Northeast voice their concerns prior to the March 28th deadline," says Aaron Stauffer, Lancaster County Conservation District Director.

"Too often our problems are overlooked in preference of programs that benefit Western states. Nowhere in the nation is there a combination of acres of prime soils in cropland, high concentration of animal units, and a dense population dependent on water that drains this intensively farmed areas as Lancaster County.

If farmers do not make their opinions known in this Resources Conservation Act, Lancaster County could stand to lose Federal technical and financial assistance for soil and water conservation. This would also have an adverse affect on our water quality."

A local public meeting where landowners and farmers can voice their opinions is scheduled for March 13, at 7:30 p.m. at the Farm and Home Center, 1383 Arcadia Road, Lancaster, PA.

Also, landowners are invited to send their written response directly to the United States Department of Agriculture via the RCA Response Analysis Center, P.O. Box 888, Athens, Georgia 30603.

Anyone desiring more information may contact the Lancaster County Conservation District at 299-5361.

Lancaster Farmers' Association slates Spring meeting

LANCASTER — The annual Spring Meeting of the Lancaster Farmers' Association will be held Tuesday, March 25.

The dinner meeting will begin at 7 p.m. at the Youth for Christ Center on the New Danville Pike, Lancaster.

Tickets for the event are available for $6 from Association board members. LFA also is trying to enlist a number of youth to help out as waiters and waitresses at the dinner.

Officers of the Lancaster County Farmers' Association for 1980 include: front, Esther Stoltzfus, treasurer; Earl Newcomer, president; back row, Linda Kreider, secretary; Rebecca Wivell, womens' committee chairperson; Charles Rohrer, vice president; and Donald Ranck, membership chairman.

Scheduled speaker at the meeting is Richard E. Denison, manager of Pennsylvania Farmers' Association Farm Management and Business Analysis Service.

At the Lancaster Association's board meeting held Tuesday night, lively debate centered around a PFA proposal asking the local board to approve a PACMA stock sale amounting to $300,000.

It was pointed out that Lancaster County is fortunate to have good livestock markets today but that that happy situation may not last forever. PACMA may offer a future outlet, supporters said.

In addition, they pointed out there are numerous other counties which do not have the markets today. In such areas, the PACMA program may present the only way farmers can hope to get better prices for livestock.

But the question was raised about the likelihood of someone going around the co-op to make an extra dollar.

Also, there was feeling that the only way a marketing co-op would be successful is if there were more government intervention in farmers' affairs, a situation similar to that existing today in dairy marketing.

The stock sale finally was approved by the board with one dissenting vote.

The board also entertained the possibility of establishing more advisory councils in Lancaster County.

Although advisory councils are one of the better vehicles for geting rank and file membership involved in association activities, Lancaster today has no more than four such groups in the County.

There was feeling on the board that a county with membership the size of Lancaster's could justify as many as 20 advisory councils, and that there should be

No-till cuts K leaching losses

NEWARK, Del. — Potassium leaching is a serious problem on sandy soils, but Delaware Agricultural Extension Station researchers have found that no-tillage reduces the problem dramatically

The researchers compared fields that were in continuous corn for eight years, from 1972 to 1979. Half the plots were plowed, disked, and cultivated, while half were planted without tillage in corn crop residues from the previous season

In each case, 200 pounds of potash were broadcast each year for the entire period. By 1979 there was about 60 percent more soil potassium at the zero-to-three-inch soil depth on the no-till fields.

Lancaster County Farmers' Association this year made "gain" in membership, with 1302 total members as of Tuesday night.

That gives the county two more members than last year.

Members will be surveyed on their feelings about poultry contracts.

Several members say they have been hurt on their contracts, and the Association will survey poultrymen to try to establish a concensus on the current poultry situation.

In other board action, the members approved salaries for several board members with special tasks.

They said they intend to bring by-laws up to date so they can regain their non-profit mailing status.

They made note of the Washington, D.C. tour March 12 and 13, and said the state legislative tour has been postponed until April 29.

April 30 will be Ladies' Day Out. On tap is a kitchen tour around the Strasburg area with each hostess demonstrating the commodity represented on her farm. A limit of 500 visitors has been set.

County directories were at the printer's this past week and should be sent to members in the next county mailing, the board said. — CH

LeAnn Yorkshires show grand champ at Classic

BY SHEILA MILLER

HARRISBURG — The grand champion open gilt at the first Keystone Classic all-breeds swine show and sale was exhibited by LeAnn Yorkshires, Lebanon. The show was held last Friday, in conjunction with the Farm Equipment Exposition, with the sale held the following day.

The grand champion Yorkshire gilt went on to be the top selling swine at the Saturday sale, bringing $550. The buyer of LLA9 Sandra 62-2 was Marlin Martin, Smithsburg, Md.

Martin also purchased the reserve champion open gilt, and the grand and reserve grand bred gilts. He said he bought them for his sons, Kenlin, Kevin, and Kraig, for their 4-H projects Martin, himself, is a dairy farmer, milking 40 head of Holsteins.

The reserve champion open gilt was a Duroc, exhibited and consigned by Clyde W. McConaughey, Jr. of R1 Smicksburg. Prospector RD Lady 5 3-10 was purchased by Martin for $420.

Foresters caution about fire hazard

POTTSTOWN — Usually early March is not the time to be worrying about forest fires in Pennsylvania However, because of the lack of snow and rain during this winter the danger of fires occurring is of great concern now to the Pennsylvania Bureau of Forestry of the Department of Environmental Resources

Ronald Langford of the Bureau's district office near Pottstown said at this time of year we usually receive sufficient rain and snow so we don't have forest fire problems, but this winter it is different

"We had no appreciable precipitation since before Christmas and the little we did have quickly evaporated due to the wind Many of the fire companies have been busy responding to wildfires in grass and brush the past couple of weeks, especially on weekends," he said.

According to Langford, almost every fire that occurs in our area is man caused and is preventable. The majority of fires are caused by people burning trash and brush.

"It's fortunate", said Langford, "that the weather has not been warm. The colder weather keeps people inside. Spring is the time everyone does their burning and some of their fires get out of control."

Langford said several of the fires in the recent weeks started from hot coals from fireplaces and wood stoves when the homeowner discarded the ashes outdoors.

Since the ground and fuels are really dry, the Bureau hopes this area will soon get some rain or snow. If not, this area may have some serious fire problems come late March and April.

The Bureau of Forestry is requesting everyone to be careful with outdoor fires. Don't burn unless it is absolutely necessary, and then only if you use the proper container, such as a burn barrel with a screen on top. Don't burn if the wind is blowing

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

On a warm day the other week, I ventured out with my pruning shears and trimmed the white and purple grapes It was a pleasure to work outdoors. However, when it is cold and blustery, then I find an inside task and try to keep warm It was for this reason that I opened the big camel-back trunk and began to sort through its contents What it contained was all the snapshots taken over the past thirty years

Before my marriage, I found the time to put photos in an album And, the last few years I've bought books and put the best ones in albums too But all those years in between were simply too busy for that At least I did mark names and dates on the back of them, so now my dining room table instead of being cleared and neat looking (except for school books at one end) is pile upon pile of pictures sorted into years I hope to put the best ones into books

Oh, the memories they renew - babies in cribs, first rides on the tricycle, playing with kittens, helping in the garden, washing calves and pigs for shows, plowing the first field, helping to build a milk parlor and so many more

Now I could finish the job in a few days if I didn't have so many other little jobs interrupting me

I want to bake a black walnut cake for supper, thaw some meat from the freezer, peel some onions and potatoes, fold some clothes and put them away and every now and then the telephone or doorbell rings to add to the time away from sorting hundreds and hundreds of pictures

But one of these days I'll be able to set the winter garden back in the center of the table and start on a new chore

Garden Spot farmers set pesticide meeting

TERRE HILL — The Garden Spot Young Farmer Program will sponsor a Pesticide Re-Certification meeting and discuss the control of problem weeds

The meeting will be held on Tuesday, March 11, at 7:30 p.m., at the Union Grove School.

Speaker for the program will be John Yocum from the Penn State Research Farm in Landisville. He will discuss the control of such problem weeds as shattercane, velvetleaf, johnsongrass, quackgrass, bur cucumber (wild pickle) and others in corn and soybeans

Yocum field tests the various herbicides available as well as new products not yet released and his results help formulate the recommendations found in the Agronomy Guide.

Those farmers who have a private applicators permit for restricted use pesticides and have not had them recertified yet can satisfy recertification requirements by attending this meeting.

Any area farmer is welcome. The Union Grove School is located near Terre Hill on route 625, two miles north of route 23. For additional information contact Donald M Robinson at 215-445-5041

Carter, Bush winners in straw vote

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell Tuesday announced the final results of the Second Annual Farm Equipment Exposition straw poll for offices of the President, U S. Senator and Pennsylvania Attorney General, Treasurer and Auditor General

"This is the closest thing you'll get to a real straw poll," said Hallowell.

"If the primaries were held today, according to the 356 voters in the three-day straw poll, George Bush and Jimmy Carter would be the Presidential nominees, Bud Haabestad and Pete Flaherty the Senate nominees, James Knepper and Al Benedict the Auditor General nominees, Leroy Zimmerman and Michael O'Pake the Attorney General nominees, and Budd Dwyer and Bob Casey the Treasurer nominees."

For President, George Bush won the Republican nod with 72, followed by Ronald Reagan with 55; John Anderson, 21; Howard Baker and John Conally, 20; Phil Crane, four; Gerald Ford, three (write-ins); Harold Stassen, two; Benjamin Fernandez, one; and Barry Goldwater, one (write-in)

For the Democrats, Jimmy Carter won the Presidential nod with 78, followed by Ted Kennedy with 44, and Jerry Brown with ten.

For U.S Senator, Bud Haabestad won the Republican nod with 45, followed by Arlen Specter, with 38; Ed Howard, 15; Andrew Watson, ten; Lewis Richards, nine; Francis Worley, seven; Norman Bertasavage, six; and Warren Williams, one.

For the Democrats, Pete Flaherty won with 62, followed by Peter Liacouras with 32; Craig Lewis, 18; Joseph Rhodes, nine; Tom Anderson and C. Delores Tucker tied with seven; Charles Buss, six; Ed Mevinsky, three; and John Logue, two.

For Attorney General, Leroy Zimmerman received 143 votes as the only Republican candidate For the Democrats, Michael O'Pake with 67 votes defeated Walter Phillips who received 43.

For State Treasurer Budd Dwyer received 119 votes as the only Republican candidate. For the Democrats, Bob Casey with 105 votes defeated Olga Woodward who received 49.

For Auditor General Republican James Knepper with 58 votes defeated Benjamin Wilson who received 44. For the Democrats, Al Benedict with 104 defeated Franklin Kury who received 39.

"Right now George Bush is my man for President," said Jersey breeder Sam Williams at the Equipment Expo. Obviously a number of other straw voters agreed, giving Bush the Republican nod. Carter took the Democratic vote. Representing Bush at the Expo was Russell Davis, right, Mechanicsburg.

$1 per shot available for Bangs vaccination

HARRISBURG — Brucellosis, also known as Bang's disease or contagious abortion, is still prevalent in Pennsylvania — for cattle producers, it can mean serious economic losses associated with calf crops, weak calves and breeding problems.

To the dairyman, it can mean abortion, weak calves and a loss of milk.

These are direct production losses. For the owner of a quarantined herd, the marketing restrictions and controls are also damaging, if necessary to eliminate the infection

Vaccination of calves for brucellosis has not been a common practice on farms in recent years, as Pennsylvania was declared brucellosis-free in 1972. But state and industry efforts are beginning to reverse that trend. Much more needs to be done.

Under recent decisions by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, veterinarians are reimbursed $1 for each brucellosis vaccination which reduces the farmers' cost for the service. About 100,000 calves were vaccinated under this program in the last year.

"Producers can have their calves vaccinated at little cost. We hope this will encourage routine vaccination of every calf crop," Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell said.

Two to six months is the proper age for dairy breeds and beef cattle as well. The strain 19 vaccine provides complete protection against most levels of exposure to about 70 percent of the vaccinated animals. The rest are protected to varying degrees.

The Brucellosis Technical Commission's 1978 report notes that the vaccine can be up to 95 percent effective in field situations where all cattle in the herd are vaccinated and exposure doses may be lower.

Cattle growers have had a hand in spurring the revitalization of brucellosis research in recent years.

Hallowell said vaccination can mean higher profits to herd owners in a clean state like Pennsylvania.

"There's a good demand for official calfhood vaccinates and they generally sell at premium prices. Some states require that all heifers beyond calfhood age entering from other states be official vaccinates," he noted.

Whether beef cattle producers or dairy farmers, all cattlemen should get behind the full scale vaccination and testing drive now in progress.

"After all," the Agriculture Secretary said, "the producer and his customers both have a lot to gain from disease control and eradication."

Two cattle meetings set for next week

DOVER, Del. — Delaware beef producers can participate in two cow-calf and feeder cattle management meetings, March 18 and March 19, at 7:30 p.m. at the Sheraton Inn in Dover.

The first session will cover topics of interest to the cow-calf producer. Included in the program will be a discussion on rations for brood cows using crop residues and poultry litter as a nitrogen source for cows. This will be presented by University of Maryland extension beef specialist Bill Kunkle.

There also will be a report on forage yields and performance of cattle on various kinds of grasses in studies by plant scientist Ken Bill of Delaware State College; and a discussion of breeding programs and management at breeding by University of Delaware extension livestock specialist Dick Fowler.

The feeder cattle meeting on the following night will cover systems for finishing cattle to market weight using crop residues, silage, pasture and grain. Health tips, use of feed additives and ways to get cattle started on feed will also be covered. There will be an opportunity for discussion at both meetings.

These meetings are sponsored by the Delaware Extension Service and are open to all interested individuals. There will be a $2 fee per person to cover costs.

Pomona Grange gets hee hawed

BY JANE BRESEE
Staff Correspondent

EAST ATHENS — Young Grangers frolicked through their vision of Hee Haw as a climax to an all-day gathering of the Bradford-Sullivan Pomona Grange, Number 23 at the East Athens Grange hall.

The curtain opened to reveal 15 hill-billies and hill-betty's dressed in bib overalls and flannel shirts lolling on real bales of hay. As the show progressed, the young people, with their own props improvised for special effects, impersonated their favorite Hee Haw characters.

Posing for the camera are Eileen Saxton and Wayne Pratt, both leading Hee Haw characters.

The young people who participated were: Mike Pratt; Almond Peters; Mike Roy; Linda .Pratt; Fred vonWolffradt, Jr.; Wayne Pratt; Louis and Janice Sturdevant; Carol and Ken Parmenter; Eileen Saxton; Silas and Louis Mills; Brian Harris, and Nancy Brackman.

Nancy Brackman, Youth Chairman, introduced the between-act talent. The Dale Mattocks family, winners of the first place prize of the family instrumental group contest at the National Grange Convention were first to appear. Other performers were a vocal quartette from Columbia Grange, Bob, Linda, Bruce and Kathleen Stoudt, accompanied by Alice Hall at the piano.

According to Mrs Brackman, the next event for the "Youth and Young Marrieds" will be a skating party at the Troy Skating Rink, March 17.

The Bradford-Sullivan Pomona Grange will begin the subordinate visitation program March 7 hosted by the Liberty Corners Grange. The visitation schedule will terminate with the Pomona Banquet in Wysox, May 23.

Comment period extended for food labeling

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The three federal agencies responsible for food labeling have extended the comment period from March 21 until April 21 on a plan to modify labeling requirements. The extension is in response to a request from over 20 food trade associations, according to Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Carol Tucker Foreman.

The plan, announced December 21, consists of tentative positions on a variety of food labeling issues. The positions resulted from public comment solicited in 1978 by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare's Food and Drug Administration, USDA's Food Safety and Quality Service, and the Federal Trade Commission's Bureau of Consumer Protection

In a January 25 letter to FDA, USDA and FTC, the 23 trade associations asserted that the 90-day comment period and March 4 and 5 public hearings imposed an unreasonable timeframe in which to respond to the complex issues involved.

They requested extension of the comment period to July 1, and postponement of the public hearing until at least May 1. The hearings will be held as scheduled.

Written comments should be sent to the hearing clerk FDA, rm 4-65, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, Md , 20857.

Notice of the extension was printed in the February 19 Federal Register

Farm Bureau sounds call to break inflation's back

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The American Farm Bureau Federation has called upon President Carter and the leaders of both congressional parties to take drastic action in an effort to break the back of inflation.

The AFBF board of directors has issued a statement calling for an immediate freeze on current federal spending coupled with an across-the-board cut of $30 billion in 1980 spending. The statement also asks that another $30 billion be cut by Congress in the budget now under consideration for the upcoming 1981 fiscal year.

Meeting in Washington, D.C., the Farm Bureau leaders noted that the country is "skating on the edge of economic disaster", with an inflation rate that is projected to reach almost 20 percent this year, "if drastic actions are not taken now."

The board members rejected mandatory wage and price controls saying they treat the symptoms rather than the disease, and called for a broad-scale attack on inflation. In rejecting wage and price controls, Farm Bureau noted that farmers and consumers are still suffering from the results of the last efforts to control beef prices.

Among some of the actions requested by Farm Bureau were a tax reform measure to encourage saving and investment to increase productivity; large-scale elimination of excessive federal regulation; and a realistic energy policy to reduce dependence on OPEC oil imports.

The Farm Bureau leaders said one of the most important and essential steps in stopping inflation is for the federal government itself to stop creating inflation through spending which leads to the printing of money to pay for deficits.

"What farmers really want," said Farm Bureau, "is dramatic action by the president and Congress, setting aside partisan politics for a few weeks, to convince Americans that their political leaders intend to do more than just talk about inflation. Significant cuts in spending might break the psychology of inflation."

Speaking for the board of directors, AFBF President, Robert Delano said that, "most farmers are willing to take their share of cuts in the Department of Agriculture budget if it is part of an overall reduction in the total federal budget."

Do you have squirrels in your attic?

MILFORD, Del. — Batten down the hatches and check the attic!! Attics are just the spot for squirrels to set up housekeeping. A good supply of moth balls scattered throughout the attic may discourage them, advises James McKeehen, agricultural agent, but it is far better to eliminate obvious means of entry.

Branches that overhang or are close to the roof should be cut back. Check openings and vents in the attic and seal up any that would invite entry. Cover these holes with ½" mesh or 26 gauge metal.

Any loose boards or shingles that look vulnerable to attack should be refastened or replaced with hardwoods. Place a wire mesh screen over chimney openings especially if the building is to remain unoccupied for some time.

If squirrels frequent your area and have gotten into houses in the neighborhood, you may want to trap them as a sound means of control.

Bait live traps with nuts, meat, peanut butter, sunflower or pumpkin seeds.

HESSTON FARM EQUIPMENT

Local farmer produces 138 bu. in national test

WASHINGTON BORO — Paul Harnish, Washington Boro farmer, achieved a yield of 137.7 bushels per acre in a scientific corn variety yield test conducted on his farm this past summer.

The test plot included 10 hybrids. Yields ranged from 88.6 to 137.7 bushels per acre. The plot average was 115.1 bushels per acre.

The test was part of the TST program, a nationwide testing program conducted by Pfizer Genetics Inc.

The program builds data on corn and soybean varietal performance and other crop management factors from more than 300 plots like the one on the Harnish farm. Each plot is managed under the cooperating farmer's usual crop program.

At harvest, yields are determined with electronic Weigh Wagons and data are entered into a computer. The data are processed, summarizing yield comparisons and other management information. This will be used to help farmers pick ideal hybrids for their specific programs, the ones that will perform best under local conditions.

The system utilizes a tester hybrid alongside each entry in the plot. That tester is a consistent performer for the area in which the plot is located.

In the Harnish plot, the tester was Trojan TXS113, a 113-day maturity hybrid. It ranged in yield from 113.1 to 127.9 bushels per acre.

Field variations due to differences in drainage, soil texture, soil pH, slope, past cropping, etc., cause this range in tester yield.

During six years of testing in some 1500 corn plots, agronomists have found field tester variations commonly ranging from 20 to 25 bushels per acre within a test field. The tester provides a means for comparing hybrid performance without the usual impact of field variability. It allows agronomists to scientifically project yields of hybrids planted in either good or bad spots in the test field.

The top yield in the Harnish plot was achieved with the Trojan TXS114. The TST yield report also projects that this hybrid would have had a final yield of 133.2 bushels per acre if the entire field had been planted to it.

The Harnish test plot was planted May 15 on silty clay ground under minimum tillage. He used 30-inch row spacing and fertilized with 183 pounds of nitrogen, 70 pounds of phosphorus and 24 pounds of potash per acre.

For weed control, Harnish appliied three pints Dual, three pints atrazine, and one-half pint Paraquat per acre. Toxaphene and Furadan were used at rates of 1.5 quarts and 12 pounds per acre, respectively to control insects.

Weed infestations were rated light. Insect problems were severe. The plot was harvested October 17.

Data from the Harnish plot and some 300 others across the country have been compiled and summarized. The information is being utilized by agronomists and seedsmen to tailor seed recommendations to each farmer's crop program and local conditions.

This is far different from other concentrates which merely supply crude protein levels or a limited number of amino acid levels. Come in. Ask us how you can adapt Farmix to pigs of all ages and sizes with these Master Mix products:

Farmix Starter Pac for pigs from 18 to 25 lbs. contains essential vitamins and minerals for rapid gains, plus milk and sugar products for added palatability.

Swine Breeder Pac fortifies Farmix rations with vitamins and minerals in the correct ratios and amount important to fast gains in sows, gilts, boars.

BUILT WITH FABRAL CORPORATION METAL ROOFING AND SIDING

Fabral roofing and siding panels are custom-cut to length according to job specifications. This saves on material, erection time and labor costs. Most panels can be overlapped in segments of 6" or 8" to minimize longitudinal cutting. Fabral panels are available painted or in natural galvanized steel or aluminum. Painted panels have a baked on finish that is weather resistant and one that will retain its original beauty for years.

FEEDING SYSTEMS DIFFERENT, YET ALIKE

We rarely see a cow anymore that is suffering from "hollow belly." Lots of goodies are available to keep them filled up. But keeping them full is only a small part of a successful, high producing feeding system.

What is a feeding system? It's simply the way that you, as a dairyman, make sure your cows are fed well – not only quantity of feed, but quality and balance of essential nutrients. Systems range from total mixed rations, to complex, individual, spoon feeding programs. And everything in between, including pasture and pseudo-pasture or drylot feeding.

The feeding systems I'd like to discuss are the ones that can be "fine tuned" for efficient production. Notice that I didn't say maximum production, although that term would come close to what we are looking for Feeding for efficient production will put more money in your bank account, regardless of production level.

It is difficult, though not impossible, to formulate an efficient dairy production ration using only thumb rules. Forages, which form the basis of all feed programs, can vary greatly in protein, TDN, minerals, and net energy. But they can be analyzed so easily now that it is foolish to guess when you can be sure.

For example, the criteria for putting together a complete ration of forage and grain mixed (TMR), includes analysis of the forages used, and then mixing the concentrates required to balance the ration together with the forage.

If cows are grouped, for whatever reason, a production level for the group should be established, usually 10 to 15 pounds of milk above the group's average so they can be challenged. The average body weight of the cows in a group must be known because the total dry matter intake must be correlated with both production and body maintenance.

Total dry matter intake can vary from 1.9 pounds per hundred pounds of body weight for dry cows, to 3.8 pounds for a cow milking 80 pounds - Cows milking over 17,000 pounds per lactation will require that 45 percent of their dry matter intake be furnished by grain or concentrates in the total ration. So, careful calculation and blending is essential for these cows to be adequately fed.

Some high producers will need access to an extra concentrate mixture, fed in the parlor or milking stable. This is blended using the same nutritional specifications as the complete ration, except for crude fiber, which will be under 10 percent.

Whether using a total mixed ration system or a conventional spoon feeding one, forages are usually fed free choice out of a bunk or some kind of rack For smart feeding of concentrates, you must have some knowledge about the amount of forages actually consumed.

Volume measurement is not very accurate – weight is much better for calculations, especially when the moisture level is known And, if moisture levels change, as they will several times each silo is emptied adjustments must be made in forage intake.

Now, all this points up the necessity for great care and concern in formulating a good, efficient ration Starting with what you have in the barn and silos, there are many choices of grains and concentrates to supplement it. The important consideration is that you take time to analyze, weigh, calculate and formulate for correct balance and reasonable cost. Then apply the master touch in feeding for top profits

No feeding system is best Select the one that suits your needs best. Like the hired man used to say, there's more than one way to skin a cat – or feed a cow

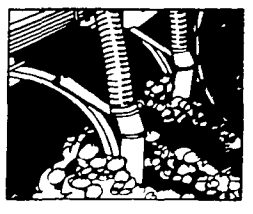
Switch fertilizer tanks to a Calumet vacuum tank with soil injector

Liquid hog manure can save thousands of dollars in commercial fertilizer costs. So it makes sense to preserve that value with good management

That's why Calumet recommends pairing our vacuum tank with a 2 or 4-shank Calumet soil injector Soil plow down retains about four times the nitrogen lost with surface spreading, plus reduces odor and runoff.



Stop in to see the full line of Calumet vacuum tanks — in capacities from 1180 to 4500 gallons and choice of two vacuum pumps And ask about the benefits of using a Calumet 2 or 4-shank soil injector

Grange asks paid diversion at ag committee hearing

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Testifying before the Senate and House agriculture committees this week, Edward Andersen, Master of the National Grange, expressed concern about the long-range economic effects on U.S. farmers as a result of the Administration's grain embargo. Andersen said he is particularly worried about corn farmers.

He said the Administration promised to isolate the grains, originally intended to be sold to the Soviets, and not allow them to be resold into the market until it could be done without adversely affecting market prices.

In the case of wheat the Administration took direct control which resulted in the recovery of the wheat market after an initial slump in prices.

To further stabilize the wheat market the Grange recommends permitting haying and grazing on 1980 wheat acreage, a 1980 paid land diversion or set-aside, that will result in a carry-over in 1980 of only 900 million bushel; and increasing the loan rate to $4 per bushel.

Andersen said the Commodity Credit Corporation which has assumed the contracted obligations from exporters for the feed grains has announced intentions of selling corn and soybeans to anyone at the pre-embargo price of $2.40 per bushel.

He said this action is not in keeping with the Administration's promise to isolate the corn from the market. He said another idea is to take into the farmer-owned reserve the embargo equivalent of corn. However, very little of that corn has entered the reserve.

Andersen said it is apparent the price is not right to induce farmers to place corn in the reserve because of the announced CCC resale policy and also farmers who participated in the 1979 farm program do not have sufficient on-farm storage facilities to store another year's production.

Andersen recommended a five step plan be taken to assure feed grain producers they will not be adversely affected by the suspension of grain sales to the Soviets: 1) grain covered by export contracts assumed by the CCC not be sold at less than $3.15 per bushel (or 150 per cent of the loan rate); 2) establish a gasohol feedstock reserve; 3) raise loan rate for corn to $2.40 per bushel and soybeans to $6 per bushel; 4) establish a soybean reserve as part of the farmer-owned reserve program and 5) a 15 per cent paid land diversion or set-aside be established as part of the 1980 feed grain program.

WAXY-CORN
CONTRACTS!

We still have plenty of waxy-seed available for the grain farmers and also Waxy Hybrids are great for cattle and hog feeders. In this area they should plant WAXY—MAIZ Hybrid seed-corn. College feeding trials show 10% better gains on 7% less corn with WAXY fed to cattle. We have several WAXY-MAIZ Hybrids for this area. They yield the same as yellow dent corn, but have higher energy starch. Hogs gain better and get to market faster on WAXY-MAIZ. We can show you how to boost cattle and hog feeding profits.

Vermont cattle accredited free of tuberculosis

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Vermont has been declared free of tuberculosis in cattle, U.S. Department of Agriculture officials report.

A certificate officially accrediting Vermont as being free of bovine tuberculosis was presented to Commissioner William Darrow at Montpelier, Vermont by Dr. Gerald J. Fichtner, regional director for veterinary services with USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service.

Fichtner noted that eradication culminates nearly 60 year's participation by Vermont in the cooperative state-federal program against the disease, and nearly 90 years of tuberculosis testing of cattle by veterinarians and federal or state officials.

Fichtner praised the state's intensive efforts over the years, noting especially the sacrifices required in the 1920's and 1930's when statewide testing of all cattle herd was undertaken. In 1932-34, some 3.7 million tests were made, which showed 139,000 animals with positive reactions—all of which had to be slaughtered, with state indemnities amounting to $8,476,000.

Recognition as accredited free of tuberculosis in cattle requires achievement of these standards specified in the cooperative state-federal eradication program:

No cattle found infected in the state within the past five years or more;

Continued surveillance by animal health officials;

State enforced laws and regulations governing livestock dealers;

Vermont is the 17th state accredited free of tuberculosis in cattle. The others are: Arizona, Colorado, Connecticut, Maine, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, North Carolina, North Dakota, Rhode Island, Utah and Wyoming.

Although much progress has been made, APHIS officials warn that tuberculosis is still a threat. Only within the past two months, a herd in Shelby County, Ohio, was found infected after meat inspectors discovered evidence of the disease in the carcass of a slaughtered cow. Animal health officials are now tracing movements of animals into and out of that herd to locate and eradicate any spread of the infection.

APHIS officials urge dairy and beef cattle producers to avoid losses from the disease by buying only cattle that have been tuberculosis tested and found negative; and by purchasing cattle only from herds that have no history of the disease for five years or longer.

Livestock reacting positively to tuberculin testing are sent to slaughter, where post mortem examinations are made for gross lesions indicating the progress of the infection. Carcasses may be condemned.

If minor signs are discovered, they may be passed for use only after specified cooking requirements. States and/or federal indemnities are paid to help compensate owners for losses.

Goat Assoc. meeting

PINE GROVE MILLS — The Pennsylvania Dairy Goat Association has announced their Spring meeting will be held on April 12 at the Pine Grove Mills Lions Club.

The meeting is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m., with a buffet banquet being served at 2:30 p.m. The all-you-can-eat turkey dinner is being prepared by a local goat club, with a cost of $3.25 per person.

Sidney E. Bernard, Extension food scientist from Penn State, will be discussing milk quality during the meeting.

IS OXYGEN CONTROLLED

*WHAT IS AN "ENERGY–PAK" OXYGEN CONTROLLED FEED STORAGE SYSTEM?

The 'Energy-Pak" 'Oxygen Controlled" Storage System includes a solid, steel reinforced concrete wall with a tough epoxy coating on the inside wall and a cone shaped concrete roof All access openings to the Silage Storage area are round and fitted with air-tight gaskets These round openings are easily clamped tight These features help to control and limit the amount of oxygen that comes in contact with the feed

In operating an "Energy-Pak", prime importance is placed on closing the silo after each filling and feeding operation Proper use of this system significantly reduces the oxygen content in the silo and results in a more ideal condition for maintaining the quality of the feed put into it

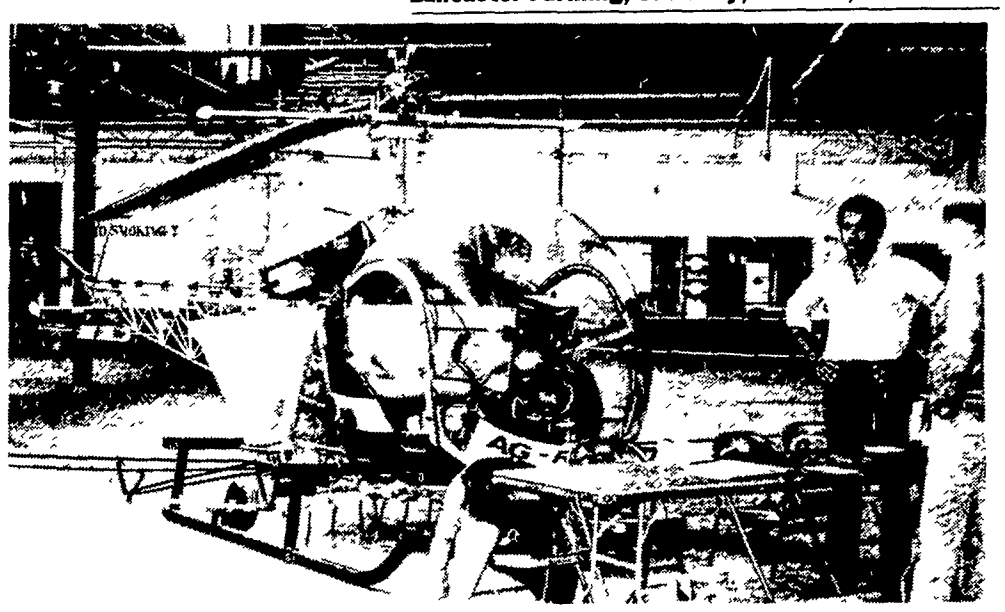
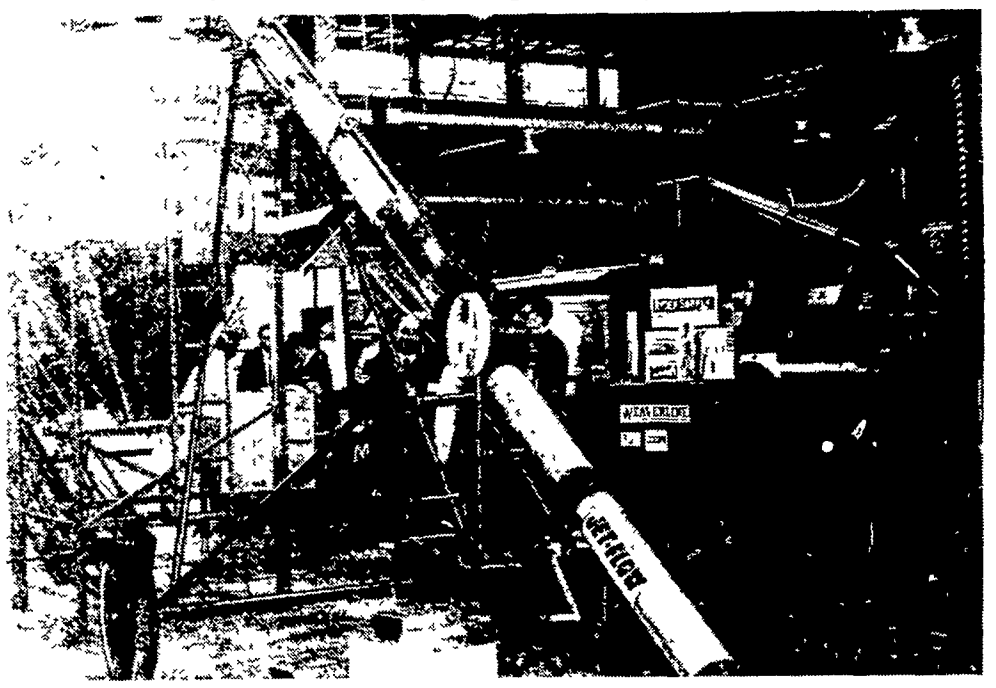
Glimpses at Expo '80

The Farm Equipment Exposition had roughly 170 commercial exhibitors, displaying their newest conservation ideas.



A helicopter maneuvered its way into the Farm Equipment Expo, held at the Farm Show Complex last Thursday through Saturday.



Although the major manufacturers were missing, the retailers took the opportunity to "sell" their products to interested farmers.

The new PDA logo and the country store displaying Pennsylvania products was a main attraction for many Expo visitors.

A few "non-farm" related exhibitors managed to squeeze in to the Expo, offering visitors personal portrait tee shirts, along with other wares.

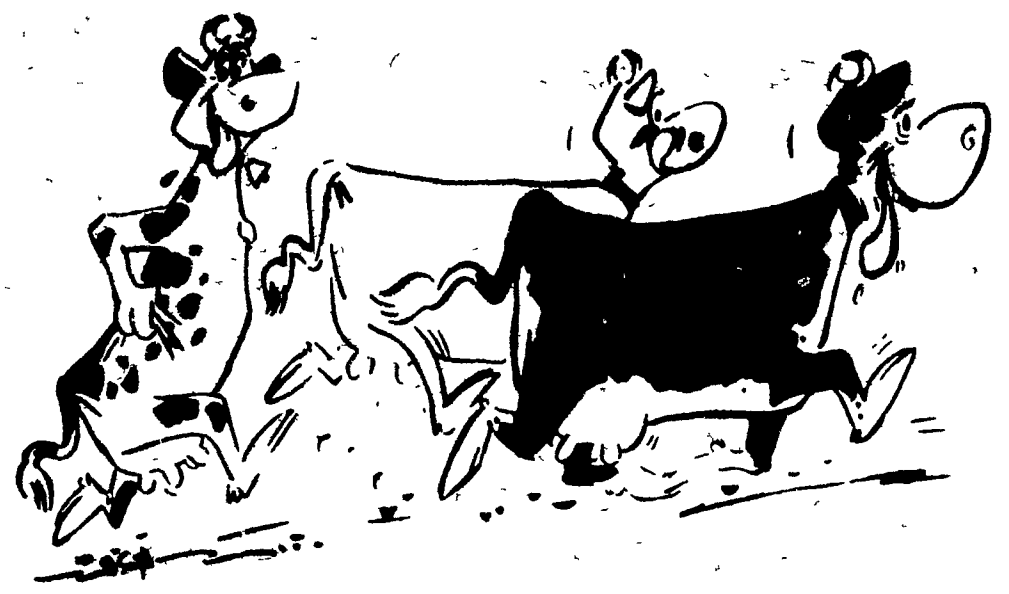
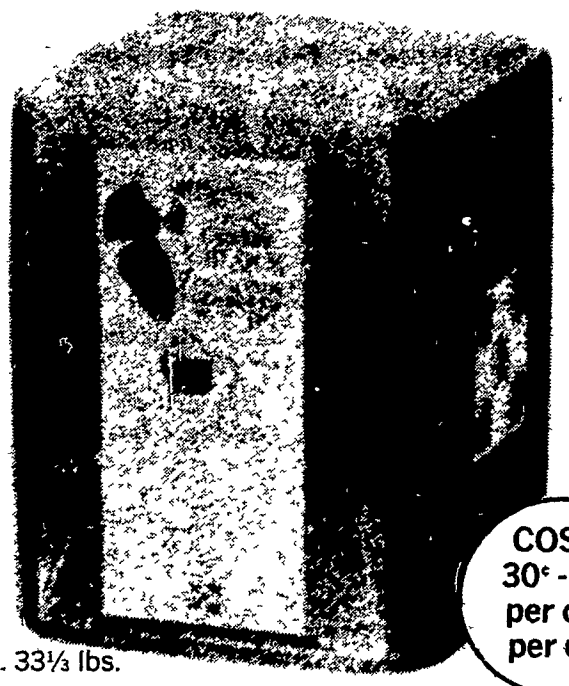
"EASY DOES IT" FEEDING PROGRAM FOR DRY COWS AND GROWING HEIFERS





Wgt. 33⅓ lbs.

COST - 30¢ - 40¢ per cow per day

NEW FRESHSTART D&H CHOW BLOCK

★ Let your dry cows and growing heifers feed themselves

Purina Research Tests Prove Superiority of D & H Chow Blocks

Many dairymen find it inconvenient to hand feed growing heifers and dry cows, especially on out-of-the-way pastures. As a result, many heifers and dry cows fail to receive nutrition required for most efficient and economical growth and development.

To help solve this problem, Purina Dairy Research scientists conducted extensive tests on various methods of self-feeding heifers and dry cows including liquid feeding and free-choice salt meal mixes. Final research data on feeding tests proved the superiority of D&H Chow Blocks both in feeding performance and cost to feed.

Heifers on D&H Chow Block tests consumed an average of 2 to 3 pounds per day and averaged 1.8 pounds gain per day considered an ideal growth rate for proper muscle and bone development.

NOTE D&H blocks are not to be used when high calcium legume hay is fed to dry cows

Check these reasons why you should feed D&H Chow Blocks

- Convenient to feed . . . easy to handle, store and haul.
- Saves labor . . . no daily hand feeding. When distributed properly, block lasts for days.
- Economical . . . eliminates investment in storage tanks or self-feeders.
- Contains intake regulators . . . a combination of appetite regulators limits intake to 2-3 pounds per head per day, which meet the animal's daily requirements.
- Contains proper mineral balance . . . mineral balance is at levels specifically required by dairy animals.
- Meets vitamin requirements . . . 2 pounds of the Block per head per day meets the total Vitamin A and D requirements for growing heifers and dry cows.
- Supplements roughages . . . adds the nutrition that growing heifers and dry cows need to balance good roughages.
